DEATH PENALTY FOR MRS. JUDD IS JURY VERDICT

"Trunk Slayer" Is Held Guilty by Panel on First Ballot.

SLIM WOMAN CALM ON HEARING DECISION

Sheriff Fears She Will Attempt Suicide; Appeal Is Planned.

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Winnie Ruth Judd was convicted by a jury tonight of the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi. The penalty is death by hanging.

Mrs. Judd heard the reading of the death verdict without the batting of an eye. Her habitual bandaging and unbandaging of her left hand with her handkerchief did not cease. She walked unassisted from the courtroom to her cell, staring out of countenance the persons who huddled in her path.

Judge Howard M. Speakman set February 23 as date for sentence. Mrs. Judd's counsel, Paul Schenck, Herman Lewkowitz and J. B. Vaversack said they would appeal.

Jury Takes 2 Ballots.

Although the jury was out three hours and 40 minutes, including an hour for dinner, only two ballots were taken. The first ballot, jurymen said, was unanimous for conviction of murder in the first degree.

The second ballot set the penalty, as juries finding first degree murder guilt must do in Arizona.

Mrs. Judd, calm when she passed from sight of a trailing throng of spectators, remained apparently unmoved when she reached her cell.

"She walked into her cell," said Sheriff J. R. McFadden, "and the first thing she did was look at herself in the mirror. She gave no sign of any impending breakdown, but I am afraid her emotions will give way later.

Suicide Attempt Feared.

"My greatest worry now is that she will attempt suicide before she again appears before the court for sentence."

Judge Speakman instructed the jurors they might return any one of six verdicts—all but two of which would confine her either in prison or an institution for the insane for from ten years to life.

The State demanded the death penalty—to be carried out on the gallows of the Arizona State prison at Florence.

"She is not so dumb," said County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews in his argument. "She has a tongue I think is used to lying.

Defense Asks Asylum.

"Gentlemen, if this is not a case that deserves the death penalty, then there never has been such a case in Arizona."

The defense refrained from asking the jury to return Mrs. Judd to normal status in society. Her counsel begged that she be "not sent to the gallows, or to a felon's cell," but "treated as a sick woman," and committed to an asylum.

Two sinister-looking trunks arriving in Los Angeles from Phoenix last October 19 gave up the dissected bodies of Mrs. LeRoi and Hedvig Samuelson, and resulted four days later in the surrender to police of Mrs. Judd, erstwhile friend of the slain women.

Mrs. Judd had attempted to claim the trunks in the Los Angeles Southern Pacific Railway station. She fled when railway men declined to release the trunks unles they were opened. Blood was seeping from them and there were disagreeable odors.

When the trunks were opened the same day, the bodies were found, to-

Detective Is Slain By Bank Robbers

Kansas City, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—P. P. Carpenter, 34, who escaped death as a soldier in France in the World War, met it today as a police detective in frustrating a bank robbery. Fourteen bullets from a submachine gun cut him down.

Tonight an intense police search was being made for his slayers and for the two men whose flight from the Mercantile Trust Co. was covered by the gunfire. Carpenter, who was gassed and wounded at Exermont as a member of the 140th Infantry, never had a chance today. He was shot from behind.

He and Edward H. Young, a fellow officer, drove by the bank before dawn, just in time to see Andrew Rollins, Negro janitor, seized by two men as he was opening the bank's front door. Carpenter, dashing from the car to attack, was slain.

Police Hunt for Sniper Narrows to Northwest

Chamois Bag and Goggles Only Clews as Tips Avail Nothing; Nervous Montgomery County Residents Keep Authorities Busy.

Centering operations in the northwest residential section, a relentless police hunt for the person or persons responsible for the slaying of Paul Riedel, 45-year-old baker, and the shooting of three other persons, was on last night. A number of leads were being run down.

The chamois bag has been identified by David Tlevsky, grocer, 4909 Wisconsin avenue northwest, as the one he was forced to put his money in Saturday night when held up by the goggle-adorned man. The bag and goggles were found not far from Tlevsky's store.

Inspector F. S. W. Burke, head of the detective bureau, led the force of approximately a score of detectives who worked in the northwest district, especially near the Maryland line in the quest for the slayer. The motorcycle and automobile patrol of uniformed policemen ordered after the terroristic shootings of the last several days continued to cruise the streets.

Early yesterday police received what appeared to be important information. Working intensively, they rounded up a suspect who was said to live near Bethesda, Md. Questioning of this man, whom police refused to identify, eliminated him as a suspect, it was said. It was not until yesterday afternoon, however, that the man was released.

DIRECT AID MEASURE ATTACKED IN SENATE

Democratic Substitute Is Pressed by Black, With Vote Due Soon.

(Associated Press.)

Confident they can beat proposals for direct Federal aid to the jobless, Republican leaders listened quietly yesterday to criticism of the $375,000,000 LaFollette-Costigan bill and praise of the $750,000,000 Democratic substitute.

Senator Black, Democrat (Alabama), said the provisions of the $375,000,000 measure calling for its distribution by a Federal board would contribute to bureaucracy and would send "snoopers" into the homes of citizens.

Meanwhile another relief measure—the proposal to distribute 40,000,000 bushels of farm board wheat to the needy—was stranded in the House.

It had already passed the Senate, but the House agriculture committee voted against it, 14 to 9, Chairman Jones of the committee indicating that some of his group felt the wheat should be bought from the farmers.

The sponsors of the direct aid bill, Senators LaFollette, Republican (Wisconsin), and Costigan, Democrat (Colorado), took all of last week in urging passage of their measure and the opposition expressed itself for the first time in the words of Senator Black.

He said "The strong assistance of the Federal Government is needed" in relief efforts, but advocated the bill sponsored by Democratic leaders calling for $375,000,000 for loans to States for relief and an equal sum for road construction.

A vote on both relief bills is expected about the middle of the week and meantime several new substitute measures are being considered. There has been some discussion of a compromise on a $50,000,000 relief bill.

Black contended the Democratic bill, of which he is coauthor, would not only provide relief, but through its road funds would give work to more than 1,000,000 men for over a month.

He centered his attack on provisions of the La Follette-Costigan measure for supervision of the relief expenditures by a Federal board and the chief of the Children's Bureau.

This organization, he said, "would turn the last vestige of State control over to the home to a bureau at Washington."

Black said the $375,000,000 bill had no limitation on the amount that could be used for administration and asserted money "supposed to be used to feed the hungry would go to those in Washington hungry for office."

The measure also would permit all funds to be withheld from a State, he said, "on the whim of a bureau chief in Washington."

Black read a letter from Chairman

Wisconsin Conservative G. O. P. Backs Hoover

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Support for President Hoover's candidacy was voted in a resolution adopted at a State conference of Wisconsin Conservative Republican leaders here today. The conference also selected seven delegates at large to be presented at the April 5 primary.

The conference in a resolution urged that the Wisconsin delegation to the National Republican Convention next June, "use every honorable means to have included in the National Republican platform of 1932, a clear cut declaration on the subject of prohibition and the eighteenth amendment, to the effect that the people of the United States be given the opportunity to express their opinion, divorced from all other political subjects, on the question of prohibition."

KNOX ASSERTS FAITH WILL CURE HOARDING

(Associated Press.)

An intensive campaign—spread Nation-wide—to bring hoarded money back into circulation by "restoring the confidence of Americans in America" was outlined yesterday at the White House by the man who will head it, Col. Frank Knox, of Chicago.

Sitting with legs crossed in an office adjoining that of the Chief Executive, he announced his ideas for "a quick campaign done against the clock and going down to the grass roots of every community."

He gave the following diagnosis of present difficulties:

"Much of our trouble seems to be a national headache induced by eyestrain from looking across the Atlantic. We can't remedy conditions in Europe, but we can remedy them here."

The Chicago publisher estimated that 92½ per cent of the articles produced in this country are consumed in the domestic market, with only 7½ per cent shipped abroad.

"If necessary," he said, "we could toss this 7½ per cent out of the window and still lead the world back to prosperity. If once we restore confidence at home, 90 per cent of our troubles are over."

Meanwhile other agencies for national relief moved forward. Directors of the $2,000,000,000 Reconstruction Finance Corporation conferred with members of Congress from the agricultural States and held an extended parley with Secretary Hyde on agricultural loans.

Col. Knox, in outlining plans for his campaign, said telegrams already had been dispatched to every State looking toward the choice of "aggressive individuals who have the confidence of the people" to head each

20 Ballot Judges Seized in Illinois

Chicago, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Twenty men who served as judges in the last election in Illinois' Eighth Congressional District were arrested today on charges of fraud and released on $2,500 bail each.

The arrests were made on writs of attachment issued two weeks ago and detectives were reported searching for more election officials. The election was bitterly contested by Peter C. Granata, Republican, and Stanley Kunz, Democrat, with Granata declared winner by a narrow margin.

Kunz instituted a recount which Granata refused to recognize and which resulted in Kunz' claim that he was elected. The House elections committee has been asked to rule on the matter.

The hearing of the arrested judges was set for February 15 by County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki. The officials face a possible maximum sentence of one year in the county jail for each election in which irregularities are found.

Canadian Government Pay Cut Ten Per Cent

Ottawa, Ontario, Feb. 8 (U.P.).—A 10 per cent reduction in the salaries of ministers of the crown, civil service employes, members of Parliament and senators was announced in the House of Commons tonight by Prime Minister Bennett.

The reduction will save the Canadian government $8,000,000, it is estimated, and is a move toward balancing the budget.

SMITH DENIES HIS CANDIDACY FOR PRESIDENT

Says He Will Not Seek Delegates or Make Any Campaign.

CALLS ON ROOSEVELT AFTER VOORHIS RITES

"Purely Social," However, He Asserts; Disclaims Plan to 'Rule or Ruin.'

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Alfred E. Smith pounded his desk today and said he is "not a candidate" for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"Nothing in the statement I gave out for this morning's papers can be interpreted as an announcement that I am a candidate," he told 20 newspapermen in his skyscraper office.

"All I said was that I would accept the nomination if the convention should choose me.

"Now a candidate is a man who seeks the support of delegates and makes a campaign before the convention. I'm not going to do either. I have no headquarters and I'm not spending any money.

"I don't believe any one was ever nominated who didn't make a pre-convention campaign."

Wants to Be Manly.

He took a cigar from his mouth and pointed it toward a pile of newspapers on his mahogany desk.

"They all interpret the thing in a different way, but this is the one I like best."

"That," said the titular head of Democracy, "is what I'm trying to do—the manly thing."

The former governor wore a high silk hat and formal morning dress as he appeared at his office. He had just come from the funeral of John R. Voorhis, Tammany's 102-year-old grand sachem.

All the leaders of New York Democracy had been there. Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose campaign manager claims he will be nominated for the Presidency on the first ballot, sat in the front row of the church.

After the funeral he remained seated, while one after another of his political friends paraded by him.

Whispers to Roosevelt.

Mayor James J. Walker passed without looking at the governor. John J. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, was among those who stopped to shake hands. Then came Mr. Smith. He laid his hand on the governor's arm, bent over and whispered something in Roosevelt's ear.

"He said 'How do you do?' just as any one would," the governor explained later.

When Mr. Smith appeared at his office, 45 minutes late for his appointment with newspapermen, he was asked what the governor had said to him.

"Did you go?"

"Yes, I did."

"Did you talk politics?"

"No, it was purely social. We didn't

WORLD CRISIS SEEN IF ARMS PARLEY FAILS

Simon Asks for Slash as Tardieu Holds Fast to Police Plan.

THESES IN HARMONY IN MANY INSTANCES

Gibson Will Give American View Today; Revises His Address.

Geneva, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Solemn warnings that the failure of the disarmament conference would bring about a world disaster were issued today by the spokesmen of Great Britain and France, but they differed about the way to safety.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, said reductions in arms were needed. Andre Tardieu, French war minister, averred that international peace must be guaranteed by converting the League of Nations into a strong military power.

Opening the general discussion which will define the task and possibilities of the conference, the British foreign secretary advocated the abolition of submarines and gas warfare and cast his country's vote for arms reductions as provided in the draft convention prepared for the delegates.

France's Fears Explained.

M. Tardieu, following up the formal presentation of the French proposals Friday, explained his nation's fears and eloquently advocated the exchange of mutual pledges of assistance and the establishment of an international police force.

In general lines the British and French theses appeared antagonistic, but in many particulars they were agreed or similar in nature.

Both governments accepted the draft convention as the basis of the conference's work and announced support of any scheme of limitation or reduction in harmony with its principles.

Both favored the banishment of gas and chemical warfare and restrictions on the use of offensive weapons which are especially dangerous to civil populations. But the Briton vigorously asserted that armaments are a delusion in the search for security.

Gibson Will Speak.

Tomorrow the delegates will hear the American and German declarations presented by Hugh Gibson, chief of the American delegation, and Chancellor Heinrich Bruening. Mr. Gibson had a long telephone conversation with Washington tonight during which the final draft of his speech was approved.

The speech he is to deliver tomorrow was dictated over the phone so that Mr. Hoover and Mr. Stimson might read it over. As a result of the remarks by Sir John Simon and Andre Tardieu today Mr. Gibson's address was revised somewhat and will be a little longer than he originally had intended.

The American delegation had worked hard on Mr. Gibson's speech all evening and approval from Washington did not come until late at night. Then delegates and clerks had to put it in shape for translation into French and make hundreds of copies.

The American delegation's reaction

Washington Essay Contest Praised by Mrs. Donaldson

Head of G. W. Faculty Women Lauds Post for Participation in Bicentennial Celebration; Cites Services of First President and Urges Entrance.

The service of George Washington to his country was emphasized in a statement made yesterday by Mrs. John Donaldson, chairman of the faculty women of George Washington University and chairman of the bicentennial committee of the Columbia Women of that university, praising The Post Washington Essay Contest.

Mrs. Donaldson lauded The Post on its participation in the bicentennial celebration through its contest for the school children of this vicinity. "In helping the young minds of today to focus upon the many estimable qualities and unselfish devotion to public service of America's first and greatest patriot and statesman, The Post is doing a genuine service to the community," declared Mrs. Donaldson.

"Service," continued Mrs. Donaldson, "was the keynote of Washington's life; such continuous, varied and disinterested service as has hardly been matched by any other one individual in any part of the world and in any period of history. His own plans and desires were constantly put aside in the interest of his country. Whether is was to help neighbors improve their lands and produce better crops, to organize and equip men for battle and lead them to victory through his own skill and bravery, or to legislate wisely and execute justly the laws needed to unify a heterogeneous mass of individualists struggling for freedom and self-expression, he gave generously of his time, courage and ability.

"George Washington's entire life stands out as a model of such patriotic virtue as may well be emulated, in however minute degree, by the younger generation of today, and in that emulation lies the world's hope of recovery from prevailing ills. One looks expectantly through the gray vista of economic and political mist to the schools and colleges through which the youth of today may emerge with high ideals and a new courage and wisdom born of an awakened ap-

SECRETARY STIMSON AND DEBUCHI CONFER

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The United States will oppose any revision of the Nine Power Treaty seeking to "neutralize" commercial centers in China, it was learned authoritatively here yesterday.

This proposal was put forward by a spokesman for the Japanese foreign office who recommended the revision of the treaty by which the administrative integrity of China is guaranteed so as to permit a zoning arrangement of the important cities in China.

Under the Japanese plan all these cities would be bordered by a zone 15 to 20 miles wide from which all Chinese military influence would be excluded and policed by an international force of soldiers, as in the International Settlement at Shanghai.

Secretary Stimson announced yesterday he had not been officially informed of the proposal, and Japanese Ambassador Debuchi denied that his visit to the State Department yesterday was in connection with this move.

Opposition to Be Made.

Opposition to the proposal if it is ever officially conveyed to the American Government will be derived from two sources—first, because the United States regards any tampering with the Nine Power Treaty as the first step in the eventual dismembering of China; second, the Japanese government itself is already on record as being opposed to the very plan which now emanates from Tokyo.

Some doubt was expressed of the official character of the Japanese proposal, as it was freely discussed in authoritative circles here that the same irresponsibility which has heretofore characterized some of the statements of this same spokesman might have governed this latest proposition.

The United States is still maintaining the same reserve with regard to all future steps of a conciliatory character toward the two combatants. Recent events in the Shanghai phase of the war, it is hoped, will bring about a more conciliating temper in the Japanese official circles. In addition to the military demonstration of Chinese strength in the Chapei district the continued drain upon Japan's economic life of the Chinese boycott will soon begin to play an important part in the making of peace.

Some Surprise Expressed.

Some surprise was expressed in authoritative circles at the exaggerdated nature of the Japanese "neutralizing" proposition. The Japanese

Japanese Disarm Police in Tientsin

Mayor Says He Was Forced to Sign Agreement; Troops Leave.

Tientsin, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A detachment of Japanese soldiers, fully armed, marched into the heart of the old native city today and demanded to be allowed to enter the Chinese military police station.

The sentry on duty refused to let them proceed. Whereupon they surrounded the station, disarmed the police, and occupied the whole neighborhood.

The troops were withdrawn after the Chinese mayor and the Japanese consul signed an agreement in which the Chinese authorities engaged themselves to keep order in the area. The Chinese mayor said he signed the paper under duress. After the signatures had been affixed the Japanese returned arms that had been seized from the Chinese soldiers. The clash increased the uneasiness apparent in Tientsin during the last few weeks.

Washingtonian to Back Atlantic Flight in May

Charlotte, N. C., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—William Ulbrich and Peter Redpath announced here tonight that they had completed plans for a one-week round-trip flight between New York and London in May. The pair arrived here today from New Orleans with G. J. Sauerborn, their manager, and said they would take off for New York tomorrow in the monoplane in which the ocean flight is to be made.

Sauerborn said Henry L. Prichard, of Charleston, W. Va., and Thomas Wilson Smith, of Washington, are associated with him in sponsoring the flight.

LITHUANIA RELEASES MEMEL'S PRESIDENT

Remains Under Surveillance Pending Charges; League Action Is Delayed.

Kovno, Lithuania, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Herr Otto Boettscher, president of the council of Memel, whose arrest by Lithuanian authorities Saturday provoked indignation in Germany and threatened repercussions elsewhere in Europe, today was set at liberty. He remained under supervision of the Lithuanian military commander, however.

(The city of Memel is regarded as "an international city" under the supervision of Lithuania as a result of a League of Nations investigation. It is near the German border and much of its population is of German descent.)

Simultaneously it was announced that Herr Boettscher would be charged before the judiciary with holding clandestine relations with a foreign power and attempting a revolt against an act of government.

The foreign power in the indictment, of course, was Germany, from which Herr Boettscher had returned just before his arrest. "The revolt" apparently referred to his refusal to resign when called upon to do so by the Lithuanian Governor. Another member of the Memel Council has been ordered not to go outside the boundaries of his parish.

Meanwhile the Lithuanian Governor has invited the president of the Memel Diet to suggest a member of the majority party to replace Herr Boettscher as president of the council.

Berlin, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—The German envoy at Kovno, Hans Moraht, today lodged a formal protest with the Lithuanian government against what he termed brutal violation of the Menel statutes in the ousting of President Otto Boettscher.

Dispatches from Menel revealed that the Lithuanian government of that territory had charged Herr Boettscher with exceeding his authority by going to Berlin without the government's knowledge to negotiate the exportation of cattle to Germany. The president has now been sent home on parole.

President von Hindenburg and Chancellor Bruening's office were being bombarded with petitions from various patriotic societies, notably the Steel Helmets, to take a strong hand against Lithuania, charging her with destroying German influence in the Memel territory on the thinnest of pretexts.

Geneva, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Dr. Heinrich Bruening had hoped to sit as the German representative at a special league council session on the Memel question, but discussion of this issue was put off today because of the absence of Dr. D. Zaunius, Lithuanian Minister for foreign affairs. He went to Kovno when the Memel situation became acute and will not return before Wednesday.

Gen. Crowder Is Gravely Ill in Hotel at Havana

Havana, Cuba, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Maj. Gen. Enoch H. Crowder, retired, 72, whose distinguished career with the United States Army spanned the Indian wars on the Western plains and the World War, was gravely ill in Hotel Nacional here today.

Gen. Crowder was suffering from a "general breakdown," it was learned at the presidential suite at the hotel where he was ill. Frank Steinhart, president of the Havana Electric Railways and a close personal friend of the general, who has been with him constantly since he was put to bed, said, "It is a question of days or hours." It was learned the general was unable to retain any food.

Battlefront Shelled as Planes Drop Bombs on Shanghai.

FIRST TOKYO TROOPS REACH NEUTRAL ZONE

Will Drive Chinese Back at Least 20 Miles From City, Is Reply to Briton.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai (Tuesday), Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Japanese hammered the rain-washed ruins of Chapei again today in a new attack on Chinese strongholds in Shanghai after a furious assault on the forts of Woosung had been turned back by the raking fire of Chinese machine guns.

They shelled the battlefront here with light artillery, while Japanese airplanes dropped bombs and ripped machine gun bullets into the area already torn by eleven days of intermittent bombardment and ravaged by fires.

Japanese soldiers were rushed into Chapei to reinforce the bluejackets already there.

Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese Minister to China, said the offensive would continue until the Chinese were driven back at least 20 miles from Shanghai. That was his reply to the proposal of Vice Admiral Sir Howard Kelly, commander of the British naval forces, for an immediate end to the hostilities. The proposal had been accepted in principle by the Chinese.

Race Toward Chapei.

The first contingent of Japanese troops was landed at the International Settlement this morning.

The soldiers stepped ashore from two steamers at the docks of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha Steamship Line in the Japanese-occupied Hongkew section. One detachment after another raced toward Chapei in motor trucks.

Three truckloads of Japanese army and navy officers led the way for approximately 600 sturdy and smartly attired regular soldiers, all in fighting trim, landed before noon.

The first phase of Japan's combined bluejacket and army drive along the 16-mile Shanghai-Woosung line was completed this morning with the Chinese positions still intact, despite direct assault and incessant battering by field pieces and 6-inch naval guns.

Japanese Fail in Plan.

Once again the Chinees had demonstrated one of the great military lessons of the World War—that machine gunners, hidden in holes in the ground, can take heavy bombardment and then rise up to place streams of bullets between themselves and the assaulting lines of the enemy.

The Japanese failed in their plan to reduce the Woosung fortresses and then sweep on toward Shanghai, where they might pinch the Chinese army against the barbed wire boundaries of the International Settlement.

Woosung and Chapei Center.

The major movements of the Japanese attack that got under way yesterday and continued until the guns were stilled, shortly after 1 a. m., were centered at the vilage of Woosung and at Chapei, in Shanghai.

Chinese headquarters in Shanghai announced that a Japanese assailing force of 500 men had been mowed down by machine guns on the Chapei front.

According to the Chinese version of this bit of the action—a version that was denied at Japanese headquarters—the attackers were led into a trap, where machine gunners, safe

$14,500,000 FOR WAR APPROVED IN TOKYO

Japanese Still Withhold Data on Number of Men Sent to Shanghai.

Tokyo, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A government spokesman revealed today that the cabinet has approved a special appropriation of 40,000,000 yen (about $14,500,000) to cover the activities of the army and navy in the Shanghai area and certain small operations in Manchuria.

The privy council must approve this appropriation, but it was taken for granted no trouble would be encountered there.

The government still withheld information about the exact size of the force that is being sent to Shanghai and the scope of operations contemplated in that area.

The Japanese suggestion, advanced yesterday, that neutral zones be established around the chief commercial cities of China, should convince the powers, the government spokesman said, that Japan "has no intention of attempting any measure of control in China proper except in concert with the other powers."

Matsuoka to Go to Shanghai.

The government indicated its desire of eliminating misunderstandings between the Japanese and the other foreign powers at Shanghai by announcing that Yosuke Matsuoka, a member of the House of Representatives and former vice president of the South Manchurian Railway, would go to Shanghai shortly as the personal representative of Premier Suyoshi Inukai and Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa.

Before leaving Tokyo M. Matsuoka will confer with the American, British and French ambassadors. It was announced that his mission was to create a closer liaison with the Shanghai representatives of the powers.

Reports have been current in diplomatic and foreign office circles that United States Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes was unusually outspoken when he and the French and British Ambassadors called at the foreign office February 4 to receive the Japanese reply to their peace proposals. Mr. Forbes declared today he was unaware of having said anything which might be construed as questioning the good faith of the Japanese government. It had been rumored he took a strong position regarding the foreign minister's assurances concerning the use of Japanese forces within the Shanghai area.

Ask for Concession.

In connection with the Japanese proposal that neutral zones be established around Chinese commercial centers, a government spokesman said Japanese residents at Shanghai had been asking that a special Japanese concession be set up there. The cabinet, the spokesman said, opposed the Shanghai proposal, believing security and stability were to be obtained by laying out a demilitarized neutral zone around the city.

The spokesman answered American criticism of the shelling by the Japanese of the Woosung forts by saying it was a military necessity, as it would be dangerous for troop ships to essay the Whangpoo narrows so long as the forts commanded the mouth of the river.

Vice Admiral Sankichi, former commandant at the naval staff college, was appointed to replace Vice Admiral Gengo Hyakutake as vice chief of the naval staff. Admiral Hyakutake will take Admiral Takahashi's position as commandant of the naval staff college.

U. S. WILL OPPOSE PLAN OF JAPANESE

attitude as expressed yesterday at Tokyo is in striking contradiction with the terms of a note submitted to Secretary Stimson by Japanese Ambassador Debuchi last November 5. In that note the Japanese government announced:

"It will be recalled that soon after the close of the Sino-Japanese War of 1884-1885 a policy looking to the eventual partition of China appeared to be gaining ground in some quarters of the world. In the denunciation of such a policy the United States, Japan and Great Britain were in completed accord, and their determination to respect the teritorial and administrative integrity of China was affirmed in many of the diplomatic instruments signed by these powers. The Japanese government remains unchanged in their stand against the partition of China."

This official point of view was made public in the Japanese reply to a memorandum handed Ambassador Debuchi by the Secretary of State contained in the correspondence forwarded to the Senate and published at that time by the Secretary of State.

U. S. Reaction Suprises Tokyo.

Tokyo, (Tuesday) Feb. 9 (A.P.).—Washington dispatches describing the first unfavorable reactions of American officialdom to Japan's proposals to demilitarize Chinese ports were received with expressions of surprise and disappointment in foreign office circles here today.

The foreign office spokesman declared the scheme did not mean the partition of China, as some Washington quarters had interpreted it. He also denied that it meant interference with China's administrative integrity, since Chinese administrative organs would function, he said, inside the demilitarized areas.

"Those who disapprove of Japan's proposals should attempt to offer something better," the spokesman said. "If China is permitted to continue to drift, a partition is much more likely than if the powers step in with positive measures."

Final settlement of Japan's dispute with China is impossible, he emphasized, unless cessation of the anti-Japanese movements and boycott is guaranteed. He said a continuation of the conditions of recent months would only require Japan to send troops to China from time to time.

Acute Influenza Forces Al Jolson to Cancel Show

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Al Jolson, blackface comedian, was ill of acute influenza today at his hotel suite, necessitating the cancellation of a stage performance here tonight.

Jolson arrived here Sunday from Detroit and was ordered not to make tonight's appearance by a local physician.

Y. M. C. A. Worker Sees End Of China Strife by Summer

William R. Stewart, on Visit to Washington From Far East, Expresses Faith in League; Believes U. S. Is Bound to Interfere.

Strife in the Far East will be ended by next summer because the economic condition of China and Japan will not permit the trouble to last longer, in the opinion of William R. Stewart, an American Y. M. C. A. secretary in China, who is spending a few months with his mother, Mrs. M. E. Stewart, at 1882 Columbia road northwest.

Mr. Stewart is due to return to China this summer, and he appears confident that nothing will interfere with his going back. He views the solution of the outbreak between China and Japan as a test of the strength of the League of Nations and, at the same time, thinks that the United States is duty bound to help in settling the trouble.

"The League of Nations faces the task of working out some plan whereby China and Japan will both have territory for expansion," Mr. Stewart opined. "An argument has been advanced that Japan is justified to some extent in carrying on the present invasion because she needs room to expand. But it should also be borne in mind that China requires Manchuria equally as badly for expansion.

"In the northern part of China the population averages 800 per square mile in some sections and 600 in others. The country is arid and affords little opportunity for development. The population in Japan averages 400 persons per square mile. She deserves room for expansion, but not any more than China, if as much, so far as Manchuria is concerned.

"Japan is following the wrong policy. She will find that her problems can not be solved by the sword. She is well prepared, both commercially and industrially, for important work in the world, and she would advance further by gaining the friendship of China and playing square with that country. At present Japan is sowing the seeds for a perpetual boycott instead of trying to break down a prejudice."

Mr. Stewart, from his knowledge of the Chinese and Japanese people, built up through 21 years of work in the Orient, has faith in the League of Nations' ability to solve the problem. "The league," he said, "has shown its teeth. It may have to wait now for things to cool off, but when the right time comes it will act successfully, I believe. I don't see how the United States can keep out of the trouble. We are bound to interfere through our obligation to the nine-power pact and the Kellogg pact."

The Y. M. C. A. secretary said he was shocked and amazed by the attack of Japanese ships and military forces on civilian areas and can not understand why such a move was instituted. Japan's request for demilitarization zones is going to extremes and is a policy China will never stand for, he added. He derided the suggestion that Japan has a secret ally in Russia.

Mr. Stewart began Y. M. C. A. work in Washington 25 years ago and went to China in 1910 with his wife, who is with him here. He has carried out assignments in Shanghai, Nanking, Tokyo, where he worked on behalf of Chinese university students, and was general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in Mukden when he left China. He will deliver an illustrated lecture on China at the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, 1862 Kalorama road northwest, at 8 o'clock Thursday night.

JAPANESE RENEW CAMPAIGN AFTER LOSING DRIVE ON FORTS

behind sandbag barricades, rained bullets on them. The gunners, the Chinese said, caught the advancing Japanese from both flanks and from the front, and only a handful of survivors got to cover.

Chinese Again Surprise.

When the Japanese made their first assault on Chapei eleven days ago military observers were surprised by the fighting qualities displayed by the Chinese. They were surprised again by the tenacity displayed during the last 24 hours by the defenders of Shanghai.

The Chinese artillery as well as the infantry worked with a new spirit. Japanese headquarters in North Szechuen road received a terrific beating from the Chinese guns. Considerable damage was inflicted within the International Settlement in the vicinity of the headquarters.

The bombardment was so heavy that the men in the Settlement police station, only a short distance from the Japanese headquarters, put up sandbags at doors and windows and sought safety in the basement. All the windows were broken and the ground about the station was pitted with shell holes.

Telephonic communications with the police station was established shortly after midnight.

"I don't know how much damage they've inflicted and I am not going out to investigate until morning," said the British sergeant in charge.

An attempt by the Japanese to fall on the Chinese rear in Chapei was blocked by the British. Moving along Ranger road in the area assigned to British patrols, a Japanese attacking force attempted to pass a British "pillbox" blocking its way.

The British threw up a sand bag barricade, indicating they did not intend to drop back, and the Japanese halted. But the British were left in a tight spot, for on one side of them were the Chinese and on the other were the Japanese.

Forces Are Coordinated.

The Japanese coordinated their land and sea forces in their big push on the Woosung forts. The high point of this advance was the occupation by the Japanese assaulters of a part of Woosung Village. This was accomplished by Japanese troops operating from the land side.

The bluejackets and soldiers totaled about 3,000. While no authentic figures on the Chinese strength in that sector has been made public, estimates were that about 1,000 were in the line.

The 1,000 did an efficient job. When the Japanese tried to extend their occupation of the village the Chinese first stopped them and then pushed them back. The Japanese fell back to positions along the western bank of Woosunk Creek. Between them and the forts that were their objective were the creek and Woosung Village. For several hours the village was battered by guns aboard the nine Japanese destroyers in the Whangpoo, some of which were blackened by powder from stem to stern.

Troops Placed in Houses.

The Associated Press correspondent made a tour of inspection along the Japanese positions on the west bank of the Woosung Creek. The front line was a considerable distance from the creek. Headquarters had been set up in the office of the Shanghai-Woosung Railway and troops had been placed in Chinese houses and other buildings.

Japanese planes droned overhead, occasionally dropping bombs. It was a cold and dreary day, and over the village and the ocean hung clouds of smoke and fog.

Within Woosung village not a civilian could be seen, but there was plenty of evidence that Chinese troops were there. Whenever a Japanese soldier showed himself machine guns sputtered.

Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, who replaced Rear Admiral Koichi Shiosawa as commandant in charge of the Japanese naval forces in the Shanghai area, arrived in Shanghai last night and immediately granted an interview to newspapermen aboard his flagship, the Izumo.

Japan's Claim Reiterated.

"The object of the Japanese navy is to protect the safety and lives of the Japanese in this country," he said.

"In view of the special conditions in Shanghai, we shall do our best to prevent further trouble and to settle the matters as quickly as possible in cooperation with the representatives of other countries.

After Admiral Nomura had read this statement, Rear Admiral Shiosawa, acting as his spokesman, answered questions of the correspondents. He reiterated that the Japanese operations would be limited to the area in which occupation was necessary to protect Japanese lives and property.

Safety of Citizens.

Japan's purpose at Chapei is only to clear Chinese soldiers out of a zone wide enough to insure safety to Japanese citizens and interests in the nearby Hongkew district, the admiral said.

The Japanese assault on the Woosung forts, he said, was justified because the garrison there had fired on Japanese ships and had endangered navigation along the Whangpoo. He added that the Japanese had no intention of occupying Paoshan, Liuho or other Chinese communities unless they were provoked to do so.

If there are no hostile manifestations at Nanking, the Japanese will not attack there, he said.

Reports the Chinese might invade the International Settlement, if such an invasion appeared to be a military necessity, were circulated again, but responsible quarters did not take them seriously.

WORLD CRISIS SEEN IF ARMS TALKS FAIL

to Sir John Simon's speech today was very favorable, although the British spokesman did not refer to capital ships, which is one point the Americans and British do not agree upon.

American comment on M. Tardieu's plan to arm the League of Nations was that his suggestion for an international police force might be all right for Europe, but could not be accepted in the United States.

In the days to come the conference will hear Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, of Italy; Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira, of Japan; Dr. W. W. Yen, of China, and the spokesman of the other nations, who will voice their views upon means for reducing the burden of armaments and for strengthening the machinery of peace.

The council of the League of Nations may split time with the conference tomorrow, as both the Chinese and Germans have asked a special sitting. Dr. Yen has requested prompt consideration of the first report received from the council's investigators at Shanghai, and Dr. Bruening asked consideration of the situation at Memel, where the president has been ousted by the Lithuanian authorities.

The first Shanghai report was a historical narrative of salient developments leading up to the disorders there, but it covered events only as far as January 31. A further report was promised soon.

"Very terrible things have happened in Shanghai during the last ten days, and still are happening," Dr. Yen said in asking that a council meeting be held as quickly as possible.

SHANGHAI PROBERS REACH U. S. TODAY

Gen. McCoy to Join League Group at Quarantine on Speedy Trip.

Members of the League of Nations commission of inquiry for bringing peace to China will finish the first lap of its dash around the world from Geneva to Shanghai when they land in New York this afternoon. A crack train is being held to carry them to San Francisco, where the S. S. President Coolidge has delayed its sailing twelve hours to accomodate them.

The American member of the commission, Maj. Gen. Frank R. McCoy, will meet the delegation at Quarantine today and accompany them to China.

Warren Delano Robbins, chief of the protocol at the White House, and Capt. Eugene Regnier, Secretary Stimson's military aid, will welcome the commissioners and their staff and escort them to the train from the tender.

This commission was appointed December 9 after both Japan and China had agreed to a neutral board of inquiry to investigate the causes of the war in China. Lord Lytton, of Great Britain, is chairman of the group, and the other members include Gen. Henry Claudel, of France; Conte Luigi Aldrovandi Marescotti, of Italy; Gen. McCoy, the only American, and Dr. Heinrich Schnee, of Germany.

Secretary Stimson yesterday radioed greetings to the commission and Lord Lytton replied. The exact function of the commission has not definitely been made clear due to the rapidly shifting events in China. Japan recently declined to accept the good offices of the United States and Great Britain because the concurrent peace offer of the two governments included also the Manchurian incident. Japan considers this closed although the commission arriving today was appointed for the purpose.

District's Budget Hearings to Begin

$47,000,000 Estimates to Come Before Committee of House Today.

The District's $47,000,000 budget will come under congressional scrutiny for the first time at 10 o'clock this morning, when Chairman Clarence Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, opens hearings before his District subcommittee of the House appropriations committee.

The three District Commissioners have been asked to appear, prepared to discuss the general features of the bill. Hearings will be held daily, and run until late in the afternoon, Representative Cannon indicated.

Although no drastic slashes in appropriations are contemplated, the chairman does not plan to spare the knife wherever he finds unnecessary expenditures. After hearings on the bill, the committee is expected to fix the Federal contribution at $6,500,000, the lump sum fixed in the Mapes report.

Northeast Citizens Indorse Measures

Recommend Amendment to Bill Regulating Sale of Firearms.

The Northeast Citizens Association last night indorsed a number of bills pending in Congress and recommended certain amendments, at a meeting at the Ludlow School, Sixth and G streets northeast.

An amendment was recommended to the bill regulating the sale and possession of firearms to prohibit the sale by mail. In the bill to abolish the present Police Trial Board and substitute a disciplinary board to be appointed by the President, the citizens' group recommended that no one be allowed on the board unless he has been a bona fide resident of the District for at least five years.

The association approved the bill to require District motorists to have adequate insurance to cover accidents and deaths, and also the bill to extend the time for redemption of mortgages and trusts in the District to six months. The association disapproved the bill the remove the Woman's Bureau from the jurisdiction of the Police Department to make it a separate department.

Western-Central High Debate Is Set Today

Debating teams of Western and Central High Schools will stage their annual debate this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Western High. The subject will be, "Resolved, that Japan should control the Shantung area."

The Western team, which will have the affirmative side, includes Carl Dieffenbach, John Court and Donald Lamb, with Sam Simkowitz as alternate. The Central team consists of Theodore Ward, Frank Hoadley and John Kelley, with Melvin Lewis as alternate. Judges will be Miss Camille Dubois, of Gordon Junior High School faculty; Robert Fleming, of the U. S. Daily, and Virgil Moore, an attorney.

Two Saved From Leaking Launch Trailed by Shark

Newark, N. J., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—The freighter Beatrice, of the Bull Line, a trim little ship in the coastal trade, tied up at Port Newark today carrying two men she had snatched almost from the jaws of a shark 30 miles off the coast of Florida.

Three days ago at sunset the man at the wheel sighted a small craft, flying distress signal, 1½ miles away on the Beatrice's starboard beam. In the boat, a power launch which had been disabled two days before, were Joseph Doyle and Harry Powers, "from somewhere in Kansas," the skipper, Capt. John W. Mumford, of Baltimore, said.

They had drifted 135 miles, their craft was leaking, several ships had passed them without sighting them, their food had given out 36 hours before, a shark had been playfully lifting its dorsal fin under their very noses. All this, Capt. Mumford said, had made them very nervous.

"But they are strong lads, and it was nothing," he added. "Nothing at all. It happens a dozen times every year off that coast. These fellows, I think, were 'tin-can tourists.' They spend the winter in Florida, living on a little money and fishing."

Powers and Doyle had borrowed or hired the boat from J. A. Sorensen of West Palm Beach. It was powered with a 90-horsepower engine and could make 18 knots. After taking on a load of gas at the Lake Worth buoy station they put out to sea.

"Neither man knew much about engines and there they were," said Capt. Mumford. "Well, they began drifting and bailing, bailing and drifting. They saw ships and the ships didn't see them."

"When we came alongside we lowered a sling to take the launch on board, but the sides gave way—it must have weighed quite a bit—and it collapsed and sank. It had been full of water anyhow. Just an old boat."

Powers and Doyle, he added, didn't talk much about themselves, and when the Beatrice tied up they went ashore.

Peeper on Game Of Bridge Jailed

His explanation was good, but it wasn't good enough.

Leonard Warren, colored, was arrested for peeping into the windows of a house on L street northwest. When he was taken into court his story was that a bridge game was going on in the house and he was trying to pick up some pointers on the game by watching the players and their manner of bidding.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt fined him $25 or 25 days in jail, and since he couldn't pay, he went to jail—there perhaps to learn how to play bridge.

O'BRIEN WINS POINT IN MAYFLOWER CASE

Allowed Severance in Fraud Trial of Six Opened in Pittsburgh.

Special to The Washington Post.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 8.—Daniel J. O'Brien, former president and managing director of the fashionable Hotel Mayflower in Washington, D. C., was granted a severance prior to the commencement of the trial here today of six persons indicted on charges of fraud.

Those who must stand trial are all former officials of the American Bond & Mortgage Co., which was responsible for refinancing the Mayflower three years ago.

They are William J. Moore, president; Charles B. Moore and Charles C. Moore, vice presidents; Kenneth W. Moore, assistant secretary, and Harold A. Moore, secretary-treasurer, and Hayden W. Ward, a vice president.

Similar indictments against the same parties have been brought in other jurisdictions based on bond flotations for hotel properties. The Pittsburgh case was the only one where the operating head of the institution was included in the blanket indictment.

Department of Justice agents have based their cases on the contention that bonds were sold on a valuation of the hotel properties that the American Bond & Mortgage Co. officials knew to be excessive.

William E. Leahy, of Washington, appeared as attorney for O'Brien. The trial of the other officials is expected to last a week or ten days.

New Blue Sky Bill Filed for District

Bowman Measure Places Enforcement in Hands of Insurance Head.

Another bill for the regulation of security issues and operations in the District was introduced in the House yesterday by Representative Frank L. Bowman (Republican), West Virginia.

The measure differs from previous "blue sky" bills introduced by Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, and Representative Adolph J. Sabath (Democrat), Illinois.

Administration of the law would be placed with the superintendent of insurance. The Blaine bill placed it with the Public Utilities Commission, and the Sabath bill, with the District Commissioners. Under the Bowman measure, which has the support of the Investment Bankers Association's local group, no one convicted of a criminal offense involving securities, would be permitted to continue in the brokerage business here.

Fireman Treated for Laceration.

Walter A. Walker, 31 years old, a fireman attached to the No. 20 Engine Co., received a laceration of the left leg last night while fighting a brush fire near 4619 Forty-eighth street northwest. An axe which he was swinging struck his leg. After treatment at Emergency Hospital, Walker, who lives at 4953 Hurst terrace northwest, rejoined his company.

slugs taken from the bodies of Reidel, Gordon Backus—still in a serious condition at Emergency Hospital—and Helen Andrews are still in process by Lieut. John Fowler, ballistics expert of the Police Department. He would not hazard an opinion last night as to whether the bullets were fired from the same gun.

Fingerprint experts last night were attempting to obtain a clear specimen from a soft-drink container used by the goggled slayer a few minutes before Reidel was shot last Saturday night. Late last night study of the photographs taken had not developed a good print.

Canvass of stores selling the type of ammunition used in the killings had not led to any clew last night, but the questioning of these dealers had not been completed and reports of a canvass of stores in nearby Maryland and Virginia had not been received.

Police were kept busy running down tips from citizens and other sources. Several women called headquarters and in nervous tones told of seeing cars answering the description broadcast of the death car, while others told of seeing men answering the description of the slayer of Riedel.

Car Owners Questioned.

A gradual drive to question owners of all cars answering anywhere near the description of the slayer's "dark blue sedan" was being conducted. Many were interrogated yesterday after being located through a search of the Maryland license tag list. The theory is also admitted that the car bearing the slayer may have been stolen or else the tags may have been switched. So far, however, no reports of similar cars being stolen or tags near in number to the 209-3—Maryland have been received.

A spokesman for the family of Miss Helen Andrews, 18, of 5811 Sixth street northwest, emphatically denied that the young woman had the slightest acquaintance with Backus. Earlier reports were that she and the middle-aged man had been friends and this had led detectives to exhaustively question Miss Andrews, her family and friends. Police maintain the attitude that Miss Andrews' story is straightforward and place every credence in it. The young woman, who was wounded in the wrist by a mysterious gunman shooting from a passing automobile, was still confined to her bed last night and described as in a very nervous condition.

Montgomery Police Busy.

Residents of adjoining Montgomery County are developing "jumpy" nerves as a result of the wave of shootings here. Policemen of the Bethesda substation, Montgomery County Police, have been kept busy the last several nights answering telephone calls from citizens who are sure "a man is breaking into my house." So far they all have been false alarms.

Yesterday morning an excited woman called police of the Silver Spring substation, saying that a man carrying a pistol in one hand had just driven by her in a black sedan bearing the license numbers 334-407, headed for Bethesda. Policeman Laurence Dixon called the Bethesda substation and the entire station was turned out to look for the man.

In the meantime, Desk Clerk James Nichols checked with Baltimore and found that the tags belonged on the car of Lowry Riggs, of Rockville, an employe of the county surveyor's office and an unofficial aid of the Police Department. The supposed "gun" was a surveying instrument.

Blanton Denies Drinking By Members of Congress

(Associated Press.)

Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas, told the House yesterday that since January 16, 1920, when prohibition took effect, "I have not personally seen a single member on either side of the Capitol take a drink."

"I'm glad to hear the gentleman from Texas say the 435 members of the House are law-abiding," Representative Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, said.

Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York, said that "prohibition conditions in the District of Columbia are just the same as they are in any Texas town or any other city of the country."

BINGHAM IS AGAINST FREEING ISLES SOON

Committee Opens Hearings on Bills Proposing Freedom of Philippines.

(Associated Press.)

Opposition to any measure which would grant independence to the Philippine Islands in the near future was expressed yesterday by Chairman Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, of the Senate Territories committee.

He made this statement as the committee opened hearings on bills proposing American withdrawal from the islands. Senator Bingham added he would not oppose independence after 25 years if the Filipinos had stated their desire for freedom in a plebiscite.

The chairman emphasized he is against the United States getting out of the Far East while the present complicated international situation continues. Senator Bingham opposed the King, Hawes-Cutting and Vandenberg bills, all proposing independence.

Secretary Hurley, of the War Department, will be invited to outline the administration's attitude toward independence next Thursday. Secretary Stimson, of the State Department, may testify Saturday.

Senator King (Democrat), Utah, favored his bill for immediate and complete freedom for the islands. Senator Hawes (Democrat), Missouri, whose bill is principally favored by Filipino leaders, outlined its provisions for granting independence after a five-year transition period.

Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, favored his bill for granting independence after twenty years, and then only at the requert of the Filipinos themselves.

Senator Hawes said his bill provides for retention of various areas in the Philippines necessary for military protection of the islands.

Senator Harry B. Hawes, of Missouri, yesterday received a cablegram from Gen. Emilio Aguinaldo, urging him to convey to President Hoover and Congress the wish of the Association of Veterans of the Filipino Revolution that the Filipinos be given "complete control of their own affairs."

"We submit," the message said, "that the declared purpose of America in coming to the Philippines has been fulfilled, due to the combined efforts of the Americans and Filipinos. * * * Having acquired sufficient experience in handling our national affairs, and, in view of the tempered, but determined resolution of our people to face hardships and crises, political and economic, of independence existence, we trust we shall succeed in discharging the responsibilities of the new situation."

Washington Youth Hurt While Skiing at College

Benjamin J. Stone, of 2023 Macomb street northwest, a student at Hamilton College, Utica, N. Y., and a former Central High student, was reported here yesterday as improving from a serious leg injury received Saturday when skiing at the college.

A point of one ski punctured a knee cap when he fell. He was taken to St. Elizabeth's Hospital at Utica. Stone, a member of the college basket ball team, will not be able to play with the team for the rest of the season.

Whitmire Held Suicide; Collector of Old Arms

Coroner Joseph D. Rogers yesterday issued a certificate of suicide in the death of William W. Whitmire, 84, who was found fatally wounded Sunday night in his home, at 722 Fourth street northwest, with a bullet wound in his chest.

The man was said to have been an ardent collector of ancient firearms, his interest having grown out of his former activity as a hunter. He had been in ill health since Christmas.

U. S. BENEFICIARIES' PAY CUTTING URGED

House Told Business Getting Federal Money Should Effect Economies.

If the pay of Government employes is to be cut, the slashing program should be extended to the highly paid executives of private businesses which benefit from Government financial aid Representative Lynn S. Hornor (Democrat), of West Virginia, told the House yesterday.

"We are in a wonderful position to effect economies in the banking organiaztions which come to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for Government money to aid their business," Representative Hornor said. "If we are going to accede to this agitation for cutting Government salaries we should also see to it that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation acts to bring about economies in the banking business."

High Salaries in Bankrupts.

Mr. Hornor said he knew of one "defunct" railway from which the receiver is drawing a salary of $40,000, an assistant $20,000 more and an attorney $25,000 additional.

"The heads of the business concerns which come to the Government and get financial aid are just as much public servants, being financed out of the Federal Treasury, as are Federal employes," he said.

"If it is desired to save money by cutting salaries, we can effect greater savings by requiring reductions in salaries in banks aided by the Government than we can by cutting the pay of Federal employes."

Agitation Hurting Credit.

Agitation for cutting Government salaries is damaging the credit of the Government at home and abroad, Representative Francis B. Condon (Democrat), of Rhode Island, said in a letter to the Federal Bar Association which was made public by the association yesterday.

He was opposed to cutting salaries, Mr. Condon said, because it would be unfair to Government workers who did not have the benefit of increasing pay during the long period of rising prices. Government employes, he said, should be the last to have their pay cut and "in my judgment the time for that has not yet come."

"This clamor, with much of the panicky anxiety for the condition of the Federal Treasury has created a false impression of the fundamental financial condition of the Government," Representative Condon said.

Brookhart Will Address Parent-Teacher Group

Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, will address members of the Business High School Parent-Teacher Association tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, in the school auditorium, Ninth street and Rhode Island avenue northwest.

The erection of an adequate stadium and recreation field for the new Roosevelt High School, will be the principal topic of discussion. Art students of Business High School will present a program of entertainment.

Japan's Plan Rapped At Chinese Legation

(Associated Press.)

Dr. Hawkling Yen, counselor of the Chinese legation, said yesterday demilitarization of zones about China's cities would be "nothing less than dismemberment of China."

"I can scarcely believe such a proposal will be made by Japan to other powers," he added. "It would scrap all the treaties made in more than thirty years and of course China would never agree to such an arrangement," he said.

Many Refugees Suffer As Blizzard Hits Valley

Hankow, China, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Untold suffering among hundreds of thousands of Chinese refugees in the middle Yangtze Valley was caused today by a blizzard blowing east across Hankow.

The refugees, who had come into the valley from many points, were entirely without shelter, most of them were lightly clothed and provisions were scarce.

Foreign 'Trips to Nowhere' Declared Abounding in Rum

(Associated Press.)

R. K. Smith, commissioner of the Shipping Board, testified before the House merchant marine committee yesterday that on foreign flagship "trips to nowhere" Americans can get all they want to drink.

Smith said the board was strongly in favor of the Davis measure to prevent foreign ships from leaving New York on a no-destination cruise, and returning to that port to discharge passengers.

"Why do they take foreign ships in preference to American ships?" asked Representative Lamneck (Democrat), of Ohio.

"Oh, well," answered Smith, "it is a fact they can get all they want to drink on the voyage to nowhere. And on those ships I hear they do other things Americans are not supposed to do."

"If we didn't have prohibition, we wouldn't have that problem, would we?" asked Lamneck.

"Yes, I think we would," said Smith.

Chairman Davis, a Tennessee Democrat, asked "Is it not true that many Americans were patronizing foreign ships before prohibition?"

"That was before we had any ships!" said Lamneck.

CAUSES OF BUSINESS SLUMPS HIT BY HULL

Attacks Republicans' Fiscal Policies and Hoover Aid Plans in Senate.

(Associated Press.)

Remedies for the causes, rather than the effects, of business upheavals were proposed yesterday by Senator Cordell Hull in his first speech in the Senate.

The Tennesseean, a former chairman of the Democratic national committee, devoted nearly two hours to an assault on Republican fiscal policies.

He attacked the Hoover emergency program of relief as providing only "first aid" treatment for ills that were deepseated, and said if the Democrats were in control they would "accurately" interpret existing conditions and effect fundamental cures.

Warning against a merger of the two parties on the tariff, Senator Hull said there was room in this country for only "one special privilege party."

He urged a permanent world economic conference to lower all tariffs, legislation authorizing negotiation of trade agreements based upon mutual tariff concessions and the unconditional most-favored nation doctrine, and drastic economies in Federal, State and local expenditures to the end that taxes may be reduced.

"No government can justify chronic borrowing to pay current demands," he said, "or tolerate with complacency a gaping deficit until it reaches a rate of $3,000,000,000 to $4,000,000,000 a year, while sinking fund policies are in effect suspended."

900 Refugees Go North; New Leader at Woosung

Nanking, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—About 900 Chinese refugees from the Chapei section of Shanghai arrived in Nanking tonight. They are being sent northward along the Tientsin-Pukow Railway in the hope that they will be absorbed in various towns along the line.

Chang Fa-Kwei, famous commander of the equally famous Chinese regiment known as "The Ironsides," is reported to be directing the defense operations at the Woosung forts. The regiment has been partly dispersed during the last few years but its leader continues to hold a high place among Chinese military figures. With him at Woosung the Japanese will have a more difficult job than they would if any one else were directing the defense, Chinese here declared.

ATTORNEY GENERAL WILLIAM D. MITCHELL.

WILLIAM DE WITT MITCHELL is one of the best golfers among public officials in Washington, a fact which isn't important except that the manner in which he plays golf indicates the manner he performs his duties as Attorney General of the United States.

There is no hint of the glad-hander about him. He never seems to be in a fret or hurry, but he never appears to dawdle, rather his manner is crisp, but not curt. His voice is moderately pitched. When he appears before a congressional committee he doesn't seem to be fraternizing across the table with committee members. He is polite, but he knows what he has in mind and says that, not with any oratorical flourishes but as if the facts were adequate without rhetorical trimmings. He appears calm, attentive, respectful; he attracts similar treatment.

He was named Attorney General as a step in President Hoover's effort to purge the Federal judiciary of politics, and the President, incidentally, has got into more than one row with members of the Senate and political leaders because he backed up Mr. Mitchell and refused to name this or that man who the Attorney General said, was not suitable for the bench. Mr. Mitchell himself has been mentioned at times as a possible appointee to the United States Supreme Court.

Born in Winona, Minn., on September 9, 1874, the son of Justice William Mitchell, of the Minnesota Supreme Court, the Attorney General entered Yale University, taking a scientific course but subsequently went to the University of Minnesota and studied law. He practiced law in St. Paul and was counsel in a number of railroad and corporation cases and frequently appeared before the United States Supreme Court before he was appointed Solicitor General of the Department of Justice on June 4, 1925.

He served in the Spanish-American and the World Wars. J. B. M.

SMITH DENIES HE IS CANDIDATE FOR DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION

have time to talk politics. He was leaving early and I was in a hurry."

Handing his silk hat to a secretary, the 1928 standard bearer started turning over a sheaf of telegrams on his desk.

"I suppose I'll have a bunch of this stuff now," he said, laughing.

"Here's a good one, from John Durkin in Scranton, Pa., and it says, 'Atta boy, let's go.' Here's another from the Dolly Madison Club, of Salem, Mass., saying, 'With you to the end.'"

"Is there one from the governor?" someone asked.

"I didn't see it if there was," Smith replied, and added: "Of course, I haven't been through them all."

"Are you likely to stick to your declaration that you will accept the nomination?"

"I can only speak as of today," he replied.

He was told his statement had been interpreted in some quarters as a declaration that he wished to "rule or ruin" his party.

"That's senseless." Smith replied ing for delegates for me. I was a indignantly. "Anyone who knows my record of 30 years square dealing won't believe that."

In stating he is not a candidate, the former governor said: "In 1924 and 1928 my friends were out workcandidate then. In 1932 there is no such thing."

He was reminded that in some States men pledged to vote for him in the convention were seeking election as delegates.

"I can't help it," Smith said, "if men, to gain leadership for themselves, say they will support me.

"You remember what happened in 1920. I was not a candidate, but the best speech at the convention was the one Bourke Cockran made nominating me."

"What would you have done had you been nominated then?" he was asked.

"I'd have gone and got the brown derby and got busy."

Commenting on reports he was attempting to "line up the field against Roosevelt," Mr. Smith said:

"I'm not for or against anyone. That stands until the convention."

He was asked if he thought the attitude toward him in the South had changed in the last four years and replied: "I have no opinion on that. I've been down there only once in the two years and that wasn't a political trip."

"I'm going to work and tend to business now," he said in closing. "All you'll get from me after this is a 'good afternoon.'"

Meanwhile, Gov. Roosevelt left for Albany without commenting on the Smith statement.

"I'm trying to run the State government," he said, "and that's enough of a job."

Roosevelt in Good Humor.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Franklin D. Roosevelt, effervescent with good humor, returned tonight from a conference with Alfred E. Smith at New York. Greeting newspapermen at the executive mansion, he turned their questions aside with laughs.

He was asked if his obvious buoyancy came from the meeting with Mr Smith. The governor parried this by saying that both he and Smith were amused by their vain attempt to keep Smith's visit to the Roosevelt home a secret from newspapers.

Those who saw him today marked the contrast in his disposition with that displayed yesterday. On Sunday afternoon, shortly after news of the Smith statement reached him, he was inclined to silence. After his chat with his former political ally today, he had dropped this demeanor for one of cheerful banter with his newspaper questioners.

Governor, Col. House Says, Most Available Candidate

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Col. E. M. House, confidential adviser to former President Woodrow Wilson, today reiterated his statement that Gov Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York is "the most available candidate the Democratic party could nominate."

Col. House, visiting here, took issue with those seeing in the formal statement of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith an indication that he was seeking the Democratic nomination, and said Roosevelt is the "one to be elected with the least difficulty."

Smith's statement "clarified the situation and will increase his already well-deserved popularity," Col. House said.

Shelling of Dollar Liner At Shanghai Is Denied

Shanghai (Tuesday), Feb. 8 (A.P.).—O. G. Stean, general manager here of the Dollar Steamship Line, denied a report today that the liner President Madison had been shelled as it was entering Shanghai Harbor.

The skipper of the President Madison told him after the ship arrived here, he said, that all was quiet as the liner passed Woosung, center of fighting between Chinese and Japanese, on its way to Shanghai.

SMITH AGAIN MAKES NATION GUESS GOAL

Capital Politicians Believe He Is Convinced He Can Not Be Named.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Alfred E. Smith, master politician, again has the Nation guessing. Yesterday morning Smith's "willing to run" statement was hailed far and wide as the signal for a "stop Roosevelt" war. Yesterday afternoon Smith and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt were sitting in the latter's home having a "social" chat.

To say the least, that is a strange prelude to a battle.

Later in the day Smith insisted that he was not a candidate, adding that "Nobody ever was nominated who didn't make a preconvention campaign."

He agreed, however, that there was no way that he could stop his friends from campaigning for him and rounding up delegates for him. The business of doing this already has been started in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

Nomination Hope Fades.

The belief here is that Smith has concluded definitely that there is no chance for him to win a second Democratic nomination for President. He probably had a strong hunch to this effect before he issued the statement made public yesterday. Confirmation of the hunch was contained in the newspapers that Smith must have read when he arose in the morning.

Without exception, every morning paper in New York carried stories to the effect that Smith could not hope to be nominated. They agreed that Smith and his allies could block Roosevelt by corraling a third or more of the delegates. However, they also agreed that the Roosevelt delegates could do the same thing to Smith.

If his friends line up an appreciable number of delegates for him, and if the proposed alliance between the Smith delegates and the favorite son delegates is brought about, the Happy Warrior ought to be able not only to name the nominee, but to dictate the platform.

That Smith will demand a clear-cut plank against prohibition goes without saying. He is expecetd to refer to this in his forthcoming speech about the Raskob home rule plan.

So far as Congress is concerned, the line-up with respect to candidates remains unchanged. The Smith statement made no new converts for him.

Senator George W. Norris (Republican Progressive), of Nebraska, who bolted his party in 1928 and campaigned for Smith, but who now favors Roosevelt, issued a statement in Mississippi, paraphrasing Gen. Grant's remark that, "The Democrats can always be counted on to make damn fools of themselves."

"This is truly a Democratic year," said Norris, "and the election would be a cinch for the Democrats if they would remain harmonious."

Senator Clarence Dill (Democrat), of Washington, a pioneer Roosevelt man, predicted that the Smith statement would serve to intensify the campaign for Roosevelt delegates.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, another Roosevelt man, saw the influence of the power trust is behind the "stop Roosevelt" movement.

Garner Called "Sure Winner."

There was a brief oratorical flurry in the House when Representative Thomas Blanton (Democrat), of Texas, arose to say that Smith is out of the running so far as the nomination is concerned.

"But suppose," said Representative May (Democrat), of Kentucky, "we nominate John Garner, of Texas. We will sure win, will we not?"

"John Garner would sweep the country as sure as we live," said Blanton.

Representative Michener (Republican), of Michigan, asked Blanton what he would do if Smith were nominated.

"I always support my Democratic ticket as long as I am a Democrat," the Texan said. "You will find me fighting for it, no matter who is on it."

Senator Byrnes (Democrat), of South Carolina, had this to say in a prepared statement:

"Smith announces that he will oppose no candidate and I do not believe he will lend his great prestige and popularity in an effort to stop Roosevelt, who loyally supported him in 1924 and 1928. I favor Roosevelt and believe he will be nominated and elected."

Democrats Are Running True to Form, Norris Says

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Senator George W. Norris, Republican independent leader of Nebraska, predicted here today that the Democratic party will "make a damn fool of itself," and said Alfred E. Smith's statement regarding the presidential nomination was the beginning of what may be the party's defeat in an otherwise "cinch" election.

He passed through Memphis on his way back to Washington from Representative Quin's funeral, in Mississippi.

"The Democratic party has a remarkable record for making a damn fool of itself at a crucial time when it has the world by the tail and a downhill pull," he said. "It is expected to repeat its usual performance," he added, as he pointed to Gov. Smith's statement.

"This is truly a Democratic year, and the election would be a cinch for the Democrats if they could be harmonious."

He said President Hoover would be the Republican nominee, but added, "It ought to be Hiram Johnson, Senator Borah or Gov. Pinchot, or somebody like that."

Greece Asks 3 Powers For $12,500,000 Loan

Athens, Greece, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Premier Venizelos told party leaders today the government was asking from Great Britain, France and Italy, the three powers represented on the International Financial Commission, an advance of £2,500,000 (normally about $12,500,000) until a loan could be arranged.

He had explained to the three governments, he said, that Greece, which up to now has carried out the engagements arising from previous loans, found herself compelled by the world crisis to request financial assistance in order to complete productive works in Macedonia.

Mills' Nomination Is Sent to Senate

Named to Succeed Mellon; Ballantine as Successor Also Forwarded.

(Associated Press.)

The names of Ogden L. Mills, to be Secretary of the Treasury, and of Arthur A. Ballantine, to replace him as undersecretary, were sent to the Senate yesterday by President Hoover.

The President sent the nominations to the Senate last Friday, but the Senate had adjourned over the week-end before they arrived, necessitating their transmittal again.

Mr. Mills has been acting secretary since Andrew Mellon was confirmed by the Senate several days ago as American Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

FRIENDS WOULD PUT SMITH ON BALLOTS

Pennsylvania Adherents Ask Him to Sign Affidavit to Enter Primary.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Assured by his statement that Alfred E. Smith will accept the Democratic presidential nomination if it is offered him, Pennsylvania supporters of the former New York governor framed another question for him today.

"Will you sign a petition and permit your name to be placed on the ballot in the Democratic primary in April?" was its substance.

Under the Pennsylvania law an affidavit must be filed by a presidential candidate before his name can appear on the ballot by which the delegates at large are instructed. It is not necessary for a candidate to sign in the district delegate contests.

Smith's statement that he would make no campaign for delegates was interpreted by Joseph Guffey, former national committeeman and foremost Roosevelt supporter, to mean that Smith would not file.

Smith adherents, however, expressed confidence they would persuade him to file and said they would make the campaign for him.

Sedgwick Kistler, national committeeman, issued a statement today saying:

"Gov. Smith's statement is clear. The social, economic and political conditions in our country today are too serious to permit personal ambitions being served. This is no time for self-seeking in high places or in low places. Such, plainly, is the spirit in Gov. Smith's statement. It should be the spirit of any one who may possibly be called to incur the grave responsibilities of leadership of the Nation in these difficult times."

Optimism Is Urged By Pope for Lent

New Paganism of Money Denounced in Pontiff's Message.

Vatican City, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Expressing sorrow over the "always greater pessimism" of world conferences on disarmament and reparations, Pope Pius today suggested the preaching of optimism in Lenten services.

The divine word that "a man shall be punished in those same things by which he sinned," has come true, the pontiff asserted. The "impotence of man" has been shown by events, he said, revealing that "help from the hand of God is indispensable."

The pontiff urged therefore that preachers spread not pessimism but optimism and seek to "fortify souls."

"There is a new paganism," the Pope said, "a materialization in all walks of life. Men still think that money is everything. They seek it as a means of enjoyment, to power and to domination. Thus, as St. Gregory the great said, man's riches are become his thorns."

DRY FUNDS NOT CUT, TINKHAM DECLARES

Discloses More Than 11 Million Provided for Enforcement.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, said yesterday the drive to trim down Government expenditures had left untouched appropriations for the Prohibition Bureau in the coming fiscal year. He disclosed that more than $11,000,000 will be provided for the Prohibition Bureau.

Tinkham, an antiprohibitionist Republican member of the subcommittee drafting the supply measure, said the subcommittee had slashed unexpended balances off other departments and bureaus, but that a prospective unexpended balance of $175,000 for the Prohibition Bureau had been left intact.

"We'll have plenty of fireworks on this later," the Bay Stater said.

"Agents Allowed to Drink."

Mr. Tinkham said that agents were allowed to drink liquor in attempting to enforce the law.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied campaigners for prohibition, yesterday said he held "a downright belief that a majority of the voters are with us for the eighteenth amendment," but he added that "tens of thousands—I myself—won't vote solely on the issue."

"That is one reason," he continued, "that our strategy is to line up voters in all parties. We've got to take tangible evidence of the majority to the parties writing platforms."

The New Yorker presented a sheaf of communications intended to refute testimony by Representative Clancy (Republican), Michigan, on college student drinking, before the Senate inquiry on proposals for beer.

Testimony of Coaches.

Fielding H. Yost, athletic director of the University of Michigan, said in a letter Poling made public:

"We have no drink problem among candidates for our athletic teams at Michigan. The thing we call 'training' for athletic teams is nothing more than to stop doing the things that harm and to begin doing the things that build — physical, mental and moral abilities. In over 50 years I have never known any one responsible for the development of athletes to advise the use of alcohol in any form."

From Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg, Poling disclosed a communication saying: "The director of the University of Chicago health service positively states that he has not had evidence of a single case of a student suffering from the use of liquor. It is his belief, the same as it is mine, that there is very little excessive drinking at the university."

Woman Poison Killer Is Sentenced to Life

Pekin, Ill., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Mrs. Alice Mason, 50-year-old widow, was sentenced to life imprisonment today on her plea of guilty to the charge of killing her 12-year-old daughter, Mildred, with poison.

No attempt was made to prosecute her on a charge of killing her husband. Authorities said Mrs. Mason confessed killing her daughter to collect a $1,000 insurance policy on the girl's life and also to having caused the death of her husband several years ago. Neighbors brought about the woman's arrest last November 17, nearly five months after the girl's death.

Culbertson Will Enter Hospital in New York

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Ely Culbertson, bridge expert, who recently won a challenge match with Sidney S. Lenz, will go to a hospital Friday for observation as to gastric ulcers.

The trouble is not recent, but became acute during the weeks he was playing in the 150-rubber match. Last month he went to Havana for a rest, but the ailment became more severe after his return. He deferred going to a hospital in order to fulfill several charity lecture engagements and to be with his wife on her birthday.

Politicians' Statements Invented to Hide Thought

By JOHN J. DALY

TO get behind the words in a political statement is like trying to interpret vague passages in the Good Book. Every man, they say, may read the Bible to his own damnation. So, it seems, with sacred political tracts.

If a politician ever said what was actually in his mind he would not be a politician. If ever he said what people put in his mind, or get out of his statements, he would land in a booby house. His yes means no and his no means yes. If he does he doesn't, and if he doesn't he does.

Here comes Al Smith and he says, says he: "If, after deliberate consideration, it is decided that they want me to lead, I will make the fight, but——," or words to that effect. It is given all sorts of interpretation. Cal Coolidge said it in six words, "I do not choose to run;" which meant, of course, that he was willing if properly urged.

* * * *

IN order to get the actual low-down on the Smith statement, the reporters backed the former governor against the wall and shot questions at him: "What d'ye mean?" they asked, in unison.

"Just what I said," he responded.

"Oh, no, you don't," they told him; "nobody ever does!"

"Well," he admitted, "you remember what David Bennett Hill said——"

"Who was David Bennett Hill?" they asked, "and what did he say, if anything?"

"In the words of David Bennett Hill," the governor went on, "I am a Democrat."

"Nerts," a smart New York press man said.

"He's got that quotation all wrong," one of the boys complained. "It wasn't David Bennett Hill at all. It was Bennett Hill David——"

"BET you 10 to 1," said another, "it was David Hill Bennett. Furthermore, he was a Republican."

"You win," said the stakeholder, "it was David Jordan Hill, first president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. What Al Smith means is that 'There's many a slip twixt the hip and the lip.' In other words, prohibition is bound to be a champagne issue."

"How's that?"

"If he is going to run he must tell the people he awaits their call——"

"If he does that he may never run," said a cynical press man, and loaded another pipe.

* * * *

"OH, yeah?" they chorused as they rushed to put the statement on the wire. After that it went on the pan—panned by the Republican editors and damned, with faint praise, by the Democrats who have other candidates to consider.

"We are here today and gone tomorrow," the dean of the political reporters mused as he wandered out into the night tearing up his notebook as he went.

"Mother, I am coming home to die," the boy said; and the wise old father, noting the hungry look in the lad's eyes, nodded his ancient head and said, "No, son, you are coming home to eat."

It all depends on how a statement is interpreted.

Fed and fattened at the public crib, a politician is loath to leave the larder even though he says he is going on a long, long journey.

BLUE FLEET PLANES ROAR OVER ISLANDS

Mimic Warfare at Hawaii Is Near Decisive Phase; Weather Is Bad.

Honolulu, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A large squadron of planes from the battle force of the United States Navy roared over the north end of Oahu Island today but withheld an attack in the face of bad weather as the mimic war for possession of the Hawaiian Islands moved toward a decisive phase.

Meanwhile, the main units of the blue fleet, which is attempting to recapture the islands from a theoretical alien enemy—a black force of some 15,000 Army men and a small Navy detachment—closed in behind the air fighters.

The attacking vessels were harried by submarines and mine craft of the defending blacks.

Frequent rainstorms and low visibility sent the air squadron wheeling back after it had made a short sortie along the north coast of Oahu.

Scouting units of the black fleet reported enemy ships were strung out northeastward of the islands in the shape of a gigantic question mark whose top began at the Island of Kauai, with the lower tip at the Island of Hawaii.

This movement apparently was begun Sunday night, the fleet attempting to encircle the islands in a concerted attack. As a result of submarine and antiaircraft activities of the defenders Sunday, it was estimated at least 45 blue planes had been ruled out.

The mine craft Breese and Tanger were reported to have suffered in engagements with blue ships, but it was uncertain whether they had been put out of action.

Farmer-Labor Session Postponed to April 26

Omaha, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Scheduled originally for March 2, the national convention of the Farmer-Labor party has been postponed to April 26. Roy M. Harop, national vice chairman, announced the change was made to give the Minnesota party, whose State convention will be held late in March, an opportunity to select delegates to the national convention. The Illinois Farmer-Labor party, he said, will meet in Chicago February 28.

Harop said considerable pressure had been placed behind W. H. Henderson, of Shreveport, La., Mayor Reiter and Frank E. Webb, of San Francisco, for the Farmer-Labor presidential nomination. Among the leading prospects for the vice presidential nomination he said were Dr. J. R. Brinkley, of Milford, Kans., Congressman Louis T. McFadden, of Pennsylvania, and Andrea Nordskog, of Los Angeles.

Mrs. Massie Will Testify Against 4 Attack Suspects

Does Not Want Vengeance, But Justice to Help Women, She Says.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Honolulu, Feb. 8.—Mrs. Thomas H. Massie will remain here to testify at the retrial of four men of mixed blood accused of attacking her, she said today in her first public statement since the alleged attack last September.

"It is not vengeance I want," she said, "but justice."

At the first trial there were five defendants. A jury disagreed. Then one of the five, Joseph Kahahawai, an Hawaiian, was lynched, causing the arrest of Mrs. Massie's husband, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, of the Navy; Mrs. Granville Fortescue, prominent American society woman and Mrs. Massie's mother, and two Navy enlisted men.

The four codefendants in the lynching case are awaiting trial in Circuit Court here. They are at liberty on bond.

Attorneys in the lynching case today agreed to set March 8 for the beginning of the trial. Barry S. Ulrich, special prosecutor, said a stipulation to that effect would be presented the court tomorrow.

"I want not only justice for myself, but for all the women of Honolulu," said Mrs. Massie. "Not until justice is done and all rapists are convicted and sentenced can we, the women of this city, feel safe at all times in our homes and on the streets."

Since the kidnaping and slaying of Kahahawai, Mrs. Massie has lived at the Pearl Harbor Navy Yard. Her home was in Manoa when her mother, husband and the two enlisted men were placed in custody of the Navy on the receiving ship Alton. She is the guest of Capt. F. J. Horne, U. S. N.

"In order that justice may be done," Mrs. Massie continued, "I stand ready to testify again whenever the so-called Ala Moano case may come up for trial.

"Many women hesitate to report a case of assault," she said, "because of the harrowing publicity attendant upon the trial of such a case. Much as I might have wished to spare myself the ordeal of the Ala Moana trial, I felt that it was my duty to try and protect other women and girls.

"I could not bear to think that some other girl might have to go through what I went through at the hands of the men who assaulted me.

"From a personal standpoint, the punishment of these men was only secondary in my mind. What punishment of theirs could possibly atone for the suffering they inflicted upon me?

"I made every effort to place these men behind the bars because I wished to protect other women from a similar horrible experience. No one who has not undergone such an experience can possibly imagine the horror, the awfulness of it. Nor can they imagine the resultant strain not only upon the victim, but upon members of her family as well."

Peasants and Civilization

By H. G. WELLS

THE basal mentality of that traditional social order from which we are now emerging seems to be that of the types for which we have used the general name of peasant. The distinctive character of the peasant type of person is its complete acceptance of the idea that toil is virtue, and its close, intense adhesion to property and the acquisition of property. All over the world and continually peasants murder for property. Wherever there is a peasant countryside the newspapers rarely go for many weeks without an account of such a murder. Murders of passion characterize towns and the middle and upper classes. The peasant lusts and breeds, but without any pride or romantic play. He trains his young to toil at an early age, to getting and to avarice.

* * * *

His suppressions make him prone to envy. His soul is equalitarian. His hostility to exceptional display imposes a standard costume and decorum upon any counryside where his is the dominant idealogy. Housing and furniture, too, are standardized there, and the slightest departures from the rigidities of usage provoke a bitter resentment and moral condemnation. Everywhere in Europe and Asia where the peasant persona rules, sentimentalists delight to prate of its lovely local costumes and customs, its music and art. Everywhere, except for differences due to conditions of climate and natural resources, these costumes and art are practically the same, the industriously made lace, the brightest buttons, the white linen, the red and black colorings, the tedious repetitive carving, the traditional music, the staid dancing, the plaintive and tragic song. It is essentially and visibly the same from Biscay and Brittany to China.

* * * *

THE peasant persona is subdued to a life of hard monotonies and stereotyped pleasures. He is always under the observation of his neighbors. He is much worried about his character and personal prestige; he exists because of his reputation—for this or that—for his good thatching or his skillful pruning of the vines. When he is sober he is afraid. He is afraid of his lord, afraid of the opinion of those about him, afraid of lawyers with "bits of writing," and of priests with mysterious powers over the gates of heaven and hell. Drink releases a fund of suppressed brutality and self-assertion. With pestilence or bad seasons the subjugated imagination escapes very readily into superstitious observance. The puzzled and distressed peasant is never very remote from the ancient blood sacrifice. His religion is primordial, it is unsophisticated superstition, entirely unspiritual.

* * * *

ALL these realities must, by a psychological necessity, be made to appear in the peasant's consciousness of himself in the most pleasing light possible—interwoven with a palatable presentation of any individual idiosyncrasy he may possess. He asks no why nor wherefore to explain his work and his property. There they are. What else could you have? But about himself, against any lurking doubts he must be sturdily reassured. He sees himself therefore as a good honest fellow, the friend of that friend of his, the local god or the Good God, as the case may be. That god also is as possessive and jealous and as hostile to strange ways and displays as his Maker. The peasant's God and the peasant stand upon their "rights" and do what they like with their own. The peasant is free from affectations and fal-lals, and none can better him at a bargain. Let anyone who would do him an injury beware. But nothing "stuck-up" or arrogant enters into his composition. He can be shrewd as well as worthy. He "knows his way about" and is far too wise to make enemies of the rich and great. A certain humor helps him to swallow and ignore any humilation that may come to him. He will laugh and, later on, get the better of them. The mills of the peasant, he flatters himself, grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small. On such terms with himself he finds his role in life endurable. It is a great consolation to reflect that many are (deservedly) worse off than himself.

* * * *

DERIVED very directly from this fundamental type of human persona is that of the mediocre town dweller who has drifted in from the countryside. The normal townsman is indeed a transplated peasant. This peasant-minded townsman is under the same necessity to reconcile his egoism to a laborious and inferior role, and he displays the same consequent exaltation of toil as a virtue, the same self-congratulation upon simplicity, sardonic humor and sagacity, and the same disposition to avarice and a tenacious adherence to a residuum of "rights." He is brought into a closer contact with a greater number of people, and that gives him a greater mental quickness. He needs a livelier sense of the instability and ultimate humiliation of those of better estate than himself because their better fortune presses upon him more closely.

Mrs. Quin Is Urged To Seek House Seat

Widow of Representative Gets Mate's Estate in Will Filed Here.

Jackson, Miss., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Gov. Connor today set Tuesday, March 15, as the date for holding an election in the Seventh Mississippi Congressional District to name a successor to Representative Percy Quin, who died last week in Washington.

Friends of the widow of the late representative are urging her to seek the office.

Mrs. Aylett Buchner Conner Quin, widow of Representative Quin, who died February 5, is named as the sole beneficiary of her husband's will, it was disclosed yesterday when that paper was filed for probate in the District Supreme Court.

The will, which contained no value for the estate, was made March 22, 1927. There are a number of small charitable bequests and legacies to relatives that were provided for in the event the death of Mrs. Quin had preceded that of her husband.

Mount Vesuvius Again Normal.

Naples, Italy, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Scientists observing Mount Vesuvius, which went dark on January 20, and was shaken as though by an earthquake, have seen no further signs of irregularity. The volcano resumed its normal activity the day after the unusual manifestations, and nothing further has happened.

Youth Hangs Self After War Talks

Virginia Farm Boy Was Morose on Possibility of U. S. Fighting.

Stuart, Va., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Funeral services were held today for a youth believed to have committed suicide when he became mentally unbalanced through brooding on the possibilities of the United States entering a war in the Orient. His body was found hanging in an oak tree early Saturday morning.

John Cassidy, 17, son of William Cassidy, a farmer, had talked of little beside the present hostilities in China for several days, his family revealed. On Friday he went out to do some work, and when he failed to return, the searching parties were organized.

About 2 o'clock in the morning the mattock with which he had been working was found, and not far away his body was discovered hanging from a limb of the tree. His belt had been used to form a noose.

Apparently he had made careful preparations. All the lower limbs of the stout young tree had been stripped away, and he had picked out a stout branch. The belt had been run through the buckle to make the noose, and the loose end tied around the limb.

MARY WASHINGTON CHAPTER IS FORMED

Third Unit of American War Mothers Chartered at Session Here.

The Mary Ball Washington Chapter of American War Mothers has been organized in honor of the woman who gave George Washington to his country 200 years ago. In presenting the charter yesterday at the Willard Hotel, Mrs. Virgil Stone, national president, gave an outline of the activities of the organization and spoke on the new home and headquarters recently purchased at 1527 New Hampshire avenue.

The new chapter is the third local chapter of American War Mothers, the other two being the District of Columbia Chapter organized by Mrs. Roscoe Oatley in 1919, and the Robert E. Coontz Chapter, whose members are mothers of those who served in the Navy and Marine Corps during the World War.

Among the members of the new chapter are the mothers of Gen. MacArthur, chief of staff of the Army; Mrs. Lawrence Washington, a collateral descendant of George Washington and the mother of five sons who served in the World War; Mrs. John D. Sherman, commissioner of the bicentennial; Mrs. Henry C. Coe, honorary president of the New England Society; Mrs. John D. Hird, Mrs. David J. Rumbough, Mrs. Joseph Wheatley, Mrs. G. W. McIver, Mrs. C. B. Quesenberry, Mrs. Eunice M. Parker, Mrs. M. J. Colbert, and Mrs. L. M. Haig.

The charter membership will be held open until after February 22, the anniversary of the date upon which America's first great war mother gave birth to her illustrious son.

Information concerning the chapter may be obtained from Mrs. M. C. O'Neill, national custodian of records, 313 V street northeast.

Schooner's Fate Is Told In Message From Bottle

Marshfield, Oreg., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Mystery surrounding the disappearance last September of the auxiliary schooner The South Coast is cleared, the Coos Bay Times said today in a copyrighted article, by discovery of a sealed message dropped into the sea by one of the crew of nineteen.

The paper said the message, scrawled on a scrap of wrapping paper and inclosed in a catsup bottle, read:

"S. S. South Coast going down after explosion when boiler blew up. Rough seas, 9:10 p. m. Good-by." The Times said the bottle was picked up by Mrs. Goldie Nagle, of Charleston, near the south jetty of the Coos Bay bar.

45 Are Killed by Storm On Indian Ocean Island

Paris, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A storm which struck Reunion Island, a French possession in the Indian Ocean, on February 4 left a death toll of 45, many injured and huge property damage. Receipt of reports was still hampered today by torn communication lines but it was known that most of the buildings in the cyclone area had been flattened and many plantations ruined.

Reunion, or Bourbon, is in the Mascarene group, about 485 miles east of Madagascar. Of volcanic origin, it is divided by a chain of mountains and a tableland into two parts. The population, mostly of French nativity, is around 200,000.

Moscow Denies Military Activities at Vladivostok

Moscow, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Reports of the existence of "warlike atmosphere" at Vladivostok were officially denied here today. The denial said there was no undue concentration of troops and munitions in the eastern Siberian city.

The military organ, Red Star, referred, however, to imperialist designs in Manchuria aimed at "throttling China's growing trend toward Soviet States." These same imperialist designs were aimed also, the organ said, at provoking Soviet Russia to war.

Belgium Plans Economy To Meet Budget Deficit

Brussels, Belgium, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Measures were drafted by the Belgian cabinet today to meet a $21,000,000 deficit in the budget due to suspension of German reparations for one year and a $28,000,000 deficit due to reduced tax receipts.

The fiscal program adopted would recover $11,000,000 by a 10 per cent reduction in Government salaries and pensions, $12,000,000 by budgetary economies, $14,000,000 by increased taxation and the remainder by higher tariffs.

Grace Sherman Richey Seeks Divorce in Reno

According to the action, the Richeys were married in Berkeley Springs, W. Va., on May 20, 1930 and again at McLean, Va., on March 13, 1931.

South Dakota to Protest U. S. Grasshopper Plan

Pierre, S. Dak., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A protest against President Hoover's plan of grasshopper control will be wired to South Dakota's congressional delegation by Gov. Green, the executive said today.

Under the plan suggested by the President Friday, the Federal Government would appropriate $1,450,000 to fight grasshoppers in the Northwest this year and next, this amount to be matched by cooperating State agencies. Gov. Green said he opposed the plan because of the drought and low crop prices would make difficult the raising of funds.

PUBLIC SACRIFICES ASKED IN TAX RISE

Crisp Makes Appeal as Job of Writing Bill to Balance Budget Begins.

(Associated Press.)

A grave appeal to the Nation for willing sacrifices in the interest of balancing the Federal budget was made yesterday as the House ways and means committee prepared to begin drafting a $1,000,000,000 tax bill.

Describing the situation as serious, Acting Chairman Crisp said that in his judgment "the foundation stone upon which economic recovery is based is a balanced budget." He added:

"If this not accomplished the United States securities, all other securities and property of every description will further be greatly depreciated in value and economic chaos is inevitable. Without a balanced budget all temporary relief measures passed by this Congress will be futile."

The ways and means committee is determined to commence work on drafting the new revenue act at the earliest possible moment, he said, in calling a meeting today to begin considering the Treasury's revised figures on the possible yield of the administration's program. The bill will be submitted to the House about March 1.

"If the credit of the United States is maintained and the budget is balanced additional taxes to the amount of $1,000,000,000 must be raised," the Georgian said. "Congress is confronted with the most unpleasant duty, for no one likes to be taxed. I know the ways and means committee will be actuated by patriotism and place the good of the country above their personal, political welfare. I do hope the patriotic American in this present emergency will be willing to undergo sacrifices for the common good of the people."

Duplicate of Washington Art Gem Placed on Sale

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A commercial art gallery today offered for sale a painting of Washington Crossing the Delaware—almost an exact duplicate of the picture at the Metropolitan Museum and by the same artist.

Robert Macbeth, proprietor of the gallery, said it has recently been discovered that Emmanuel Leutze painted three pictures of Washington Crossing the Delaware, almost alike. In addition to the one at the Metropolitan and that in his gallery, he said, there is a third in a private collection in Bremen, Germany.

HOUSE ORDERS QUIZ IN SILVER PROBLEM

Stabilization of Metal Value Sought in Inquiry by Coinage Group.

(Associated Press.)

A solution of the fundamental problem of money is the goal of the investigation into the depressed value of silver ordered yesterday by the House.

Without a record vote a resolution was adopted authorizing the House coinage committee to study the monetary policies of all countries, methods of stabilizing the value of silver and the advisability of an international conference to consider methods by which the metal may be stabilized. No limit was fixexd on the cost of the inquiry. The author of the measure, Chairman Somers, of the coinage committee, explained to the House that in its efforts to find a solution the group would "preserve the integrity of the gold standard because that system seems best suited to the habits and customs of the people of the United States."

Representative Stafford (Republican), Wisconsin, voiced the only opposition to the investigation. He declared this a most inopportune time for advocates of silver to "revive the bimetallism issues of the campaign of 1896 and Bryan's 16-to-1 theory.

"It is an endeavor of silver mining States to sell to the United States something that has no value," Stafford said.

Asserting the silver mining States had no desire to revive the 1896 issues, Representative Colton (Republican), Utah, noted that the investigation by the coinage committee had originated with Representative Somers, of New York, and other Eastern men with a view to finding a more sound money system for this country. The silver States, he added, favored the inquiry.

Representatives Arentz (Republican), Nevada, and Eaton (Republican), Colorado, said the inquiry would furnish Congress with information needed should an international conference be called on the problem.

Somers said hearings before the committee would get under way as soon as practical.

(Associated Press.)

A constitutional amendment to make possible a Federal tax on State and municipal bonds was introduced yesterday by Senator Bingham.

Commenting on his proposal, the Connecticut Republican said that at present "any very rich person who wants to escape taxation can put his money into nontaxables." He added that there are now "some $11,000,000,000 in State and municipal bonds that are nontaxable," and that this results in a huge loss of Federal revenue.

Berlin, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—More than a million Germans have already signed a petition urging President von Hindenburg to stand for reelection next spring, it was revealed tonight. Chancellor Bruening and Lord Mayor Heinrich Sahm, of Berlin, are supporting a movement to extend President von Hindenburg's term until the economic crisis in Germany has passed.

THE ROUTE TO HISTORYLAND

CHEST GOAL FATE UP FOR DECISION TODAY

3,000 Workers Will Meet at Willard to Seek Ways of Raising $208,908.

Community Chest Standing.

Reported yesterday ...	$1,690.75
Previously reported...	2,390,400.73
Total to date	2,392,091.48
Campaign goal	2,601,000.00
Still needed	208,908..2

Meeting at the Willard Hotel at 12:30 o'clock today, the Community Chest "army" of 3,000 workers will, by their reports, determine the fate of the 1932 Community Chest.

Following the meeting last Wednesday night, when the workers decided to continue on in an effort to complete the Chest's quota of $2,601,000, there have been no reports. The deficit at that time was slightly in excess of $200,000 and this has been reduced somewhat by new and additional gifts received at the office of the Chest and by the information unit at the F street entrance of the Willard.

Since Wednesday night, the "army" has been continuously in the field, seeking more pledges and additional pledges from those who have already given but who might be expected to give more. Making no reports; giving no information as to their progress, these men and women have kept steadily at work, each hoping that the gifts he or she is able to report at today's meeting would be added to sufficient to bring the total up to the desired figure of $2,601,000.

In Hands of People.

"The whole proposition is in the hands of the people of Washington," Edward F. Colladay, chairman of the campaign committee, said. "They have been told through the newspapers, over the radio, on the talking screen, through the use of prominent speakers and by word-of-mouth information, of the needs of the Chest.

"Everybody in Washington knows, or should know by now, that the minimum amount with which the Chest, through its member organizations, can adequately care for the human welfare needs of Washington is $2,601,000. That figure was reached after the most careful consideration of the budgets of every member agency by a group of men and women skilled, not only in social work, but in finance as well.

"The situation has been made clear to Washington. It is a known fact that the Chest provides aid, in some form, for approximately 100,000 persons of all races and creeds annually. It is a known fact that the Chest funds support orphans, aid destitute families, give tender, loving care to those too old to care for themselves, succor the sick and injured and build better citizenship among our young folks.

"Such a list of accomplishments ought to induce every Washingtonian who has means or a job to give and give liberally. Personally I think they have and will. But none of us can tell until tomorrow."

Additional Gifts Listed.

No statement was forthcoming as to whether the Chest workers would continue their efforts after today.

New gifts and additional gifts from persons who had already given continued to reach the Chest yesterday.

Among them were: $200, American Oil Co.; $10, anonymous; $5, C. B. Beatty; $25, Elizabeth T. Bell; $10, George W. Bell; $100, Bell Taxi Co.; $25, Hattie E. Burdette; $150, Mrs. J. B. Church; $5, G. 25 Cigars in Row Puzzle U. S. Bureau

Messenger in Commerce Building Finds 'Bombs;' Will Be Examined.

The mystery of 25 cigars wrapped in tinfoil and carefully placed 10 paces apart against the wall in the hallway of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce department in the new Commerce Building will probably be delegated to ashes and placed in some closet along with other bogeys that have mystified Commerce employes.

Charles Brent, a colored messenger in the department, discovered the cigars yesterday, and decided that they were not quite his brand when he saw the peculiar 10-pace distance between them. Officials who answered his call investigated the cigars, and one finally removed the tinfoil wrapping after warnings to the bystanders of bombing dangers that might lurk in the wrappings.

Examination proved the cigars harmless, and one of the clerks volunteered to light up and try one. He said that it was of an excellent brand. Officials, however, ordered them sent to a tobacco expert for examination, and building guards were told to investigate their presence.

LLOYD GEORGE SEEN AS HIGH TARIFF FOE

Liberal Leader May Head Crusade Against England's New Duty Move.

London, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—The prospect of David Lloyd George, former Liberal chief, as leader of a crusade against the British government's new tariff policy was presented to members of Parliament tonight.

While the House of Commons debated a motion from the Labor side for a vote of censure on the government for its decision to allow free-trade ministers to speak and vote against the tariff while retaining their ministerial posts, about 25 Liberals withdrew from the debate and held a meeting of their own. The motion of censure eventually was defeated, 438 to 39.

Most of the Liberals who withdrew were followers of Sir Herbert Samuel, one of the free-trade ministers involved in the arrangement. But also present were Lloyd George's three parliamentary supporters—his son Gwilym, his daughter Megan, and his son-in-law, Goronwy Owen. The two Liberal groups thus represented decided to join forces in creating effective opposition to the government's tariff policy.

Letters supporting their attitude were received from a number of other Liberal members of Parliament who were unable to attend the meeting.

Of any such combination of Liberals on the government's fiscal issue, Lloyd George would be the natural leader, and some political commentators saw in tonight's development a rock on which the national government formed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald to succeed his previous Labor government might sooner or later founder.

Princess of India Enters Johns Hopkins Clinic

Baltimore, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Princess Cornelia Sarobji, of Calcutta, India, well-known author, lecturer and traveler, has entered the Wilmer Ophthalmological Clinic of Johns Hopkins Hospital for observation, it became known today.

She is a royal Hindu princess, the fifth daughter of the late Rev. Sarobji Kharsedji and Franscina Sarobji and holds the degree of bachelor of civil law from Oxford University. Princess Sarobji came to the clinic after developing an eye ailment which it was feared might lead to blindness. She is under the care of Dr. William Holland Wilmer, director of the clinic, but as yet the exact nature of the ailment has not been determined.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO DRILL TONIGHT

Ball of Six Commanderies to Follow Prize Contest; 6,000 Expected.

All plans have been completed for the third annual competitive drill and grand ball of the Washington Knights Templar, to be held tonight in the Washington Auditorium, as the culmination of the year's activities of the order.

Approximately 6,000 persons are expected to watch the colorful performance of the strikingly uniformed knights as they go through the intricate maneuvers of their drill.

A schedule of the movements to be demonstrated will be given the captains of the six drill teams just a half hour before they go on the floor, thereby testing the knowledge and ability of the commanders as well as the training of the men.

Six Commanderies Represented.

Teams of the six commanderies have been practicing nightly in their commandery asylums for several weeks, and have developed marked enthusiasm for the contest. The commanderies to be represented are Washington, No. 1; Columbia, No. 2; Potomac, No. 3; De Molay, No. 4; Orient, No. 5, and Brightwood, No. 6.

Most of the heads of other Masonic organizations in the District have signified their intentions of attending the affair, as have a number of Knights Templar officers from other jurisdictions.

Reuben A. Bogley, grand master of Masons in the District of Columbia, is commander of Washington Commandery of the Knights Templar and will be present for the drill and ball.

Extra Chairs Provided.

Because of the inadequacy of the seating facilities last year an extra number of chairs have been secured, James Graham, chairman of the general committee in charge, announced, and all who wish to witness the drill will be accommodated.

Cash prizes totaling $300 will be awarded following completion of the drill and inspection. There also will be medals awarded in an individual sword contest.

Following the competitions, the various drill teams will merge and go through massed maneuvers. Then the floor will be cleared and the dancing will commence.

The attendance of the members of the commanderies in uniform will be considered in awarding the prize for general excellence, and to facilitate counting them a registration booth has been placed at the entrance to the auditorium. The knights must register at that place in order to be counted.

Portions of Miss Samuelson's body were found in a suitcase Mrs. Judd had left in the care of a Negro maid in the women's waiting room of the station.

Within an hour, it was established in Phoenix that Mrs. L. Roi, X-ray technician of a clinic at which Mrs. Judd also was employed, and Miss Samuelson, tuberculosis convalescent friend of both women, had not been seen for three days.

Investigators found bloodstains in the bedroom and kitchen of the apartment of the two missing women at 2929 North Second street, Phoenix.

They found tracks across the back yard, indicating a trunk had been dragged into the house from the garage.

Evidence Accumulates.

They found a transfer company truck driver who took a trunk, at Mrs. Judd's request, from 2929 North Second street to her own apartment, 1130 East Brill street, the night of October 17. Mrs. Judd rode with him on the front seat of his truck after he had refused to take the trunk to the railway station because it was too heavy even to be checked as excess baggage.

Mrs. Judd's landlord said he and his son hauled two trunks, a suitcase and a hat box to the station Sunday, October 18, Mrs. Judd accompanying them.

Questioned by the district baggage master when she appeared to claim her baggage, Mrs. Judd left the Los Angeles station ostensibly to obtain keys to open the trunks, and was seen no more until she surrendered four days later.

It later was disclosed Mrs. Judd had spent most of the time dodging from floor to floor of a Los Angeles department store.

MIDDLETON CHARGE DROPPED BY COURT

Indictment Alleging Theft and Housebreaking Is Nolle Prossed.

An indictment charging Policeman Wallace Middleton, Twelfth Precinct, with housebreaking and larceny, was dropped in District Supreme Court yesterday when Assistant United States Attorneys John J. Strica and William H. Collins asked Justice F. D. Letts to nolle pros the paper.

The indictment charged that Middleton had broken into a place on I street, near Twelfth street northwest, and had taken $22 in cash and some small articles.

Middleton was recently tried on similar charges before the Police Trial Board and was exonerated. On the strength of that the Government reached the conclusion that there was no case against the policeman and the indictment was dropped. Middleton at one time was held for investigation shortly after the killing of Jack Cunningham, police informer, but no charges were ever placed against him.

It is expected that he will soon be restored to duty, having been suspended last summer.

Beauties Parade in Private As Court Holds Show Fund

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—The opening of the American Beauty Exposition—a schehduled feature of the American Hairdressers Association, now in convention here—today resolved itself into a beauty show without an audience.

While officials of the exposition fought in court to lift a restraining order obtained by the Hairdressers Association, two dozen models, dressed in the latest gowns and coiffured in the newest fashion, paraded in rooms from which the public was barred by the order.

Fifteen delegates to the hairdressers' conference obtained the restraining order in Circuit Court, charging Edwin Strauss and Clothilde Landers, officials of the beauty exposition, with conducting a promotion scheme with the funds of the association. Strauss is president of both organizations.

After lengthy argument by attorneys, Circuit Judge Guy A. Miller lifted the restraining order, but ordered Strauss and Miss Landers not to dispose of any funds of the Hairdressers Association in their operation of the beauty exposition, and told them to make an accounting of the funds of both groups.

The models, after spending an afternoon in the showrooms with no one to look at them, were ordered to return tomorrow, when, it was announced the beauty exposition will get under way.

Rockefeller's Annoyer Suffers Hallucinations

Deland, Fla., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Doctors appointed by the court to examine a woman who is reputed to have annoyed John D. Rockefeller, sr., on several occasions recently by "hanging around" his golf course reported today that she is suffering a mild dementia evinced by hallucinations.

She gave her name as Mrs. Alberta Storchi, 31, of Newark, N. J. The examination was made on petition of five Ormond citizens. No order for commitment was made by County Judge J. E. Peacock, as the woman is a nonresident of Florida, having been in the State only a month. Efforts are being made to communicate with a brother in Newark.

Brother of Girl Suspect In Kidnaping Is Accused

Tucson, Ariz., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A warrant charging attempted murder was issued today against Clifford Adkins, brother of Miss Billie Adkins, 20, who is held as a material witness in the kidnaping of Gordon Sawyer, Tucson banker.

The county attorney charged Clifford Adkins was the man who fired upon deputies as they approached the Adkins ranch where Sawyer was held captive last Friday while his abductors attempted to collect $60,000 for his release. The occupants of the ranch escaped when the deputies sought reinforcement. Sawyer was rescued from a nearby well.

"The extra protection to my throat"

MIND IF I COLLYER "JUNE"?

June is one of New York's "400." When she middle-aisled it, dozens of eligible bachelors went back into circulation. She has a coffee-and-cream complexion, enough hats to start a hat store, and a yen for sausage. She made history for herself in WARNER BROS.' PICTURE, "ALEXANDER HAMILTON." For 4 years she has smoked LUCKIES. June Collyer gave that nice statement because she wanted to, and not for money, which makes the makers of LUCKY STRIKE as happy as a day with June!

"It's the extra things I get from LUCKIES that make me so enthusiastic. The extra protection to my throat, the extra fine flavor of LUCKY STRIKE'S choice tobaccos. And the extra convenience of the little tab which opens the LUCKY Cellophane wrapper so easily."

MANACLES FOR CHINA.

Japan's purpose in destroying Shanghai and invading Manchuria becomes clearer with the proposal for revision of the nine-power treaty. Having intrenched themselves in Manchuria, the Japanese ask that the treaty be so altered as to concede Japanese sovereignty in that vast and rich province. Japan asks the other great powers to assist in binding and gagging China so that the Japanese may extract commercial profits from that unfortunate land without danger of boycotts or anti-Japanese movements.

In these proposals Japan undoubtedly reveals her actual motives. It is a far cry from the declarations that came from Tokyo when the Japanese began to invade Manchuria to the proposals that are now made after Japan has obtained a death grip upon China's throat. In view of what the world has already experienced, perhaps the present suggestion of neutral zones about China's foremost commercial cities is an invitation to the powers to divide China for purposes of exploitation.

Assurance was given a few weeks ago that Japan had no intention of taking over Manchuria. Propagandists even went so far as to show how it would be to the disadvantage of the Japanese to absorb this province into the Japanese empire. Now a spokesman for the government asks that Manchuria be eliminated from the treaty guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

The stubborn resistance of the Chinese at Shanghai has given warning to the Japanese that China as a whole can not be subjugated. Japan might crush China with its superior army. It is not to be supposed that the unorganized Chinese forces would be any match for Japan, in spite of the spirited defense of Shanghai and Woosung. But Japan can not erase hatred from the hearts of the Chinese. Already Japanese trade has suffered greatly because of the boycott at Shanghai and other Chinese cities. The Tokyo government would doubtless consider the whole project a failure if it resulted in the ruin of Japan's lucrative trade.

It is for this reason that Japan calls upon other governments to assist in putting economic shackles upon China. This would give the sanction of international agreement to Japan's ambition, and it might be the first step to a more ambitious military expedition against China proper. China would accept no such humiliation without a desperate struggle. The National government would probably disintegrate, leaving China without law and order, except such as is provided by the war lords. That would furnish an excellent excuse for further aggression by Japan, and all hope that China might become a national unit would be abandoned. Japan would completely dominate the Orient.

The United States will not tolerate this or any other proposition looking toward the dismemberment of China. This country may be expected to stand firm upon the nine-power pact as it is at present constituted. If Japan assumes that China can be fettered with the complicity of this country and other signatories to the nine-power treaty, she has seriously underestimated both the intelligence and the integrity of the governments with which she is dealing.

STIMULATING RECOVERY.

The world of business and finance has awakened to a realization that when a depression has run its course, measures can be taken to assist the naturally slow course of recovery. Stagnation in trade and industry can not be suddenly transformed into normal activity, but coordination of effort and the use of Government credit to supplement and reassure established institutions can hasten the return of confidence and start production.

The improved situation of the railroads is alone sufficient to cause a better feeling throughout the country. Their labor difficulties have been amicably adjusted in an unprecedented manner, a credit pool has been arranged in connection with the granting of increased rates, and roads that need help from the new Reconstruction Corporation will be in a position to receive assistance. All these agencies for good have been created through the wholesome cooperation of the Government and the railways within their own organizations. It is not difficult to visualize the picture that would have been presented by this time if foresight and good judgment had not provided remedial measures.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which has organized for active business in remarkably short order, will not only give stability and renewed impetus to the railways, but to agriculture, banks, industry and trade. This institution will mobilize many times the actual sums it disburses in loans. Once the financial institutions of the country know that a Government reserve fund is available for assistance when needed they will have the necessary assurance to relax the stringent restrictions upon credits which have been a prudent policy during uncertain times.

The stock market seems to be the greatest laggard in the present situation. With many standard issues below levels that are not justified by either assets or dividend records, the market fails to sustain an upward movement. Reports from New York indicate that the metropolis is the greatest gloom center in the United States. Other sections of the country show encouraging signs of recovery and an optimistic attitude for the coming year. The remoteness of any danger that this country may be seriously embroiled in the Oriental troubles, and the growing feeling that the United States can recover in its prosperity regardless of what Geneva or European nations may do, indicate reviving faith among Americans and better appreciation of the possibilities that exist here at home.

INCREASE HOME CONSUMPTION.

The appearance of Mrs. Hoover in a cotton dress at a formal White House reception has attracted wide attention and comment. It was a gracious gesture for the First Lady of the Land to make, and is significant of the movement that is destined to find many supporters in this country before this year has ended. It is the effort to promote greater use of American products in America. American producers, both of raw materials and manufactured goods, realize that the last few years, particularly the past year, have brought about changes in world trade, which, if not permanent, will persist for a period that will necessitate readjustments in many lines of American output.

The buying power of all nations has been materially reduced by the depression and the development of both agriculture and manufacturing abroad has brought unprecedented competition. But the curtailment of export markets will not be an unmixed evil if it turns the attention of American producers to the possibilities that lie in a more intensive cultivation of the great home market of the United States. More particularly is this true if the agricultural interests realize the importance of providing new uses for their products rather than depending upon exporting the raw materials.

That various industries are working toward this end is most encouraging. American women probably can not be induced to go back to cotton stockings, but there are other lines besides hosiery and dress goods that are receiving attention from the cotton growers, the spinners and the manufacturers. It is already announced that cotton clothing for men will be widely adopted this summer by clothiers, and in the warmer sections an effort will be made to encourage the use of seersucker suits. Cotton bags have begun to supplant burlap containers for potatoes, grain, fertilizer, nuts and other products of the farm.

The Cotton Textile Institute is engaged in useful research to develop new uses for surplus cotton fiber. Cotton fabric has even been employed for reinforcement in road construction in Georgia. Studies have been initiated to determine the practicability of using cotton in paper manufacture, and for wall covering, aeronautical fabrics, wall boards and coverings for underground pipes. This scientific enterprise in behalf of greater use of cotton is an indication of what can be done in every case in which overproduction exists. A judicious limitation of output, with returning expansion of consumption, coupled with systematic and scientific development of new uses, will enable American producers to be in much greater measure independent of the uncertainties of export markets.

COMPETITION WITH BANKS.

Agitation for an increase in the limit of postal savings is supported by the same sentiment that has influenced many individuals to hoard money. Since the depression began postal savings have mounted to the highest total ever recorded. It is apparent that people have been drawing their money out of banks and constructive enterprise to lodge it in the safekeeping of the Government.

The postal savings system was designed to aid persons of small incomes, chiefly immigrants, who did not have free access to or were unfamiliar with savings bank facilities. To prevent competition with banks the Government pays only a low rate of interest and deposits are limited to $2,500 per person. A bill introduced in the House sought to double the maximum amount that might be received by the postal savings department. The committee on postoffices and postroads has taken adverse action on the measure, and it probably never will reach the floor of the House.

The Government ought not to enter into competition with the banks, especially at this time when the banks are having difficulty in meeting the demands of their depositors. President Hoover has started a Nation-wide movement to encourage the return of hoarded money to the banks. It would be highly inconsistent for the Government at the same time to encourage the withdrawal of banking accounts for deposit in the postal savings system. The need of the hour is for more and not less confidence in the country's private financial institutions. In sidetracking this measure the postoffice committee did an excellent day's work.

TARIFF NONSENSE.

Senator Hull, of Tennessee, is one of those prolific statesmen who love "to garnish nonsense with the charms of sound." His two-hour tirade in the Senate yesterday contained more hysteria and imaginary grievances than any to which that body has listened for a long time. No new thought was offered by the Tennessee solon. Although he denounced the "leaderless" Republican administration, he offered no new wisdom that might be applied to the existing hard times. He merely ranted, put his bogey men on parade and then subsided without making any move to correct the alleged iniquities which he denounced.

The senator from Tennessee has a fatiguing habit of wallowing in figures that mean nothing. Apparently he is a believer in the theory that anything can be proved by statistics. But he so generously evades pertinent facts that his figures become a jumble of captious arguments that lack the essence of conviction. His attitude is that of a critic who is dissatisfied with everything, but has no suggestion as to how anything can be improved.

The chief object of Senator Hull's wrath is the Smoot-Hawley tariff. With enthusiastic disregard of facts he raved about the destructon of world trade by American economic barriers. What the senator ought to have said, if he really intended to represent the situation in its true light, is that prices have fallen in all the world and that the figures showing the value of international trade are not so impressive as they were, but that a tremendous volume of goods continues to be sold across national boundary lines in spite of the depression. If he had wished to deal fairly with the farmers and the workingmen whom he represents, he would have set forth the fact that in the depression year of 1931 imports were only 10 per cent below 1930, although domestic production was sharply curtailed and millions of Americans were unemployed. But the senator refuses to face that fact. He keeps his head high in the clouds of international commerce while hungry workmen swarm about and ask for jobs.

Senator Hull worked himself into a frenzy over the desirability of an export market for the United States, apparently oblivious of the fact that this country has the greatest export market in the world. Pretending to represent the welfare of the American people, he advocated a policy of sacrificing the lesser industries of this country, so that foreigners might supply this market with products now made by American labor in American factories. He asks this sacrifice on the part of American producers and workers so that the gigantic machinery and automobile industries and other exporting groups might reap greater profits from their export sales. If Senator Hull would come out of his international groove just once in a while he would realize that he is not helping Tennessee workers by trying to destroy home employment.

What does the senator intend to do about this "vicious" policy of giving Americans preference over foreigners? He has not dared to propose the reduction of specific duties in this critical time. The Democratic party, which he represents, has completely evaded the issue, although it is in control of the House, where such legislation must originate. The country will pay no attention to what the senator says, so long as he is at such wide variance with what he and the Democratic party are doing. Let Senator Hull name a duty that should be abolished or reduced. Let him name an American industry that should be destroyed in order that some other industry may sell more goods abroad.

REDUCING THE DEFICIT

By SAMUEL RUSSELL.

In order to reduce the debit balance in the budget it is being proposed that $600,000,000 of additional Federal revenues be raised by a 1 per cent general manufacturers' sales tax. This proposal calls for a new tax on business.

The largest definable flow of dollars in the United States is the annual flow of dollars into the coffers of business corporations. In the slack year 1930 this flow of corporate dollars ran to $120,291,711,677. In the same year the total business and partnership dollars reported in personal income tax returns was $3,620,170,046. Noncorporate business receipts comprise but 3 per cent of the reported business dollar returns of the country. The corporation tax in any form is, therefore, distinctively and comprehensively a tax on business.

The Federal corporation tax paid $1,229,000,000 in 1926, $1,130,000,000 in 1927, $1,184,000,000 in 1928, $1,193,000,000 in 1929 and then fell to $618,000,000 in 1930. All money is produced by business. The problem, therefore, is to get the normal $1,200,000,000 of Federal revenues from business taxes. Gross corporate dollar income is the primary source for Government revenues whatever form the tax takes. And there is a better way to get $600,000,000 more of revenue from business than by a new general sales tax.

More than one-half of the business corporations of the country with a full one-third of the aggregate business dollar receipts reported at $41,144,687,859 paid no Federal taxes in 1930. A Federal levy of 1 per cent on these dollar receipts would bring in $400,000,000 of new revenue and an identical levy of 1 per cent on the other corporations which reported $79,147,747,670 of dollar receipts in 1930 would bring in $790,000,000, which would be $172,000,000 in excess of the $618,000,000 paid by these corporations in 1930. This arrangement would bring in $570,000,000 of new revenue as against the $600,000,000 hoped for by a general sales tax of 1 per cent. At the same time the present complicated corporation profits tax could be suspended or full credit could be given against the profits tax for payments made under the 1 per cent business duty.

An alternative would be to repeal the deduction of interest to produce corporate net income of $10,000,000,000 upon which the present rate of 12 per cent would raise $1,200,000,000, or roundly $600,000,000 in excess of the collections of 1930.

Either of these alternatives is to be preferred to a general sales tax as a duplicate to the present corporation tax.

The corporate business dollars returned at $120,000,000,000 in 1930 represent $1,000 of in-payments to corporations for every man, woman and child in the country.

But there are 100,000,000 inhabitants who have less than $1,000 of annual dollar income. There are 20,000,000 inhabitants who have incomes in the range from $1,000 to $10,000. And there are 250,000 inhabitants who have incomes which range from $10,000 to $5,000,000. All these incomes above $1,000 may be made taxable at rates which range from 1 mill on $1,000 to 400 mills on $400,000, with a maximum rate of 40 per cent on incomes above this level. This plan will increase the revenues and at the same time will equalize, rationalize and democratize the personal income tax. The small sales tax should be ruled out, and that goes also for new special sales taxes. They are impolitic and unnecessary.

POST HASTE.

"I am the leader of my party." Unhappy the warrior who must himself proclaim it.

Again the Democratic two-thirds rule permits one man to say: "I lead, or I name the leader."

Prohibition and religion should have no place in politics, but Smith is their middle name.

Senator King says the Smith statement is "equivalent to a wish that he shall not be considered a candidate." The senator has been reading those Japanese statements that "it isn't war."

In making his "position clear" Al Smith removes all suspicion that he might be different from every other man in the United States—he will accept a Presidential nomination if it is forced upon him.

Japan now proposes to divide the expense with other powers of permanently policing the commercial centers of China, but not including Manchuria, thus gently breaking the news that Manchuria is no longer a part of China.

The League of Nations hasn't been able to do much with the Far Eastern trouble involving some 500,000,000 people, but will now be given a chance to practice on the Memel dispute where only 35,000 are involved.

England thinks she has adopted a protective tariff, but Senator Barkley informs the Britishers that it is purely a retaliatory measure aimed at the American tariff of two years ago. At least he can't call the Englishmen precipitate in their spite work.

Judge Linebarger, American advisor of the Chinese government, is no believer in the force of understatement. He warns that Japan's aim is mastery of the Pacific and her economic control would reduce America to such depths of poverty that we will be willing to accept Japanese domination as a matter of rescue from the same misery that China today is suffering. Wouldn't that be terrible?

Of the $150,000,000,000 of life insurance in the world well over two-thirds is held in the United States. You can figure on most business in the same proportion. Cultivate the home market.

For a country that has income taxes running from 25 to 60 per cent and inheritance taxes of 50 per cent, England shows lamentable inexperience in levying a mere 10 per cent tariff.

The Happy Warrior will fight like a champ at the Democratic convention, but his will be the role of a Champ Clark.

"The Japanese invasion is a moot question." There have been more hoots than moots.

Speaking of the Democratic relief bill, how would you like to be a governor and declare your State a pauper in order to borrow Government money in violation of the State constitution, promising that the constitution would be changed and a future Legislature repay the loan?

UNLUCKY DOGS.

One of the unluckiest things that can happen to a breed of dogs is to get fashionable, says the Cleveland Press. This means that the dogs will be transplanted in huge numbers from their natural environment to overheated apartments. It means, in many cases, that hardy animals bred to hunt and fight will have to eat chocolates and sleep on silk pillows.

One of the popular breeds these days is the Scotch terrier. Certainly a rugged, warm-coated, tough-fibered outdoors dog if there ever was one. Yet—believe it or not—full grown Scotch terriers may be seen on the streets of Cleveland wearing knitted sweaters on cold days. Think of the humiliation!

To Get the Balk Out of a Horse's Feet First Get It Out of His Head

By ROBERT QUILLEN

YEARS ago, when newspaper ownership was more of an adventure than it is now, a new town in the West was scolded and tutored by a redheaded editor who dearly loved a fight in the name of righteousness.

This editor, like others of his time, expressed his disapproval of men and measures in language more forcible than elegant. If he began a campaign against a tax program or municipal ordinance, he ended by denouncing and insulting all of those who supported it.

His methods made life pleasantly exciting, but they paid no dividends. Each campaign cost him a few subscribers and advertisers. One by one his friends and acquaintances were offended and turned into enemies, until at last he could scarce walk a block without meeting some one who turned angrily away to avoid his greeting.

A sheriff's sale of his plant taught him wisdom. In his hour of defeat and bitterness he said to himself: "I have spent thirty years fighting for the right and haven't a dollar to show for it. People cheer when I skin the forces of evil, but cheers pay few bills. The causes I fought for are forgotten and only the sore spots I made are left. I never once converted a heathen by calling him names. I merely did the dirty work for other men who remained discreetly in the background, and my only reward is a flat purse and a town full of enemies."

The cream of the story is the fact that it happens to be true. And the moral is sorely needed by crusaders who flourish today.

We are a Nation of reformers. Yet we lack the patience to be sweetly reasonable; and when some recalcitrant brother refuses to do as we think he should, we mutter in grim and righteous ire: "By thunder! I'll make you do it!"

But it can't be done. Americans can be led, but not driven. Their answer to the word "must" is: "Oh, yeah? Let's see you make me."

Rage and venom may move a mob or win a momentary triumph, but no cause is definitely established except and until it earns the calm approval of thinking men.

If that is true, and you know it is true, why not omit the vituperation and the appeals to prejudice and the tricky propaganda that serve only to increase the bitterness of conflict and appeal to fair play and common sense in the first place?

The sword has won savage lands, but it never has converted any savages.

Election Costs.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Interest in what it costs to elect a President of the United States is widespread just now, because a President is to be elected this year, and times are hard. The Democrats are trying to raise a $1,500,000 victory fund. The Republicans are having hard sledding trying to get cash.

William C. Murphy, in the Commonwealth, presents official figures, ascertained in reports to the Senate, on what has been spent in behalf of various presidential nominees from 1896 to 1924. Here is the summary:

In 1896: McKinley, $3,500,000; Bryan, $675,000; McKinley was elected. 1900: McKinley, $2,500,000; Bryan, $425,000; McKinley was elected. 1904: Roosevelt, $1,900,000; Parker, $700,000; Roosevelt was elected. 1908: Taft, $1,555,518; Bryan, $900,000; Taft was elected. 1912: Wilson, $1,130,000; Taft, $1,070,000; Roosevelt, $670,000; Wilson was elected. 1916 (the exception noted): Wilson, $1,958,000; Hughes, $3,829,000; Wilson was elected. 1920: Harding, $5,319,729; Cox, $1,318,374; Harding was elected. 1924: Coolidge, $3,063,952; Davis, $903,908; La Follette, $221,977; Coolidge was elected.

Francis Powell, president of the American Chamber of Commerce in London, told a gathering of London business men that the attitude of Europe toward the debts owed America was startling and that the attacks upon the United States in the English press were having a very bad effect upon Americans, who could not understand why they should be slandered simply because money had been borrowed of them and because the debtors did not want to pay it back.

Uncle Sam often seems to be too truly Uncle Sap rather than Uncle Shylock and when he can be so often the world's softest boiled egg it is exasperating to have his very weaknesses redistilled by covetous critics into the opposite qualities of greed and brutality. This manner of paying a debt has run without a moratorium.

Europeans who are trying to make slander legal tender for the payment of international debts would do better to consider what effect such a course will have upon the world's credit structure. They are telling the world's banker that he makes loans at his own risk and without security or good faith.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

United States Should Take Over West Indian Islands in Part Payment of War Debts.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Let's get something back for our foreign debts, anyway.

Let's not relinquish our mortgage without getting something tangible for it. And let's not let it drift and drift into propaganda-led nothing at all.

Some thirty years ago we were smart enough to acquire Hawaii.

Back in Seward's time we acquired Alaska.

We are grateful, indeed, for both these acquisitions. Who is not?

Likewise grateful will future generations be if the island menace near our eastern shores and the canal, Bermuda, Bahamas, the British and French possessions, are removed from overseas control. Excellent little nests for naval and airship hornets, these.

Cancel what portion of the debt you wish in return for these. Cancel all of it if you will and must, but let's not give away the mortgage America owns without getting at least something permanent and tangible.

Foreign nations constantly assert that these debts are the one great obstruction to world prosperity. If so, they should be willing to contribute in a way which will not take their cash. They may not have the money; they do have the land. They acquired incalculable new territories in the war. They always forget to mention these when they talk to us. They always forget that all America received was deaths, debts and taxation. It is convenient for them to forget the possible coal, oil, gold, silver, lead and zinc and no one knows what, under those thousands of miles of territory they acquired, and we stupidly seldom remind them.

They may be money poor, but they are land rich. So, let us have a little of this land—simply that lying so near us that latent danger lies there with it! They may never accept the proposition; they probably wont, because they appreciate the advantage of these islands if we do not. But at least it would put the problem of saving the financial situation up to them. It would be their next move, and the moral responsibility which they love to throw upon us would rest upon them.

We all know about the Virgin Islands being a "poor house" and why they are so. Bermuda, the Bahamas, Jamaica are not "poor houses," and they are too near our shores and the canal to be owned in Europe. Yes, we know about the "consent of the governed" which is a hypocritical reason which would be advanced per contra. Those who control Egypt, Trentino, Cyprus and Syria aren't worrying about "consent of the governed." We do not want far away territories, but the opportunity is not likely to come again to secure what future generations will feel should have been secured when the chance existed.

Let's be nationalistic enough and sensible enough to get something tangible for the people of the United States, for their benefit and protection—though with all the liberality in the world in the trade.

New Left Turn Deadly Unless Pedestrians Are More Careful Than Ever.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In The Post recently a traffic regulation letter says that "the left-hand turn has been perfected." Said letter was all right in suggesting that traffic "experts" should give more attention to the matter of traffic safety. But I do not agree with the writer as to the left-hand turn's perfection. It now inconveniences pedestrians a great deal more than it did when motorists were forced to lose a little more time in making it. It is much more dangerous because fool motorists with no policeman nearby, can now cut left-hand corners easily, which they couldn't do with the old turn. Also a pedestrian who doesn't watch out may now at any time have his life endangered by a speeding right-turn car behind and a left-turn speeder in front of him. It is a case where the pedestrian may be fooled by his trust in the signal lights. Indeed, there is now considerable danger of being caught and mangled between the "perfected" left and the treacherous right-turn. For that reason alone, even if the convenience of careful motorists as well as pedestrians did not demand it, there are many now unregulated crossings at which traffic cops should be stationed during rush hours. SUPPER'S READY.

Supper's ready! There's the call
I delight in most of all!
With the evening settling down,
Everybody home from town,
Tired and hungry, but content
With the way the day was spent Waiting patient as can be Mother's cry: "Come on to tea!"

Supper's ready! One and all
Hurry gladly down the hall,
And with smiles upon their faces
At the table take their places.
Here's a summons, girl and boy,
Not to labor, but to joy;
Not to do and dare and die,
But to bread and meat and pie!

Supper's ready Do you hear?
Loved ones come and gather near,
Put away your petty cares,
To the table draw your chairs.
Now the busy day is done,
Let's be merry every one,
And be grateful to the Lord
For the food upon the board.

LUTZ GIRL, 7, FOUND ATTACKED AND SLAIN

Man Held in Philadelphia; New York Detains 6 in Similar Crime.

Philadelphia, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Attacked and choked to death, the body of 7-year-old Dorothy Lutz, who had been missing since Wednesday, was found today in a second-floor room of a ramshackle vacant house a few doors from her own home.

The body was found by two policemen who were among several hundred police and firemen engaged in an intensive search of the North Philadelphia neighborhood, where the child lived with her widowed mother.

Assistant Superintendent of Police J. A. Lestrange said a police surgeon's examination showed the child had been dead in all probability since last Friday.

Police said the house had been taken over by the city last week for default in the payment of taxes. A colored family moved out of the place last Thursday, they said. Efforts are being made to learn where the family went.

Widowed Mother Collapses.

Dorothy's mother, Mrs. Florence Lutz, collapsed when she learned the child had been slain. She had held to the hope that the girl had wandered from home and been taken in by some persons who were afraid to report to police for fear they would be charged with kidnaping.

Fingerprint experts made a close inspection of the girl's torn clothing before the body was removed to the morgue for an autopsy.

A 58-year-old man who was arrested Saturday on a complaint that he was disorderly in the vicinity of a home for children was immediately subjected to questioning about Dorothy's death. Police said the woman who made the complaint against him stated he had asked her if she "could take care of a 7-year-old girl."

The child's father, Peter Lutz, a janitor in an apartment house, died three weeks ago. Shortly after his death Mrs. Lutz moved to her present home and her father took up residence with her. Dorothy was an only child, a young brother having died two years ago.

New York Suspect Held.

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Soon after a white hearse had carried the garroted body of 5-year-old Florence McDonnell to her burial today, Oliver Hicks, the Negro-Indian arrested Thursday night as a suspect in the attack and killing, was identified as a man seen walking with the child about the time she disappeared.

A Salvation Army officer picked Hicks out of a line-up of nine men, and said he had seen him walking with the little girl Wednesday, police said. The child's body was found in a Brooklyn tenement basement Thursday.

Hicks was made to change clothes and appear in another line-up, and the identification was repeated.

At the funeral five other men were arrested when police deemed their actions suspicious. Three were taken in custody outside the Holy Rosary Church, in Brooklyn, among the overflow crowd from the services. Two were arrested outside the tenement. All five were held for questioning.

At the cemetery the child's mother fainted as the coffin was being lowered into the grave. She was carried to a waiting automobile.

Stearn, of the Birmingham Community Chest, saying no direct Federal charity was needed, but urging a Government appropriation for roads.

President Green, of the American Federation of Labor, announced that officers of the federation representing approximately 5,000,000 working men and women, would meet today to consider the relief legislation before Congress and other measures.

During hearings on the La Follette-Costigan bill, the federation strongly expressed itself as favoring direct Federal aid, asserting it was badly needed.

"It is a foregone conclusioun." President Green said, "that the conference will ask Congress to appropriate an adequate sum of money for the purpose of providing the minimum amount of relief required by millions of working men and women and their dependents who are hungry."

He said this action would be supplemented by a strong appeal to Congress to enact injunction relief legislation.

Meanwhile on the House side Representative Lovette (Republican), of Tennessee, a member of the labor subcommittee that has been conducting hearings on the La Follette-Costigan measure, introduced a bill to set up a $375,000,000 relief fund.

His measure would have the money administered by the Secretary of the Treasury, Agriculture and Labor. The fund would be allocated to States in proportion to population but only when the governor or Legislature shall designate a special agency for its administration and formally apply for the money.

Favored by Bulkley.

Enactment of the Democratic measure to appropriate $750,000,000 for unemployment relief was urged last night by Senator Bulkley (Democrat), Ohio, in a radio address.

The senator cited four reasons for sponsoring the Democratic substitute for the La Follette-Costigan bill now before the Senate, which would set aside $375,000,000 for direct Federal relief. They were:

"First, because it provides work in addition to relief.

Does Not Provide Dole.

"Second, because it does not provide a dole nor a gift nor an invitation to relaxation of local effort, but it does make available substantial sums as loans to States wherever the needs justify such help.

"Third, because it gives the States the right to administer the relief through those experienced agencies which are already handling the situation, without any bureaucratic red tape and Federal domination of local administration.

"Fourth, because it avoids a direct invitation to a presidential veto by avoiding the La Follette-Costigan provision for giving away of Federal money to displace what ought to be raised by local responsibility."

State committee. Each will be charged with setting up an organization in every community, he said, uniting in the community newspapers, Boards of Trade, the American Legion, Rotary, Kiwanis, American Federation of Labor and other groups.

As a central advisory body, Col. Knox said, there will be the leaders of more than two-score national associations, with a membership of more than 20,000,000 whose aid in the antihoarding move already has been pledged.

Working on Definite Plan.

The Chicago publisher said President Hoover and other Federal leaders were at work on a definite and specific plan "to bring money out of hiding."

He hinted it might involve some attractive magnet for pulling out the estimated $1,500,000,000 in hoarding, but said no outline of it could be given until it was "copper-riveted and complete."

Exuding confidence Col. Knox said his national organization would seek to drive home everywhere the idea that "each community must get behind itself."

"We must convince each individual," he said, "that for his own selfish interest he must have confidence in his own institutions and that the effect of withdrawing money from them results in economic strangulation."

He cited as an example the experience of Aurora, Ill. When people became "nervous" there and began withdrawing money from their banks, he said, an appeal was made to the mayor.

"A moratorium on all business was declared for five days," Col. Knox explained "and everything was shut down except the grocery and drug stores. During that time the community caught up with itself through town meetings, house-to-house canvasses and a visit from the bank examiners declaring these institutions sound.

Bank Deposits Increased.

"On the first day the banks opened deposits increased by $1,000,000. They have gone up ever since. This is the way to tackle the problem. No one can sit here or in Chicago and solve the situation."

Col. Knox said he would leave the Capital today after a conference with Acting Secretary Mills of the Treasuary and that headquarters for the drive would be created in Chicago.

The Reconstruction Corporation yesterday laid down regulations governing loans. Specifically excepting advances to the railroads, the directors ruled that loans would be made for such periods as the corporation may approve, having regard to the circumstances of each case, no loan will be made for longer than three years.

Application forms for loans will be made available through corporation representatives in the various Federal Reserve Banks and branches. These applications, with statements of financial status and securities in proper form, must be filed by the borrower with the nearest loan agency, which in turn will transmit it to the Washington office with recommendations.

Urge Agriculture Division.

Representatives Knutson (Republican), Minnesota, and Strong (Republican), Kansas, headed the delegation which urged the corporation to establish a division in its organization especially charged with the handling of loans for agriculture. Mr. Knutson said his proposals had been received in a friendly spirit.

Another recommendation was:

"That the operations of the corporation with respect to loans and advancements to country banks and other agencies engaged in financing the agricultural community in the Middle West be segregated and divorced from the large city banks which do not deal directly with the farmers in the making of loans, to the end that the making of loans and advancements to such rural banks or loan agencies may be accomplished without influence or direction from such city banks."

The delegation requested that loan committees be set up in the various agricultural States, consisting of men closely affiliated and thoroughly conversant with rural bank and credit needs of their States.

To Study Railroad Loans.

Regulations governing loans to railroads will be the subject of further study by the corporation, and announcement of procedure in such cases will be made soon.

Rules issued yesterday cover loans to the following: Banks, savings banks, trust companies, building and loan associations, insurance companies, mortgage loan companies, Federal land banks, joint stock land banks, credit unions, agricultural credit corporations and livestock credit corporations.

The following conditions were specifically laid down:

"No loans or advances may be made upon foreign securities or foreign acceptances as collateral or for the purpose of assisting in the carrying or liquidation of such foreign securities or acceptances.

"No loan may be made for the purpose of initiating, setting on foot, or financing any enterprise not initiated, set on foot or undertaken prior to January 22, 1932, except that this limitation does not apply to loans made to agricultural or livestock credit corporations, or Federal land banks, joint-stock land banks, or Federal intermediate credit banks, nor to loans made to banks for the purpose of financing agricultural operations.

Must Agree to Examinations.

"All borrowers must consent to such examinations as the corporation may require and that reports of examinations by constituted authorities may be furnished by such authorities to the corporation upon request therefor."

Under the rules, loans may be made directly upon promissory notes of the borrower, or by the way of discount or rediscount of obligations tendered for the purpose in such manner as to impose on the borrower an unconditional obligation to repay such loans in accordance with their terms.

The rate of interest or discount will be determined by the corporation from time to time.

In the House, meanwhile, Representative Harlan (Democrat), Ohio, urged a guarantee of national bank deposits, to stop hoarding.

"City banks are 77 per cent liquid today, as compared with 72 per cent a year ago," Mr. Harlan said. "Country banks are 57 per cent liquid, as compared with 49 per cent last year.

"You can talk to people until you are blue in the face, but how can you urge the average citizen to put money in the banks when the banks themselves are hoarding more than any other institution. They don't risk putting funds into circulation unless they are secured."

In the meantime, Senator Watson, the Republican leader, said in a statement the Home Loan Banking system urged by President Hoover is required as a supplement to the Finance Corporation.

Senator Watson is sponsoring the legislation and has called hearings for next Monday. He said officials of real estate organizations, banks and of the Building and Loan League had asked to testify for the bill and were ready to bring out "many facts and figures to show the great need for the new banks."

Crosby Opens Citizens' Drive.

Commissioner Herbert B. Crosby opened the membership drive of the Southeast Washington Citizens' Association last night, wishing the association success in its drive for 100 new members. William A. Maio, chairman of the campaign, presided last night at the meeting which was held at 1018 Pennsylvania avenue southeast.

LINCOLN DAY DINERS TO HEAR PRESIDENT

Will Listen Over Radio to Address of Hoover From His Study.

Republicans attending the public Lincoln Day dinner Friday night by the National Capital Republican Club, at the Willard Hotel, will hear President Hoover's address, "Abraham Lincoln," broadcast from the Lincoln study of the White House.

This announcement was made last night, following completion of arrangements to place the address on a program of Republican speakers by means of radio. The President's talk will be carried on a Nation-wide hook-up, starting at 10:30 p. m.

The dinner will be given for the benefit of all Republicans by the National Capital Republican Club. Members of the club are distributing tickets to the public in an effort to observe fittingly the anniversary of the party's first President.

Indications at present are for an attendance of several hundreds. Many prominent Republican members of Congress and officials have purchased blocks of tickets and reserved tables for their parties. Ticket information is available at the National Capital Republican Club and Republican national committee headquarters.

With Senator W. D. Hatfield, of West Virginia, presiding as toastmaster, the dinner guests will hear addresses by Mrs. Dolly Gann, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, and Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, aside from the broadcast of President Hoover's address.

The function is the first of its kind in the city, and is being held to combine the various memorial exercises of churches and other organizations throughout the city. Official Republicanism of the District comprises the dinner committees, while from indications received the attendance will embody a cross-section of the party in its national aspect.

Court Order Halts Sale of Apartment

Former Senator Dial One of Three Defendants in Action.

Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue yesterday signed a temporary restraining order prohibiting the sale, scheduled for last evening, of the apartment house at 1415 Girard street northwest. An order, given without notice to the party defendants, required that the sale be postponed for ten days upon the posting by Effie C. McCown, owner of the building, of a $500 bond.

Former Senator Nathaniel B. Dial, 1852 Kalorama road northwest, who holds the second trust on the building, and William Bralove and Harry A. Lentz, trustees under the same trust, were named as the defendants.

The suit alleges that Senator Dial has not carried out the terms of an agreement made last September, under which he took charge of the apartment until certain debts were paid off. The claim is made that money was expended for repairs without the consent of the owner, and that the building has been mismanaged through allowing certain undesirable tenants to remain. The court is asked to force an accounting of moneys handled by the defendants and to appoint a receiver.

Mardi Gras Today Is Peak Of Gaiety in New Orleans

Rex, Merry Monarch of Carnival, to Arrive on Yacht and Lead Thousands in Final Pageant of Fete; Mobile and Tampa Also Celebrate.

New Orleans, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Like the Arabs of old, business and care today silently folded their tents and moved away as playtime arrived in New Orleans.

It is the Mardi Gras season. Rex, merry monarch of the carnival, will arrive tomorrow morning aboard his royal yacht from Arabia to drink to the health of his queen and lead another mystic Mardi Gras pageant through New Orleans and her thousands of guests.

A. B. Freeman, a leading business man of the city, is Rex of the 106th annual edition of the carnival. He has chosen as his queen Miss Yvonne White, striking young debutante. She comes of a royal carnival line. Her father, Sidney J. White, New Orleans broker, was king of Mardi Gras some years ago and her sister, Marguerite, was a queen before her. Last year her mother, was queen of the Mystic Club ball, one of the most brilliant and lavish affairs of Mardi Gras.

As a prelude to the advent of Rex, Proteus, god of the sea, emerged tonight and led his ornate pageant of 20 floats through the city, choosing as his subject "American Poet Lore."

The ball of Proteus, crowning event of the day, was attended by the flower of society and their guests.

The social program will be continued tomorrow evening with the annual Ball of the Rex, which merges into the final exclusive event, the Ball of Comus, last reigning monarch, who brings the season of festivities to a close.

Rex carries out his sparkling daylight parade tomorrow, followed by the Druids and other carnival organizations in an all-day procession and Comus in his glittering night torchlight display.

Lent will be chimed in at midnight and the hundreds of thousands of revelers and maskers will halt their festive moods and turn to sober thoughts.

Zulu, king of the Negro carnival this year, will be an undertaker, prominent in social circles of his race. He will desert the morgue and ride up New Basin Canal into the city on a tugboat, greeting his gleeful subjects and leading them in parade up South Rampart street, where he will salute his queen.

Zulu and his regal attendants prefer to bedeck themselves with wild bird feathers, plumes and strings of animal claws and carry tomahawks after the mode of the American Indian. War paint is streaked on in brave warrior style and coconuts are presented as souvenirs.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A gay pirate band invaded the city today by sea, air, and land for the twenty-fourth annual carnival of King Gasparilla.

Escorted by a fleet of Coast Guard vessels from St. Petersburg and a flotilla of yachts, the pirate ship, a huge decorated schooner, sailed in from Tampa Bay into the Hillsborough River at noon. Its pirate crew embarked for the annual Gasparilla parade, that passed through downtown streets and ended before the reviewing stand of Gov. Doyle E. Carlton at the South Florida Fair.

Mobile, Ala., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Surrounded by courtiers and escorted by detachments from the Army, the Navy, and the Marine Corps, the Coast Guard, and the police, Felix III (Horace S. Turner, jr.), "Emperor of Joy" and King of the Mobile Carnival, arrived here today and received the homage of thousands.

2,500 At Army and Navy Reception at White House

Last night was Army and Navy night at the White House, when President and Mrs. Hoover brought their official festivities for this season to a close with the reception to the united services.

It was quite the largest party of the year. Twenty-five hundred persons were received and it was after 10:30 when the last of the guests was greeted. Many remained to dance a short time in the east room, where the Marine Band slips as soon as the President and members of the Cabinet have passed upstairs. The floral decorations were much the same as at other receptions, the red and white carnations in the red corridor being especially beautiful and effective.

There were a number of absentees from the Cabinet line. Vice President Curtis and his sister, Mrs. Gann, were absent and the Postmaster General and Mrs. Brown; the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Hyde, and Secretary Lamont were all among the missing, making about the shortest little procession to the blue parlor this season.

There was no end of regret expressed everywhere over the absence of Secretary Mellon, the new American Ambassador to the Court of St. James. He has been a familiar and gracious personality in these Cabinet lines for upward of ten years, with few absences.

Mrs. Hoover's Costume.

Mrs. Hoover's gown last night was in deep contrast to the piquant dimity gown she wore last week, for it was of rich black velvet made with a moderate train which finished in a point. The low bodice had a circular ruffle about the top which fell over the shoulders in a sleeve effect. She wore no jewels except a platinum chain studded with semiprecious stones, which hung low in front. This gown has a special news value, like the cotton gown, though not such an unusual gown for a reception. The velvet is American woven (in New Jersey) and the gown was made in Washington by local designers. It was very beautiful and graceful and one of the most becoming in which Mrs. Hoover has appeared.

Mrs. Stimson wore a gown of green and silver brocade. Mrs. Hurley was stunningly gowned in pale yellow crepe, made on very close-fitting lines with a circular flounce around the bottom which was formed with bands of the crepe held together with net. Mrs. Mitchell wore black velvet, the top of which was pale blue and silver brocade. Mrs. Adams was gowned in eggshell satin. Mrs. Wilbur was in white and silver lame, made with a surplice front and a short train. Mrs. Lamont wore a gown of blue and silver lame, and Mrs. Doak was in white satin, made with a short train.

Gen. Pershing Greeted.

The Secretary of War and Mrs. Hurley slipped into the red parlor when they passed through the corridor and headed the line of guests received. They were followed by the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Adams, after whom came the Assistant Secretaries of War and of the Navy and their wives. They were followed by the military and naval committees of the Senate and House and then the foreign officers stationed in the embassies and legations. Immediately after them was Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff, with the Chief of Naval Operations, Rear Amdiral William V. Pratt and Mrs. Pratt and the Maj. Gen. Commandant of the Marine Corps, B. H. Fuller, and following him was Gen. Pershing, who was warmly greeted at every step. He was not in uniform, but he wore the broad scarlet ribbon which denotes the grand commander of the Legion of Honor.

Mrs. Barnett, widow of the Maj. Gen. Commandant of the Marine Corps, retired, was another who was greeted on all sides, for the first time she has been at the White House or at an evening function since the death of Gen. Barnett.

The new Senator from Illinois and Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis were so constantly stopped by old friends and acquaintances on their arrival that they nearly were left out of the hand-shaking, as they had finally to rush rapidly into the red parlor and get through before the end.

Among Little Cabinet circles were the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne; the Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Ernest Lee Jahncke and the Assistant Secretary of War for Aviation and Mrs. Trubee Davison.

Attaches Lend Note of Color.

The Italian Embassy was represented by the naval attache, Capt. Luigi Notarbartolo die Duchi di Villarosa; the military attache, Lieut. Col. Marco Pennaroli, and the assistant naval attache, Lieut. Count di Gropello. The Military Attache of the Cuban Embassy and Senora de Prieto were seen, as were the the naval attache of the French Embassy, Capt. Camille Husson; the Military Attache and Mme. Pilion, the Assistant Military Attache and Mme. Lombard. Military and naval attaches of the other missions lent a note of still more brilliant color to the already spectacular assembly in their uniforms of blues, scarlet and black with gilt and silver braid.

In the group from the Senate and House of Representatives, members of the committees of military and naval affairs, were Senator and Mrs. Tasker Oddie, Senator and Mrs. Robert Carey, Senator and Mrs. W. Warren Barbour, Senator and Mrs. William H. King, Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten, Representative and Mrs. Harry C. Ransley and Representative and Mrs. Thomas C. Cochran.

Other Officers Present.

The judge advocate general, Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, was also present as were the commandant of the Army War College and Mrs. William D. Connor, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, the Chief of the Air Corps of the Army and Mrs. Benjamin Foulois, Col. and Mrs. Osmun Latrobe, Capt. Emory Land, U. S. N., and Mrs. Land; Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Morton Ring, and Mrs. John Enochs.

Others noted were Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Peyton March, Maj. Gen. George Van H. Moseley, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Guy V. Henry, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. George Richards and their daughter, Miss Ruth Richards; Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Merritte Ireland, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Amos A. Fries, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Chase P. Kennedy, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Hanson Ely, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Walter Gherarty, Capt. and Mrs E. J. 24 Years Ending FAT
There is a treatment for excess fat which has held its top place for over 24 years. Millions of boxes have been used. Now you see the results in every circle—in new beauty, new youth, new health and vim. Excess fat in those years has been disappearing fast.
This treatment is known as Marmola prescription tablets. It is based on a modern medical discovery. Science has found that lack of a certain gland secretion is a great cause of excess fat. Now doctors, the world over, supply that lacking factor. And that is what Marmola does.
Marmola combats the cause, just as modern doctors do. No abnormal exercise or diet is required. The results come through turning food into fuel and energy, rather than into fat.
As weight goes down, your vim comes back. One takes Marmola until weight comes down to normal, and then stops.
No secret about Marmola. A book in each box gives the formula and explains the results. Your own doctor can confirm the statements in it.
Go ask your druggist for Marmola if you overweigh. The price is $1. Start now to do what must be done. Get real results, amazing and delightful, as countless people know.

The Homemaker

By NANCY CAREY

Prepares an Appetizing Dinner Menu.

TODAY we shall indulge in a ham tenderloin, and nothing is more delicate and appetizing if the meat be properly prepared, and of its proper preparations we can be sure, since we have our own recipe for our reader friends—one which we have carefully worked out here at the institute, and which we are sure offers the best possible results as to tenderness and flavor. Also, the savory rice you will enjoy as an accompaniment to the ham tenderloin because its particular flavor goes especially well with ham dishes of almost any order.

Nancy Carey.

Now our menu:

WEDNESDAY'S DINNER.

Ham Tenderloin
Savory Rice
Cabbage Delicious
Dressed Watercress
Pineapple Apricot Pudding
Coffee

Ham Tenderloin.

Wash the tenderloin, put in kettle and cover with cold water. Add one cupful of brown sugar, one bay leaf, five peppercorns, six cloves and two small onions. Cook below the boiling point for three hours. Let the ham cool in the liquor in which it was cooked, and then, just before serving, reheat in a baking dish in the oven, basting once or twice with maple or corn sirup. Serve with mustard sauce, horseradish, or both.

Savory Rice.

1 cupful rice
4 slices bacon
Salt and pepper to taste
1 onion
1 green pepper
½ cupful tomato sauce

Boil a cupful of rice in salted water for 25 minutes. Chop the bacon, green pepper, onion and cook in pan until brown. Drain rice and add to mixture together with tomato sauce and seasoning. Bake in casserole for fifteen minutes in a hot oven.

Cabbage Delicious.

Chop a large, firm head of new cabbage very fine and sprinkle slowly into boiling, salted water. Cover and allow to boil from ten to fifteen minutes. Turn into a colander and drain thoroughly. Place in a warmed vegetable dish and season with salt, pepper and a generous piece of butter.

Pineapple Apricot Pudding.

1 small can pineapple, cut in cubes
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon brown sugar
8 canned apricots
1 cupful pineapple juice
½ cupful apricot juice

Melt butter and add sugar, pineapple and apricots. Allow to brown and caramelize for ten minutes, then add the fruit juices. Pour in buttered baking dish and while still warm pour over any good plain cake batter, flavored with almond extract. Bake until golden brown in a moderate (350 degrees) oven. Serve hot with whipped cream.

Jane Interprets the Mode

New York, Feb. 8.

JUST notes from the new collections:

Coat dresses, some cut on redingote lines.

Combination materials of silk and wool, quite new and interesting.

An entirely new type of tailleur which can safely be worn from dawn to bedtime, being semidressy in cut and of a material which is semiformal in itself.

Tailored suits for every occasion, varying in fabric and cut to suit the hour and affair for which they would be worn.

A tendency to confine the models in the present collections to spring models only, instead of spring and summer. More of this later.

Some new hats, and especially some new hat angles.

Informal evening gowns replacing formal ones for almost all occasions.

Note how the somberness of black is invariably lightened with a touch of color—and note, too, how ever smart and popular black is. Touches of color on black render it supremely "distingue" when they are carefully selected. For sure chic and the flattering touch, choose white on black —for cleverness, white and red, or green.

If you want to know what has happened to the ensemble, well, look at today's illustration and see. For Bernard et Cie, the Paris house that was formerly so famous for tailored wear, has a flair for the chic in ensembles that are reminiscent of the "tailored days" of this house—something much to be desired in an ensemble, you know.

The one I sketch today is of navy blue, the dress in wool crepe, simple, tailored, chic, and the coat in heavier wool, trimmed with nutria. How is that for something ensemble, practical and chic?

Au revoir.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

REFUSING FINESSES.

A FINESSE in Contract Bridge is an effort to take advantage of the position of adversely held honors to make an additional trick in the suit. Frequently it is an essential element in the successful management of a hand, but as a finesse has only an even chance of winning, it should not be taken if there is a better way of playing the hand.

The hand below was played by one of the world's acknowledged master Contract players and he found a way, not apparent on the face of the cards of avoiding a finesse which, if taken, would have cost him his contract.

South—Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

	♠ Q 10 6 ♡ A Q 3 ◇ A Q 2 ♣ K Q 5 3
♠ 8 3 2 ♡ J 9 5 2 ◇ J 10 9 4 ♣ 7 6	W E S	♠ 9 7 5 ♡ K 8 7 6 ◇ K 8 7 3 ♣ J 4
	♠ A K J 4 ♡ 10 4 ◇ 6 5 ♣ A 10 9 8 2

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♣(1)	Pass	3NT(2)	Pass
4♠(3)	Pass	6♣(4)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—Of course, the longer suit first.
2—Any Raise North would give to the club bid at this time would present at best an imperfect picture of his tremendous honor holdings. Without further information from his partner the hand does not necessarily present Slam possibilities, but does appear to insure a safe game.
3—South's hand with the 5-4-2-2 distribution appears better fitted to play at a suit than at notrump. In view of North's strong bidding, the four spade bid appears safe, although the hand is little more than a minimum.
4—North realizes that if a Slam is to be bid he must bid it, although the making of it may depend upon a successful finesse, but the reward for a vulnerable Slam is so great as to justify the risk of loss.

Against a Slam contract, West opened the Knave of diamonds and this lead appeared definitely to locate the King in the East hand. It was improbable that West, against a contract to take 12 tricks, would make an opening lead away from the King. The South player refused to take the finesse in diamonds which he classed as an undoubted loser and proceeded to develop the play of the hand by drawing the adverse trumps and voiding both adversaries of spades. On the fourth round of spades a diamond in Dummy was discarded. South then led his remaining diamond and forced East into the lead. East was helpless. The elimination play had succeeded. If he led a diamond, South would discard his losing heart and trump in the Dummy. If he led a heart, the North hand, of course, would win with both Ace and Queen and South would have no more losers. By eliminating suits which would prove undesirable to have the adversaries lead, South made his contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: Your partner having made an opening one-bid in a suit what is the greatest number of honor-tricks he may have?

Answer: Possibly 5½, but this is not likely.

What Today Means to You

"AQUARIUS."

IF February 9 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 4:45 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:40 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:15 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Astrological influences on February 9 are of an invigorating nature, and life will speed up in every direction. Chances for advancement are shown and changes in the family routine are indicated. New life and energy point toward favorable health conditions.

Born on this February 9, the child should be allowed the chance of free individual development, and given the opportunity to make many and varied social contacts in order to check a predisposition to shyness. A spirit of independence should be stimulated to counteract a tendency to an inferiority complex. It will not be a laggard at school.

If a February 9 person, you are of an inquiring mind, and have never ceased to ask questions and demand an answer. Truth-seekers and those of your own kind are as interested as yourself in getting at the roots of a subject; but your profound knowledge is often a bore to those who only take superficial interest in things. Few people bore you; to you every person is a potential model of interest, and you have the gift of being the magnet to draw them out.

The work you are engaged in at the moment becomes all engrossing, and you are oblivious of all else. You can do one thing at a time to perfection, but you are unable to keep many things going without confusion on your part. You must do things in your own way and at your own time, and resent outside pressure. You should work for yourself and be your own boss.

As an Aquarian, you are a friend of humanity, and are always wishing that you could do more in the way of relief work. You have high and unusual ideals, and at heart are a reformer. You will be slow to enter matrimony, and your great love will probably grow out of an ordinary friendship. Your life partner should have similar tastes, and, above all, the same ideals to make for continued happiness.

Successful people born February 9: Wynkoop Kiersted, hydraulic engineer.

William T. Sampson, naval officer.

George Ade, author.

Ronald Colman, film artist.

William G. Hale, educator.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

THE HAIR OF THE DOG.

THE old saying that the hair of a dog will cure the bite, or substantially that, is not true. But it is based on the idea of specific relationships and there are plenty of illustrations in support of such relationships, of course. They are found in many fields. Let us consider some unusual ones in the field of treatment. They give a new twist to the old saying.

Occasionally a liniment is made with wood alcohol as a solvent instead of more expensive cutting liquids. Occasionally such a liniment is used to rub on an arm which is painful by reason of neuritis. It was noticed that the pain was becoming chronic. Investigation of such cases showed that wood alcohol in the liniment was absorbed by the skin on which it was rubbed and that it then attacked the nerves, continuing the neuritis it was supposed to cure.

It has also been noticed that some cases of eczema were made worse by the ointments that were used to cure them. Physicians who had seen illustrations of this began to suspect that sensitization to some ingredient of the ointments might be the cause. Eczema ointments generally contain several ingredients, and therefore they offered more than one possibility. Finally wool fat, an ingredient of most eczema ointments and the base of many of them, came under suspicion. Drs. Marion B. Sulzberger and Joseph L. Morse, and M. A. Ramirez and J. J. Eller secured proof that wool fat applied to the skin of a person who had been sensitized to it caused eczema.

A patient with eczema, who was a salesman for woolen materials, had an eczema which would disappear and reappear in a mysterious way. Drs. Sulzberger and Morse found that when he grew desperate and neglected his eczema he got well. On the other hand, whenever he treated his skin trouble by applying an eczema ointment he got worse. Investigation showed that he had become sensitized to wool from handling woolen materials. Exposure to such materials in the course of his business caused him to develop eczema. The salves which made him worse were those that had wool fat as a base.

Another patient was a dress designer. By wearing clothes free from wool and applying salves that contained no wool fat she was about well. One day a physician, who was new to the case, prescribed a wool fat salve. Almost immediately after using it she had a relapse.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

MORE OVERWROUGHT NERVES.

DEAR Frances McDonald:

After reading your column a few times I have come to the conclusion that you know nothing about married life. I haven't any patience with your advice. A wife says her husband swears at her children and you say put the children to bed before he gets home. The man is never to blame. It is the woman who has weathered the storms of life and who knows what it is to hear a husband finding fault night after night and day after day, who should give advice to others. There is no more excuse for a man who is tired to swear and find fault than for a woman. Unless it is the rich. A woman has a thousand times harder life to bear than a man, yet if she just asks him to do some little thing, or not to do it, he must fly off into a temper, but she must be sweet all the time. Now, I happen to know these things because I have been married to one of the worst men that ever breathed the breath of life. I have borne fourteen children for him. Yet it was and is curse and find fault all these years. Some might say why not leave him before all that happened? Well, it was because I had nowhere to go where folks would be able to care for me and my little ones. Yes, the men are always taken up for by some one like you, who has never been in the position of those you advise, and I say again, they know nothing about our troubles. The men have been taught better than to swear and find fault, as well as the women, yet if a woman swears she is thought to be very common and unladylike; but the men are highly honored by most of the foolish public. Men who swear ought to be put behind the prison bars.

I am answering this "Overwrought Nerves" that came out in your column complaining her husband swore every night at his children. I think those who want real, genuine, heart-to-heart advice had better spend their time writing to some mother. Who ever heard of a child old enough to be in school being asleep before 8 o'clock? MOTHER.

Who ever heard of a child of school age being in bed at 8 o'clock? Anyone who ever heard how to rear a child and safeguard its nerves and future health and happiness. About two-thirds of all the misery on this earth is caused by ignorance. People who would not be given a license to drive a Ford are permitted to drive helpless children into lifelong misery and early graves. Children who should be quietly in their beds are sitting up listening to the murder mysteries over the radio, and munching doughnuts as they listen. Next day, in school, the teacher tries to account for shadows under dull eyes, for sallow cheeks and tired brain. Those who claim that children should be reared by the state would find strong argument for their theories in the mother of fourteen children who never heard of a child being in bed by 8 o'clock.

The Department of Child Welfare at Washington issues a booklet to mothers, free of charge, on the rearing of children. Won't you write them for one, so that some of these fourteen you have borne to a cursing, overwrought man may escape their heritage of shattered nerves? No man mentally and physically normal goes cursing through life. Such a man is below par and unfit for parenthood. His offspring are handicapped from birth. As the one who brought them into this world, you are morally bound to do all in your power to make up to them for this injustice. Do at least this much. Send for the booklet the Government has prepared in an effort to salvage helpless children. From that booklet you will learn why children should be in bed at 8 o'clock and other things of equal value.

As to men who are subject to violent rages and other aberrations, if they are to be at large, it is but merciful to avoid whatever goads them to the breaking point. Ask at the library for some good books on the subject. You will thereafter better understand the writer who urges caution in dealing with the erratic

GARDENS

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me why my orange trees bear flowers but never fruit. I had two orange trees three years ago when I was living in a house with a conservatory, which every winter bore several oranges.

MRS. THOMAS B.

Orange trees in a living room where the light is always limited, usually bear flowers but rarely fruit. They need to be moderately potbound to induce the formation of flowers and to be fed rather liberally when flowering. In late fall and early winter they must have water partially withheld and at that time must be kept quite cool. This will force them to rest for a time, but they must not be kept so dry that they lose their leaves. After the first of the year give them water liberally and keep them in a warm, sunny, well-ventilated place.

Please tell me why my rex begonia, which I have kept in a very warm room and water every day, does not do well. MARGARET G. L.

This variety of begonia does best in a temperature below that of the average living room and in a soil kept moist without being really wet. Do not water the plant oftener than every other day and keep it in a temperature around 65 degrees.

The tips of the leaves of my palms are all turning brown. What is the cause and the remedy for this condition? ANN H. K.

Browning of the tips of palm leaves indicates, first, improper watering. Then this condition may also result from insect attacks or drafts of cold air. Sometimes it is caused by worms about the roots of the plants or by lack of nutritive properties in the soil. I would suggest repotting the affected plant, using fresh soil, and most careful watering. At each application of water be sure you give the plant enough to penetrate all the soil in the pot. Also be sure to keep the surface soil quite loose.

The leaves of several of my plants are beginning to curl. I know there are no worms about the roots, for I have investigated and also applied lime water. MRS. JAMES R. T.

This condition is no doubt due to the presence of plant lice (sucking insects). Frequent baths of soap suds will soon rid your plants of these unwelcome guests.

The leaves of three of my plants have become so pale. They should be a rich green, but they are almost white. I can't understand this, as I can find no insects on them.

MABEL H. P.

Loss of color of the foliage can usually be attributed to a lack of plant food or to overwatering.

33,200 Aliens Deported From U. S. During 1931

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Doak, of the Labor Department, said yesterday 12,100 aliens who had been apprehended and charged with illegally entering the country had been permitted to leave at their own expense. This, he said, was in addition to 21,000 aliens actually deported.

Manchester, England, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Ten of the 22 Burnley cotton mills involved in labor difficulties over the more-looms-per-weaver question were completely stopped today. Since a decision to strike four firms have agreed to revert to former conditions and they were running. Many operatives gathered near the mills where the strike was effective and pickets were on duty outside others, but no disturbance was reported.

COLL'S DEATH BALM TO MOBS AND POLICE

Solution Hindered by Gangs' Silence; Planned to Quit Soon, Widow Says.

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—The trail of Vincent Coll's killers was forked tonight. One road led into the secret places of New York's underworld; another pointed toward Chicago.

But wherever the detectives went, they were balked by the bland silence of the mobs. Gangland's denizens had seen and heard nothing, and such thoughts as they had were kept to themselves.

Meanwhile, the body of Coll, betrayed by his own bodyguard and riddled, literally, with machine gun pellets as he stood in a phone booth in old Chelsea early today, was removed from the morgue to an undertaker's.

It was followed by his widow, Lottie, a bride of a few weeks and one of the few persons, probably, who was genuinely sorry he died. Both the police and the gangs frankly considered his murder a "good riddance."

Menaced "Big Shots."

The police had tried for months to "hang a rap" on Coll. They thought they had him when they indicted him and a henchman for the brutal slaying of 5-year-old Michael Vengali, in a crowded street of Harlem's little Italy last summer. But he was turned loose when the State's star witness lied on the witness stand.

As for the gangs, he was a thorn in their leather-tough sides. Lately, it had been reported, Coll had deserted his former beer-running racket and depended for a livelihood upon tribute exacted from rivals in the business.

He was reported to have sent kidnap threats to some of the "big shots" and to have exacted ransom.

So popular was Coll with the underworld that within the last few weeks it had been reported that a price of $50,000 had been placed on his head, to be paid to the "trigger men" who got him.

Planned to Retire.

Last week, when gunmen invaded a Bronx apartment and killed two men and a woman reputedly allied with Coll (one of the slain was Patsy Del Greco, his chief lieutenant), the police advanced the theory that some one was after that $50,000. The killers missed Coll then by a few hours.

Summing up the crime, Police Commissioner Mulrooney said: "It's an aftermath of the Bronx job—just another step in the process of elimination. There's no doubt that Coll was vicious and dangerous. He was no Legs Diamond. When he wanted a 'job' done he did it for himself."

An autopsy showed fifteen of the machine-gun bullets actually entered Coll's body; at least seven of the wounds were of a fatal character. The lone gunman fired from 25 to 50 shots, virtually wrecking the phone booth, where the blond gangster stood.

CONTEST IS PRAISED BY MRS. DONALDSON

preciation of the principles for which Washington stood.

"Washington's services to the public, military, economic and civic, are so internationally recognized that the governments of many nations are whole-heartedly indorsing the celebration of the bicentennial and taking a definite part in it. In one foreign country, for example, every child in the grade and high schools throughout the entire land will learn of some part of Washington's greatness, through an extensive program of drama, music and pageantry during the year 1932.

"The school children in the District of Columbia and nearby places in Maryland and Virginia have an exceptionally large and varied amount of information from which to draw facts about George Washington, and can better assimiliate and crystalize that knowledge by individually expressing it through the essay contest."

From Miss Mary M. Snead, of the Oakton High School, Fairfax County, Va., came a letter yesterday entering the entire school in the contest. Miss Snead wanted to know if there were any formalities connected with entering the school. There are none. Boys and girls of that institution who are not more than 18 years of age may prepare essays of 500 words on some phase of Washington's life and times.

In the event that a member of this high school wins a first or second prize, a special bronze bas-relief mounted on a mahogany plaque of the Houdon head of George Washington will be presented to the classroom of the student winning such a prize.

The plaque will be suitably inscribed by The Washington Post and will contain the name of the student whose fine work in winning a first or second prize in the contest brought this gift to the school.

Many queries come to The Post Essay Editor asking if boys and girls in certain Maryland and Virginia counties are eligible to compete.

Pupils in public, private, and parochial schools of the District of Columbia, Montgomery, and Prince Georges Counties, in Manyland, and Fairfax and Arlington Counties, in Virginia, and the City of Alexandria, Va., may compete for prizes.

These prizes are to be awarded as follows: Group No. 1—Up to and including 10 years of age, first prize $100;; second prize, $25. The 25 next best essays will win $5 each. The next group, with the same list of prizes, is for children between the ages of 10 and 12 years; the third group includes children between the ages of 12 to 15 years, and the fourth group, boys and girls of 16 to 18 years.

The complete array of prizes will include 108 awards. Other fine things are in store for the prize winners and will be announced later.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ESCUDERO, the great Gypsy dancer, who brings Gitano pep and primitive pulse — and impulse — in dancing to the National Theater a week from today, is what may be inelegantly characterized as a real "he-man" dancer.

He is at times totally unconcerned as to whether his audience likes him, yet, when the applause thunders in appreciation of some especially notable aspect of his work, he is as gratified as any artist might normally be expected to be. This very quality of naturalness in everything he does and a complete absence of any palpable "stage business," that has obviously been thought out beforehand, is one outstanding characteristic that has aided in winning capacity houses in New York every time he has appeared —that and his marvelous command of the true Spanish technique.

Escudero dances in New York tomorrow, Friday and again Sunday. Then he is to hop a train in time to be the guest of honor at a semi-formal party on the "foreign soil" of the Spanish Embassy here on Monday.

The manner of Escudero's entrance on the stage at any performance is unique. The stage is bare but for a back-cloth striped half blue and half white. A diffident guitarist, carrying his chair and instrument, comes from the wings and seats himself almost apologetically. He strikes some chords. From the opposite side Escudero strolls in apparently unconcerned. He stops and chats with the guitarist. He begins beating the rhythm of the music with one foot. Then, with the mood fully developed in him, he starts to dance.

In addition to the guitarist and pianist, Escudero brings two pretty and accomplished girl dancers with him.

Now that Mike Marco has been here and gone, the next Fanchon and Marco executive expected to make a local visit is "Doc" Howe, general manager, due tomorrow.

Plans for next week at the Fox Theater have been suddenly altered. Instead of "Cheaters at Play" starring Thomas Meighan and Charlotte Greenwood, next week's screen attraction will be "Business and Pleasure," with Will Rogers starred. This, I am informed by those who ought to know, will be the world premiere of the latest Rogers vehicle.

"Business and Pleasure" is the picturization of a Booth Tarkington story, directed by David Butler, which is further notable for the fact that it signalizes the return to the screen after a long absence of Jetta Goudal, most mysterious and temperamental of the feminine screen stars. Others in the cast are Joel McCrea, Dorothy Peterson, Peggy Ross, Boris Karloff and Jed Prouty.

The recurrence of the name of Jetta Goudal in a practically current cast recalls the legend that has clung to her through the many years that she has been intermittently before the Hollywood cameras.

I have always doubted that the tale has the slighest foundation in fact, but it has been bruited about with bated breath ever since I can remember—and that goes clear back to . . . but why bring that up?—that Jetta Goudal is the daughter of the dancer-spy, Mata Hari, whose fictionized adventures during the great war are being disclosed this week on the screen of Loew's Columbia.

Well, she was born in Versailles and educated there and at Liege, Belgium, at that. Maybe after all . . .

It is reported with regret that Carter Barron, the newly appointed managing director of the Loew interests in Washington, yesterday was called home to Atlanta, Ga., by the death of an older brother—not "Red" Barron, the all-Southern half back. The deceased brother was a veteran of the A. E. F., and, I am told, died as a result of injuries received in the Great War.

The sympathy of many Washington friends is extended to Mr. Barron who in a remarkably short time has achieved locally almost the popularity he enjoyed in his home city of Atlanta.

Mr. "Bill" Touey, of the Touey Trio, erstwhile warblers over Station WOBA, Allentown, Pa., who formerly charmed District theatergoers with the liquid tones of a voice that was by no means all wet, wishes it known that he is at present visiting relatives at 1831 Brentwood road northeast. So now you know!

The incoming picture at the Rialto, by the way, is "Three Wise Girls"—and don't you think they're not, Jean Harlow, Marie Prevost and Mae Clarke—how could they be anything else!

But that is not so much the point as that there will be a special preview screening of this sprightly film at the Rialto on Friday night of this week, February 12—which is by way of being Lincoln's Birthday, in case it had slipped your mind—at 11:15 p. m.

And that reminds me. Catching up on that sleep will have to be put off another night. They are previewing "Hell Divers," the M-G-M special, with Wallace Beery, Clark Gable and Conrad Nagel, for the press tonight at 11—something at the Columbia. Quite a picture, according to all report. I'll send you a wire.

Having done what a picturesque vernacular designates as "mopped up" with two earlier "horror" pictures—"Dracula" and "Frankenstein," beginning Friday, February 19, the Rialto will present the daddy of all the goose-flesh epics in "Murders in the Rue Morgue." Sidney Fox, Bela Lugosi and the most gosh-awful looking gorilla you have ever seen head the cast.

This, of course, is the Poe yarn, adapted to the screen by Tom Reed and Dale Van Every and directed by Robert Florey.

Br-r-r-r-r!

Sundays being what Sundays are in Baltimore, Joe Cook, playing there this week, journeyed to Washington night before last for the sole purpose of tossing a spaghetti party—and did you ever try to toss spaghetti otherwise than as a lariat?—that was attended by divers and sundry of the local talent who deserted other important official duties to attend.

And is that any of my business?

Juanita Hansen, former stage and screen star, is to enlist the skill of the plastic surgeons to hasten her return to the films. Miss Hansen, you will recall, recently was awarded damages of a sum in excess of $100,000 for burns received in a hotel bath.

Jeems, turn on the hot spigot and let it run awhile!

By NELSON B. BELL.

Romantic drama cast in heroic mold took possession of the National stage last evening for an engagement lamentably restricted to four performances, terminating tomorrow night.

It is a profoundly impressive revival of Edmond Rostand's "Cyrano de Bergerac" that Walter Hampden brings to us after an interval of almost a decade since his last appearance in the valorous but deeply pathetic role of the poet-lover-duellist-hero, whose genius goes for naught until the very moment of his death.

Hampden's performance, once into the poetic beauty of the third act, the swashbuckling turmoil of the fourth and the poignant anguish of the last, is always lucid, frequently of gossamer delicacy and occasionally no less than magnificent in its quick comprehension and complete realization of Rostand's every variant nuance. Acts one and two are little more than introductory intervals, expository of Cyrano's diverse endowments and the subseqent movement of the drama.

It seems purely a work of supererogation to remind a public to which "Cyrano" for generations has been a classic, that Cyrano de Bergerac, poet, philosopher, swordsman and adventurer, was one of the guardsmen of Gascoigne in the service of King Louis XIII of France. Cursed with an enormous nose, he evaded the society of women, although nurturing a secret devotion to his beautiful cousin Roxane. Being apprised at a surreptitious rendezvous that Roxane is infatuated with a handsome young cadet who has nothing but a pretty face to commend him to her good graces, Cyrano, as the unseen mouthpiece of his young comrade's ardor, pours out all of the love of his own heart to the woman he dares not woo in his own behalf. Only as the shadow of death closes about him does Roxane learn the deception and realize that it is Cyrano she has loved through all the years.

Into such a romance Rostand has written a character at once grotesque, fascinating, courageous and pitiful. The role of Cyrano, I believe, is the longest in English dramatic literature. It imposes a colossal burden upon the actor who would do it well and it is therefore all the more an achievement that Hampden plays it so commandingly.

Although the cast is one of the most noteworthy, in point of numbers, that a season is apt to bring forth, the characters of vital importance to the fullness of the play's beauty are comparatively few. Katherine Warren is a sympathetic, lovely and Juliet-like Roxane who gives her lines clarity of reading without sacrifice of either forcefulness or poetic imagery. John D. Seymour, as Christian de Neuvillette, who could neither write his love nor put it into speech is wholly adequate, as is Robert Hudson as Le Bret. Reynolds Evans, the Comte de Guiche; Whitford Kane, Ragueneau, and Mabel Moore, in the lesser role of Roxane's duenna, are rather more than that in roles that give them perhaps more extended opportunities.

The seventeenth century costumes lend themselves to flamboyant bits of pageantry, vivid stage pictures and colorful splashes of highlight against backgrounds that are massive and somber in many of the play's most important passages.

Humor, wit, lilting poesy, clashing melodrama and the serene splendor of a perfect love are here blended in three and a half hours of entertainment such as the present-day theater sees all too rarely. Walter Hampden is to be congratulated upon having revived "Cyrano" for a transcontinental tour, and Washington for having been privileged to view it again.

"Smiling Faces" recalls the second act of "Reunion in Vienna"—prior to the advent of the Archduke; it is fragrant with a soothing flavor of the past and entirely proper. In lieu of the spiciness which characterized the Lunt-Fontanne vehicle, however, the Fred Stone contribution to current theatrical fare leans heavily on dancing.

Late diners will not be seriously penalized at the Belasco Theater this week. The second stanza of "Smiling Faces" carries the features which appeal to the old guard. It is in the latter half of the entertainment that Mr. Stone reverts to his familiar style of comedy, aided by trick theatrical props and bizarre costumes. And it is during the final act that the two best songs are heard. One is "Bootblack Blues," sung by Mr. Stone and a supporting group of nimble dancers. The other is "Something to Think About," a duet that is put across most effectively by Doris Patson and Billy Taylor.

The plot of "Smiling Faces" follows the lines of least resistance, favored by the librettists of yesteryear. The story has its beginning in a Long Island home, invaded by a motion picture troupe. More color, action and effective background for dancing is provided when the locale is shifted to Havana, with Morro Castle as a background and suggestions of "Sloppy Joe's" bar to tantalize the thirsty. And it is in these final scenes that Miss Paula Stone, featured in support of her famous father, shows most convincing proofs that she has inherited in full measure the family talents.

Miss Stone is an extremely prepossessing young person, trim and graceful of figure, who dances gracefully, yet with as much verve as her parent put into his roles when "The Wizard of Oz" and "The Red Mill" were sensational successes. Her "Do Say You Do," sung with Roy Royston and the Albertina Rasch Girls, gives her excellent vocal and dancing opportunities. As a matter of fact, the strenuous dancing contributed by the youthful leading woman puts action into scenes that are not triumphs for the librettist.

Dancing, as we have hinted, is the salvation of "Smiling Faces." There is more footwork in this musical story than stars and stripes in an early George M. Cohan success. Billy Taylor rivals Miss Stone in agile display of footwork. In "Thank You, You're Welcome," competing with Miss Stone and Mr. Royston, and in "There Will Be a Girl," with Miss Stone, his dancing is sufficiently strenuous and skillful to stop any ordinary show.

The youngsters who visit the Belasco this week, and some of the sentimental old-timers, will probably revel in Fred Stone's clowning in an airplane and as a wielder of comedy golf-sticks. Carping modernites, less lenient, may find cause for annoyance in the book by Harry Clarke, certain lyrics by Mack Gordon, and not a little of the music by Harry Revel. But, as we have mentioned before, the dances, staged by Jack Donohue, cover many defects.

When all is said, the audiences Belasco-bound these nights are interested primarily in Fred Stone. And they will also like his charming young daughter.

GAYETY

LONDON GAYETY GIRLS, Columbia Burlesque attraction presented by Griff Williams, starring Peggy White, Chickie Wells, Fred Binder and Mike Sachs. Added features Murphy and Gordon, dancers and Jimmie Barrett, Red Nichols, and Joe Wicks, marathon dancers. Reviewed by William L. Wright.

The "London Gayety Girls" present a performance far below the standard maintained by the Columbia circuit shows this season. Several seasons back it would have been considered good entertainment, but not in comparison with those immediately preceding it.

Chickie Wells and Peggy White turn in very creditable acts and get as their reward the lion's share of the applause. Alice Kennedy and Pearl Kay dance and sing in a pleasing manner. The specialty number, "Wabash Moon," sung by Miss Lyons and Archie Marion, whose rich voice could be heard more to advantage, was the high light of the show.

Binder and Sachs, the funny (?) men, struggled painfully to produce merriment, but in vain.

Held over from last week by popular request, Murphy and Gordon took the house by storm with their excellent dancing.

New York Airplane Service Increased

Ludington Line Ships to Make 20 Journeys Each Way Daily.

Additional scheduled trips on the Ludington Air Line between Washington and New York were announced yesterday by James M. Eaton, president of the line, which will increase departures to twenty trips daily in either direction.

In explaining the reason for the new schedule, Mr. Eaton pointed out that since the existence of the hourly service over the New York-Washington route, a period of seventeen months, more than 90,000 passengers have been carried, the largest number ever transported in a similar period by an air transport company.

M'Fadden Backed To 'Stop' President

Foes of Administration Would Put Him in North Dakota Primary.

Louis T. McFadden, Pennsylvania Republican representative, who waged last-ditch fights against the Hoover moratorium and Reconstruction Corporation bills, was advanced yesterday as a candidate to oppose President Hoover for renomination.

Antiadministration "Progressives" are planning to circulate petitions for McFadden's candidacy in North Dakota and file him as a candidate for the State's delegation to the Chicago nominating convention, Senator Lynn Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, said.

Observers believed the Westerners turned to McFadden as a part of a "stop-Hoover" campaign. Previously the North Dakota Independent Republican senators asked Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), California, another moratorium foe, to run, but Johnson has not signified he favored such a campaign.

Typographical Errors Delay Signing of Bill

(Associated Press.)

A misplaced comma and a misspelled word forced President Hoover to return to Congress yesterday the bill exempting building and loan associations from bankrupt laws.

Senator Hastings (Republican), Delaware, offered a resolution correcting the enrolled bill. The word "of" instead of the word "or" appeared in the enrolled measure. The Senate approved the correction.

URUGUAY PRESIDENT SEEKS NEW POWERS

Alleged Communists' Plot Base of Appeal for Assistance.

Montevideo, Uruguay, Feb. 8 (A.P.). President Gabriel Terra today asked the national administrative council for extraordinary powers to cope with alleged Communist plots including the thwarted uprising in the North last week, but the council merely acknowledged his request.

Parliament was summoned for an extraordinary session to consider an identical message from the president.

The council indicated it believed last week's thwarted revolt, supposedly headed by Nepo Muceno Saravia, estranged Nationalist (minority) regional leader, came under the head of ordinary criminal offenses not requiring emergency measures.

The Montevideo police today closed the Communist daily Justice, after articles attacking the president and other government officials had appeared in it.

Contacts with provincial police along the Brazilian border at frequent intervals were continued. Up to this afternoon 30 arrests had been made, and the government said it had discovered in Montevideo propaganda, revolvers, and files of Russian correspondence. Aviation authorities took vital parts from all civilian airplanes, disabling them.

U. S. SWEEPS OLYMPIC SKATING AS JAFFEE WINS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

THE rankling memory of the United States' almost utter rout in the running events of the 1928 Olympics at Amsterdam has been eased by the performance of three individuals who sent American running stock booming at the recent Millrose A. A. games in New York.

Heading the procession of new U. S. Olympic hopes is Gene Venzke, the Pottstown, Pa., High School boy, who astounded the track world by bettering Paavo Nurmi's world indoor record for the mile with a sensational performance of 4:11 1-5 seconds, four-fifths lower than the mark of the famous Finn.

Another event that warmed the hearts of the American Olympic officials was the special sprint series which revealed Emmett Toppino, slender New Orleans lad, and Al Kelly, powerful Georgetown dash man, as potential first-place winners in the Olympic dashes next summer at Los Angeles.

The United States was forced to accept a bitter dish at Amsterdam four years ago when Ray Barbuti, Syracuse flier, was the only member of the United States Team to gain a first place in a running event. Barbuti sent the Stars and Stripes to the top of the victors' pole by his victory in the 400 meters after the remainder of the American squad had been shut out in the dashes, middle distances and long-distance events.

Venzke won the acclaim of the critics in no uncertain manner by his victory in the Millrose mile in record time. James V. Mulligan, Georgetown coach, rated him as better than Nurmi in the Finn's best days. The poetry of his action, the length of his stride and his saving sprint are true indications of his greatness. He will be a heavy favorite to bring the mile laurels to the United States at Los Angeles, is the consensus.

Venzke's ascendancy comes at a time when the United States is sorely in need of milers. Ray Conger, the outstanding man at the distance, has thus far failed to show even a fair return to his 1931 form, and Leo Lermond, defender of the Wanamaker mile title against Venzke, was left far in the ruck.

The age-old tradition in track history that the runner who is a wrecker of time on the indoor boards seldom flashes this competitive standard outdoors, is not feared in the cases of Venzke, Toppino and Kelly, especially the last mentioned.

Judges at the finish of the 50-yard race, the final of the sprint series, in which Toppino beat Kelly, declare that the race was the closest thing to a dead heat with no daylight separating the two as they came down to the finish line.

Kelly was handicapped by the shortened distance of 50 yards in the final race, after having won his heat at 60 yards in 6.3 seconds, one-tenth off the world record, which Toppino equaled in his heat. The Georgetown lad won his place on the All-American Team last year by winning the national indoor 70-yard sprint and is not at his best in a shorter dash.

◆

Kelly and Toppino are a study in running contrasts. The little New Orleans lad is built on the lines of Howard Drew and Loren Murchison, lean and lithe, and famed for their fast getaway and ability to gather early speed, Kelley, powerful as runners go, is a shade behind the best starters and depends upon his finishing drive to carry him down the lane in front.

When the two meet outdoors, the condition will be in favor of Kelly's superior leg-drive with the wind resistance greater than inside. Toppino, however, is recognized as one of the greatest runners of the era, either indoors or out, as his time of 9.5 for the 100 yards during a trip through South Africa in company with Barney Berliner last summer, will testify.

The Olympic distance, however, will be 100 meters, or about 110 yards, and the lengthened distance will be in favor of Kelly. For the first time in history the intercollegiate track and field meet will be held on the Coast this year and it will be in this event that Kelly will seek to qualify for the Olympic trials, with the winners automatically eligible for the finals. There, he undoubtedly will meet Toppino again, but they are scheduled to clash three times more on the boards this month; at the New York A. C. meet February 17; the Meadowbrook games at Philadelphia February 20, and the A. A. U. national championships at New York February 22.

Gordon Faces Jacobs for Nursery

Conqueror of Jadick Subs for Brown in Feature Tonight.

Irving and Kirkwood in Alexandria Semi-final Match.

AL GORDON, Philadelphia junior welterweight, who has met many of the leading boxers of his weight with considerable success, will substitute for Buster Brown tonight at Portner's Arena as the opponent for Stumpy Jacobs, Hopewell, Va., pride, in the eight-round bout featuring the Day Nursery benefit show.

Gordon, who was secured yesterday after Brown had announced his inability to appear owing to a cut lip sustained in a bout last week, has to his credit a victory over Johnny Jadick, recent winner of the world's junior welterweight championship. Gordon defeated the conqueror of Tony Canzoneri about four years ago when both he and Jadick were beginners.

Others whom Gordon has beaten are Johnny Farr and Billy Wallace, veteran Cleveland lightweight, and Rosey Stoy, Johnny Lucas and Johnny Hayes. Gordon has also met and bowed to Benny Bass, Dick Finnegan, Al Foreman, Rocky Kansas, Sammy Mandell and Jimmy Goodrich.

Gordon Superior To Brown.

Judging from his record, Gordon not only is as capable as the fighter he replaces but probably is superior, but during the past few months he has been idle on account of a hand injury. He has been training in Washington for a week and in gymnasium workouts has appeared in the best of shape. If this be true tonight he should take the decision from Jacobs.

Jacobs performed impressively two weeks ago at Portner's in defeating Bobby Burns, of Baltimore. The Hopewell lad is about five pounds lighter than Gordon but is exceedingly aggressive. He is a fearless, boring-in type of fighter who willingly takes a punch to land one of his own and he is strong enough to subdue heavier opponents. However, Gordon has an edge in experience.

The semifinal bout of eight rounds has nearly as much appeal as the wind-up, for Henry Irving, Northeast's middleweight knockout king, shows his wares in this tiff against Walter Kirkwood, of Norfolk.

Irving and Kirkwood Clash.

Irving faces probably the hardest test of his young career, Kirkwood being recognized as one of the most promising 160-pounders in the South Atlantic. Kirkwood's record includes victories over Joe Glazer, who has beaten Billy Strickler. The Norfolk boy also has pushed Reds Barry.

Young Perry, Lawrence (Mass.) welter who recently obtained a draw with the hard-hitting Bingo Brodie, is matched with Keller Crawford, of Cordova, Md., in the main preliminary of four rounds. Crawford recently defeated Mike Farrie, who will be remembered for his great battle with Joe Bruno at Mldcity Arena last summer.

In the other prelims, all scheduled for four rounds, Jack Quigley, Washington lightweight, engages Benny Tillman, of Hazelton, Pa.; Young Groves, local featherweight, mixes with Bob Portna, of Bolling Field, and Billy Reed, former Boys Club featherweight star, swaps wallops with Tommy Horn, of Baltimore.

Tigers Sell Catcher Grabowski to 'Leafs'

Detroit, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Sale of Johnny Grabowski, veteran catcher, to the Montreal Club of the International League, was announced today by Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit Baseball Club.

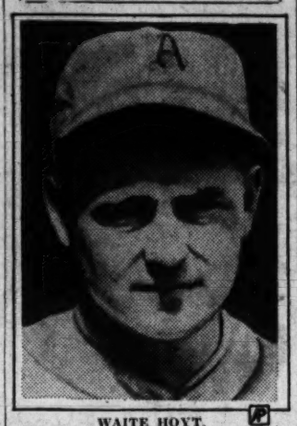
Grabowski, who was with the New York Yankees for two years and with the Chicago White Sox for three, was purchased by the Tigers from St. Paul, of the American Association, at the end of the 1930 season.

G.W. Not Offered Park For Alabama Grid Date

A report circulated yesterday to the effect that Georgetown University will transfer its option on the use of Griffith Stadium next October 8 to George Washington University, which is scheduled to play the University of Alabama on that date, was denied last night by Georgetown authorities. Georgetown is scheduled to engage Canisius (Buffalo, N. Y.) College on this date in the stadium.

George Washington has not asked Georgetown to release its option, nor has Georgetown offered to do so, and the former, it is understood, may erect a stadium of its own before the opening of the 1932 football season.

GETS RELEASE



WAITE HOYT.

MACKS GIVE HOYT HIS RELEASE

Veteran Who Won 10 Games for Macks Is Cast Adrift.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Waite C. Hoyt, veteran pitcher and shining star of many an American League and world series battle, was today unconditionally released by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, who is golfing in Florida, wired Hoyt and notified his office staff at Shibe Park to fill out the necessary papers.

All the other clubs in the league were asked whether they wanted his services, but none made a demand for him.

Hoyt joined the Athletics last Fourth of July and sent joy into the hearts of the White Elephant rooters by winning a string of games before tasting his first defeat.

He came from the Detroit club by the waiver route with a record of three victories and eight defeats for the season up to July 3. He won ten games and lost five with the Athletics.

Started 5th Game Of Series.

Hoyt was the starting pitcher in the fifth game of the world series between the Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals last fall, and was taken out, the Athletic's losing, 5 to 1.

Hoyt was one of the stars of the New York Yankees before being sent to Detroit in 1930. He had little success while with the Tigers. After shifting around in the minors and being with the New York Giants in the latter part of the 1918 season. Hoyt jointed the Boston Red Sox in 1919 and was traded to the Yankees in 1921. Then Hoyt began his greatest work.

He was a winner for the Yanks from 1921 until 1930, his best seasons being 1927 and 1928, when he won 22 and 23 games, respectively, losing only seven in each of those seasons.

Hoyt pitched in five world series for the Yankees, being credited with six victories and three defeats. He is 32 years old.

"Baby Car" Record Set by British Driver

Pendine, Wales, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Driving his seven horsepower (English rating) bullet-shaped automobile at an average speed of 118.38 miles per hour both ways over a measured mile course, George Eyston, English racing driver, today set a new record for "baby cars."

Eyston's fastest one-way run on the sands of Pendine Beach was 119.48 miles per hour.

Eyston's mark broke the record of 105 M. P. H. for the little cars set last year by Lord Ridley.

The mark will be certified to the international body as a record.

Toppino, at Scratch, Is Beaten at Newark

Newark, N. J., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Emmett Toppino, crack sprinter from Loyola University, New Orleans, placed no better than third in the 70-yard handicap dash, opening event of the track and field games of the New Jersey Chapter, Knights of Columbus, here tonight.

Toppino finished behind Frank Gleason, of Villa Nova, and Bernard Krosney, of New York University. Gleason, granted a 10-foot handicap, ran the distance in 7 3-10 seconds. Krosney, with a 4-foot handicap, was second. Toppino was the scratch man.

CATCHER LOPEZ SIGNS.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Al Lopez, first string catcher of the Brooklyn Robins, announced here today that he had signed a contract for his trird year with the team for $10,000, the same amount he was paid last year.

Eastern Five Plays Tech For Title

Series Climax Today Has No Favorite; Start at 4:45.

Expect Large Crowd; Business-Western in First Game.

HIGH school basket ball reaches a dramatic and noisy crescendo this afternoon when nearly 4,000 disciples of the kind of game the schoolboys display crush their way into Tech Gymnasium to view what promises to be a major league scramble between Eastern and Tech for the championship of the city.

Tied for first place in the series race, with a record of six victories and one setback, Tech and Eastern go on the floor today as perfectly matched as two wrestler's ears. Both teams have shown an ability to "take it" and come back with a thrilling barrage of baskets in the fading minutes of games. Both teams pass well and shoot well and are of the general type known as "brainy."

Breaks will decide today's game. Tech ordinarily should loom the favorite by 6 points or so, but it has lost its center, Jim Reed, through scholastic disabilities.

Tech Misses Reed.

This obscure young man, who scored only 14 points during his entire series performance, was not missed until he failed, when suddenly it was found that he was an integral part of Tech's manner of working the ball down the court to the fatal vicinity of the opponents' basket.

Eastern also is without a steadying influence in the loss of Ben Zola, guard, who had a way of keeping his head clear in the scrimmages. The last Tech-Eastern game resulted in a victory for Tech by a score of 32-26, although the lead changed three times during the game.

But if breaks are to decide today's game, Tech seems more likely to manufacture its own breaks than does Eastern. Tech has a physical edge in speed, if that means anything; its cohorts can yell many times more fiercely than Eastern's, which may have some psychological bearing on the impressionable minds of the young scholastics, and Tech is led by the finest all-around basket ball player in high school ranks for the last half decade—Everett Russell.

Eastern Outscored By Tech.

The Tech Team has outscored Eastern this year, 252-217, and is a little better at foul shooting, having made 48 out of 78 to Eastern's 65 out of 121.

Eastern's greatest advantage is in its ability to secure possession of the ball more ably than can Tech. Lieb will outjump Daly at center, and with Courtney to aid in retrieving the ball after the tap-off, and Lieb's great height under the basket all argue well the fact that Tech may find itself on the defensive. But once Tech has the ball it is a lethal power, for Russell, Wheeler and Reichardt are three potent shots.

The line-ups will read: Tech, Wheeler and Reichardt, forwards; Daly center; Russell and Thomas, guards. Eastern will have Kane and Courtney, forwards; Lieb, center; Bayliss and Waters, guards. Tech has two good reserves in Capt. Artie Willison and Mario Gregorio. Eastern has Edelen and Phillips.

The title tussel is the second game on today's series program. In the preliminary, Business meets Western, with nothing at stake. The big game will go on about 4:45.

Extra-Period Game Won By C. U.

Bison Captain Misses Crucial Foul Shot as Game Wanes.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

PACKING all the thrills engendered in an extra-period basket ball game, Catholic University's sometimes-rusty, sometimes-brilliant court team produced a notable 38-31 victory over Bucknell last night in C. U.'s Akron cradle gymnasium, after the thrilling enough legitimate game had ended with the horns locked at 31-31.

Although Bucknell failed to ring in a shot during the appended period of the game, Catholic University never had its head clear enough of the water to enjoy its lead. Bucknellian shots were doing everything but dropping through the loop when Dick Galiher, center, had given C. U. a 32-31 lead.

Cards Step Out in Extra Period.

Lew Spinelli widened the gap a bit, 34-31, with a bruising follow-up, shot, and Catholic went two more points ahead when White and Cannizaro dropped in loopers from the charity stripe after Chenowerth and Eastburn had been found guilty of fouls. Galiher finished matters with a snowbird under the basket.

Assuming that a basket ball weighs 3 pounds, Bucknell lost the game by a half ounce; for, with the score tied at 31-31 and with the second hand sweeping around to the end of the game with relentless ticks, Tom Hepler, captain and coolest of the visiting team, stood on the foul line, with several hundred hushed voices creating an awesome vacuum, and missed a foul shot. The ball hung on the lip of the rim for a momentary eternity, only to drop back into the frenzy of hands beneath.

Catholic had to fight its way abreast of the Bisons in the last part of the fourth period. C. U. had entered the second half leading, 14-8; but Little Bill Chenowerth, Bucknell forward, became addicted with one of the hottest hands of the year and put Bucknell out in the lead, 31-27, with three minutes left of the game, dropping in a one-hand shot at this point that brought a cheer even from the C. U. stands.

Lou Spinelli, playing a substitute role these days at C. U., started his club toward eventual victory by firing an absolute line drive in from the very middle of the tap-off circle. Galiher shakily shot the tying basket off a pass from Spinelli.

AMERICAN U. WIN STREAK IS BROKEN

String of Nine Cut by St. John's Five by 27 to 14 Score.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 8.—American University's streak of nine straight victories at basket ball was broken here tonight when St. John's College took its measure by a count of 27 to 14. Thus, the local collegians avenged in decisive fashion the reverse suffered at the hands of the Methodists in Washington a few weeks ago by a 2-point margin.

The St. John's boys were on their toes all the while, playing decidedly their best game of the season. They were leading, 16 to 10, at the intermission, and then turned in to completely outplay the visitors, the latter's four additional points being registered by Sells, who was the spark plug of the Americans' line-up.

The Methodists got under way as though they would give the Johnnies plenty of trouble, a field goal by Sells and a foul by th same player giving them a 3-point lead, and after six minutes had elapsed they held an advantage at 4 to 1. By this time, however, play was waxing warm.

St. John's particularly speeded up its passing and Loz and Carpenter started a rally to deadlock the issue at 6 all.

A few minutes later the score stood at a tie, 9 to 9. Then a field goal by Fuchs gave the visitors a 1-point lead. But the Americans shot their bolt right here, as subsequent events revealed. During the last three minutes of the half, St. John's essayed another rally, to run the count to 16 to 10, and the invaders never again seriously threatened.

St. John's held complete command of the second half. Though scoring proceeded slowly, the locals displayed some fine floor work, their defense being well night impregnable, Sells being the only opponent to get through and register. All of American U.'s scoring was done by Sells and Shorty Fuchs. The latter, however, played only half of the first half, and the last five minutes of the second session. G. Williams, who was substituted during the interim, however, proved a disappointment.

G. U. QUINTET OUTCLASSES WEST VA.

Carolan Leads Rally Near End Netting 45-31 Victory.

By JACK ESPEY.

GEORGETOWN'S five met strong opposition last night and with the same fine caliber of work that snapped a long losing streak at the expense of Western Maryland last week overpowered the University of West Virginia, 45 to 31, in Tech gym. This was the same West Virginia quintet that early in the season hung a 45-37 defeat on the crack Temple University Team, conqueror of Georgetown by 39-19.

Some scintillating passing and shooting by Tommy Carolan and Joe O'Neill, Georgetown's dependable guards, routed the Mountaineers in the second half. This period opened with the home talent leading by but 3 points, 19 to 16, but at the finish Georgetown was going away speedily and might have scored 50 points had Coach Mesmer kept the regulars on duty.

West Virginia hopped into an early lead by virtue of some fancy shooting by Wilbur Sortet, who registered the first 8 points credited to his team. Georgetown did not catch the visitors until within four minutes of the intermission, when Jack Crowley caged a goal from close range to tie the score at 14-14 and Bill Connors sank a pair of charity tosses.

The Mountaineers clung grimly on the heels of the Hilltoppers for three-fourths of the second chapter their fast-breaking attack with shots from unorthodox positions almost equaling the smoother offense of the Mesmerites. Class finally told, however, and Georgetown in the final five minutes completely dazzled its opponents, getting the better of the scoring, 11 to 3.

New York Ace Holds Lead In Storm

Beats Ballangrud, of Norway, by 3 Yds. in 10,000 Meters.

U. S. Defeats Poland at Hockey; Bobsled Races Delayed.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Irving Jaffee, slim, young broker's clerk on a vacation from Wall street, stood today on a homely pine board throne in the middle of the Olympic ice oval to receive the fourth, and the greatest of all the honors the United States ever has won in the brief history of the winter Olympic games.

A snowstorm swirled about his head, a band blared "The Star-Spangled Banner," a freezing crowd yelled wildly from pine bare stands—in tribute to the slender Jewish boy from the sidewalks of New York who won his second individual speed skating triumph in the 10,000 meters final today and gave the United States a clean sweep of all four speed skating Olympic championships. It is the first time in history that this Nation, or any other nation, has ever won them all.

Shea, Also Double Winner, Leads Cheering.

As they placed on his head the laurel wreath, symbol of an international champion, a tall black-haired kid who had just helped Jaffee up after he fell exhausted beyond the finish line of the last of the men's speed races on the 1932 Olympic program, led the cheering of the conqueror's teammates from the sidelines.

That was Jack Shea, curly headed Dartmouth sophomore, who started the amazing string of American triumphs with victory in the 500 meter championship last Thursday, opening day of the games, and followed with a 1,500-meter triumph while Jaffee was winning his initial victory of an international field in the 5,000 meter final.

Second to Jaffee today was Ivar Ballangrud, Norwegian champion, one of the Scandinavians born to snow and ice and considered invincible until they clashed in these games with Shea, product of the local ice, and Jaffee, who learned his skating on a rink two flights up at the corner of Fifty-second street and Boadway, New York City.

Ballangrud lost by three yards in a gruelling finish after Jaffee had slipped past him on the last lap of the 6.2-mile grind to grab a four yard lead and hold all but a yard of it in a thrilling drive through a biting snowstorm down the stretch.

Canadian Champ Finishes Close Third.

Right at Ballangrud's heels, flailing the spongy ice, with his long blades came Frank Stack, Canadian champion, while Eddie Wedge, of Detroit was inches back in fourth place with another veteran campaigner of the United States team, Valentine Bialas just as close in fifth place. The second Norwegian ace, Bernt Evensen, was sixth.

Alex Hurd, of Canada, was seventh and Ed Schroeder, of Chicago, who fell on the turn into the stretch, finished last. The time, 19 minutes 13 6-10 seconds, was slow in comparison with the world mark of Carlsen of Norway, 17:17 4-10, but it was remarkably fast considering the condition of the track, the cold and the snow.

Jaffee's victory all but clinched the unofficial team crown for the United States, another record for the winter Olympics, first held in France in 1924. The point score tonight stood 57 for the United States, 29 for Canada, and 14 for Norway, only other Nation to score points in the first five days of the games.

Almost as pleasing to American officials as Jaffee's second victory was the attitude after the race of the Scandinavians, who forced a rerun of the trial heats Saturday because of protests against the American style of racing, starting bitter arguments and a heated controversy that threatened for a time to disrupt the speed skating program.

Norwegians Won Over to U. S. Race Style.

"This is the better way to race," said Dr. Cato Aall, head of the Norwegian Olympic committee, as they were crowning Jaffee champion. "I can see now that the American style of racing makes a beautiful spectacle. We would never have had any objections if all races had been skated like this one."

Each man took his turn at pacing the field in the final, overcoming the objections of the Scandinavians to the heats, where they said the Americans laid back, jockeying for positions and made the Europeans do the pace setting and wind breaking for the field.

Capricious weather, starting with a blizzard in the morning, turning to a warm rain and thaw at noon, returning to snow and bitter cold in the afternoon, partly disrupted today's program.

The start of bobsled competition, bringing together in competition on the hazardous Mount Van Hoevenberg the boblet, or two-man sleds of eight nations, was postponed until tomorrow because of the early blizzard.

The only other outdoor event of the day gave Miss Jean Wilson, of Canada, a victory in the final of the first women's speed skating exhibitions between skaters of the United States and Canada.

Miss Wilson won the 500-meter final in 58 seconds flat, with two girls of the United States Team, Elizabeth Dubois, of Evanston, Ill., and Kit Klein, of Buffalo, second and third, respectively.

Canada's hockey team blanked Germany tonight, 5-0, to retain its 2-point lead over the United States in the point standing of the international series.

The United States, earlier in the evening, had beaten Poland, 5-0, for its third victory in four starts. Canada now has won four straight games.

Movie Plot Is Suspected As Olympic Skaters End Dull Race on Their Faces

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Feb. 8.—The 10,000 meter skating race, which has been a sort of Shanghai incident in the current winter Olympic games, was brought to a successful, but not very glorious conclusion this afternoon and the danger of war between the nations now seems to have been averted.

Irving Jaffee, a New York office worker, who learned to skate by reading about it in a book, won the race for the U. S. A., and the best that the combined Scandinavian expeditionary forces could do was second place, which was taken by Ivan Ballangrud, the Norwegian. Frank Stack, the Canadian, was third in the sleepwalker's competition, and Edwin Wedge, another New Yorker, was fourth.

Both Jaffee and Wedge skated the last ten yards on their faces, like Frank Frisch scoring from third on a home run by a following hitter. There was a great flurry of red white and blue pants as the American Olympic officials dashed up to one of the motion picture directors filming the finish to accuse him of framing the diving slide with the athletes to improve a film which was otherwise about as stirring as a picture of a man writing a letter.

This suspicion was denounced with great vehemence by the moving picture director and to an impartial observer it only looked as though the boys decided to slide for some cheers.

The desperate slide is a familiar prank of the young runners in some of the spring relay meets, suggesting that the athlete in question has given his all for the dear old eighth grade. There was no apparent reason for the boys to slide today and the very fact that the officials entertained the suspicion that they would enact the old college try for the moving pictures may be taken as a fair symptom of the state of feeling which has developed in the winter games.

Jaffee's glide to glory gave the United States a clean sweep in the four speed skating races, a unique record in the winter games, and a higher score than any other nation ever achieved. It should be understood, however, that the term "speed skating" is purely technical and not truly descriptive of the contests. In fact, there were times today during

Bobby Jones Now Magnate, Directing Atlanta's Team

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Feb. 8.—Bobby Jones no longer is just a figurehead in baseball.

The former monopolist of golfing crowns has assumed an active part in management of the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association, on Class A circuit.

Two years ago Jones was voted a directorship. He attended the magnates' meetings; smiled his way about on opening day and once gave a driving performance to draw pay customers to the ball lot.

But he was an official—a vice president—in name only, with little stock in the club.

Reorganization of the club this winter boosted Bobby into the active secretaryship while retaining for him his vice presidency. Bell J. Spiller, former business manager, resigned, but remains the majority stockholder.

One of Bobby's first acts was to hire an old college mate at Georgia Tech, David Irenus "Red" Barron, to be field boss. Barron was a nationally known half back at Tech when Bobby was the South's "boy wonder" of the links.

Barron has had no previous managerial experience but Bobby's faith in his ability was such that he paid off the veteran pilot, Johnny Dobbs—who had been at odds with the business office—and appointed Barron to serve out the remaining year on Dobbs' contract.

Early in February Bobby set sail for New York and Boston to seek player aid for his club from Col

Kieckhefer Beats Reiselt For World 3-Cushion Title

CHICAGO, Feb. 8 (U.P.).—Augie Kieckhefer, of Chicago, won the world's three-cushion billiard championship for the tenth time tonight by defeating Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, 50 to 27, in 40 innings in the final game of the 22-day round robin tournament.

Kieckhefer won a cash prize of about $10,000 and the championship is usually worth about $25,000 more a year in returns from exhibition matches.

Reiselt's defeat forced him into a tie with Arthur Thurnblad, Chicago, last year's champion, for second place. They will play off the tie tomorrow night. Second prize will amount to more than $5,000.

By winning the title ten times, Kieckhefer equalled the record of Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., Reiselt has won the crown six times. This was the second title tournament won by Kieckhefer, his other eight championship conquests being in challenge matches. Kieckhefer's high run was 5, Reiselt's 4.

Kieckhefer was the first to score, taking a lead of 4 to 0 in the third inning. Reiselt came back with 4 in the fifth, only to have Kieckhefer collect 2 in his half. At the end of ten innings, Kieckhefer led by 9 to 6. Reiselt tied the count at 10-10 with one in the 17th but again Kieckhefer made 2 to take a 12 to 10 lead.

A run of 5 in the 20th started Kieckhefer on his winning spurt, and 5 more in the 23d gave Keickhefer a lead of 27 to 17. From this point on Kieckhefer continued to draw away.

JAZ AGE IS DRIVING WINNER IN FEATURE AT HIALEAH PARK

Gelding Gets Verdict by Length

Corbett's Foul Claim Disallowed After Deliberation.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 8 (A. P.).—Under a vigorous ride by Buddy Hanford, J. Parmalee's 4-year-old gelding Jaz Age was a driving winner of the Ocala Claiming Handicap, which featured the washday program here this afternoon. The son of Great Jaz—Elga came home with a length advantage over Jack Howard's Miss Tulsa. C. H. Miller's Jamison was a scant half length behind, in third position. The winner was favorite and paid $5.60. He completed the 6 furlongs in 1:11 1-5.

After the race Charlie Corbett, who rode Miss Tulsa, lodged a claim of foul with the stewards, but after lengthy deliberation the placing was allowed to stand. Hanford appeared to ride Miss Tulsa a trifle close through the stretch, but it was not sufficient to make a disqualification justified.

Miss Tulsa Sets Pace.

Miss Tulsa was nursed along in front, while Jaz Age was next in pursuit to the stretch. Pop Gaffney was laying third, but dropped out of contention after turning for home Jaz Age finished resolutely under strong handling and collared the pacemaker in the late stages to win going away. Jamison closed ground fast in the last quarter mile to threaten Miss Tulsa for the place.

The form players picked the right one in the 18-horse juvenile event. W. S. Kilmer's Mintwina leading home Modesto by three lengths. Modesto was a length in advance of Fretwork. The winner was an even-money choice but Modesto paid $110 for $2 to place. After breaking on top, Mintwina drew farther away with each stride and always had the situation under control. Modesto was well up from the start and finished fast. Fretwork, a first-time starter in the C. V. Whitney silks, came from behind in promising fashion to annex the show honors.

New Orleans, La., Feb. 8 (A.P.).—J. J. Robinson's string of successes at the Fair Grounds was lengthened today with the victory of Flying Don in the Lake Maure Pas Purse.

Matching his sprinting ability against a small field of 3-year-olds Flying Don spread-eagled his field, finishing the 6 furlongs three lengths in front of Open Hearth, owned by S. W. Labrot, of Baltimore. R. A. Fairbairn's Merry Fox was third.

Lenten Law Is Waived For New Orleans Races

New Orleans, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—A city ordinance which prohibits horse racing during the Lenten season was suspended by the city commission council today and the Fair Grounds will be permitted to continue the racing season to its conclusion on March 19.

In a special session of the council, Mayor T. S. Walmsley recommended suspension of the ordinance for this year on the grounds that enforcement of the law would cause disappointment and financial embarrassment to visiting horsemen and others.

Wednesday is the first day of Lent.

Portney Beats Raymond By Technical Knockout

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 8.—Jack Portney scored a technical knockout over Phil Raymond in the battle of southpaws tonight at the 104th Medical Regiment Armory. Referee Charley Short stopped the bout at the close of the fourth round on orders of the Maryland Boxing Commission physician.

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 8.—Hialeah Park's feature tomorrow, the fifth race, called the Fort Pierce Claiming Handicap, has attracted six horses for the mile. ALDERSHOT in his last race against Lady Broadcast, showed a sparkling effort in which he was beaten a head for place by Dancing Mack. He seems best of this field and is favored in the weights.

GAY BIRD, the top weight, will be a keen contender and should hold the others safe. The improved FULL DRESS should show. In his last start, he was third to Pop Gaffney.

Fields tomorrow, with the exception of the number for 2-year-olds, are on the skimpy order, but they are balanced up so that the contests should be close.

FIRST RACE—LOVE OFFERING seems to stand out, with JAMES RIVER the contender. LOVE OFFERING was beaten by Mae Sweep last week, attributed largely to V. Arthur's riding, the young jockey taking him to the outside, while the winner hugged the rail and saved ground. JAMES RIVER, winner last out, seems to like a distance, and this is probably too short. CAPTAIN ED, which has lost his early winter speed, should be good enough to save third money from the others.

SECOND RACE—Twenty-two 2-year-olds are listed for the second. It seems most of the culls among those which have raced have been dumped into the race. STRAIGHT JACKET has shown the best form of any and is selected to win. HILDUR ROCK ran some good races earlier in the season and is picked for place, while MIKE REYNOLDS, winner of two races, has been running bad ones since, but figures to run third.

THIRD RACE—FETISH should win. Throwing out this last race and going back to his previous start, where he won from Putter, he looks like the winner, but it will b close between him and SILVERY, winner last week, for this is a mile and a half, longest race of the meeting. SKYWAY should hold the other horses safe.

FOURTH RACE—PORT HARLEM is selected. She won her last start in 1:11 4-5 from MEM'HIS DEAR and the two should finish that way in this. This race is longer, being seven furlongs. BROOKSIE promises to be in the money. BROOKSIE was favorite over Batty Saturday in a mile race and led for seven furlongs.

SIXTH RACE—SUN TEATIME is well placed. SHIVA has not run to her best form this winter, but may be the contender here. WISE ADVOCATE, third to ZEVAR Saturday, should be in the money. SUN TEATIME was third to Mae Sweep last week.

SEVENTH RACE—TYPHOON is expected to show a return to form. His better races would win easily here. SCARLET BRIGADE will like the distance. He should be the contender, with PRETTY PENNY getting third money.

Ex-Champ to Top 5-Bout Mat Card

Lewis to Take on Roebuck in Auditorium Headliner Thursday.

Strangler Lewis, the old cranium crusher, who has been prominent in wrestling since the modern fans were practicing toe holds on a teddy bear, headlines Thursday night's wrestling show at the Auditorium, where he will meet Tiny Roebuck in a two-hour limit or one shoulder scrape affair.

Also on the card are Fred Grobmeier vs. John Maxos, Fritz Kley vs. Jean LeDeaux, Sammy Stein vs. Alex Aberg and Matros Kirilenko vs. Alois Kautzki.

Lewis seems as old to most wrestling fans as the combined ages of Fanny Ward and Grover Cleveland Alexander, but it so happens that he is the same age as Jim Londos—39. Londos, champion in these pastures which Lewis has recently invaded, claims 32 unblushingly, but your own matchmaker, Joe Turner, rassled him back in 1916 out in Minneapolis, and although terrifically outweighed, held the incipient Greek god for well over an hour.

Central Five Tackles G. U. Prepmen Today

Central High, its chores in the high school series at an end, will play a strong prep school challenger today, meeting Georgetown Prep in a game at Central. The prep team recently defeated St. John's, generally regarded as the leading parochial club in Washington.

Earl Mattingly, Robins, Gets Marriage License

A marriage license has been issued in Upper Marlboro, Md., to Lawrence Earl Mattingly, former Washington sandlot pitcher now with the Brooklyn Robins. Mattingly gave his age as 27 and his address as Fort Foote, Md. His bride's name is given as Catharine Ula Thorne, 25 years old, of 1923 Sixteenth street southeast.

Fitzgerald and Mills Brothers at Eastern

Joe and Carly Mills and Dicky Fitzgerald, Gonzaga football and basket ball stars, entered classes at Eastern High yesterday, the consummation of their resignation from Gonzaga last week because of friction with school heads.

The remainder of the boys who absented themselves from classes at Gonzaga and applied for admission to Eastern, Tom Nolan, Francis Cleary, Ed Benjamin and Vic Perusso, are still out of school.

Takoma-S. S. to Play Gaithersburg Today

Takoma-Silver Spring High tossers, who are well on the way toward the Montgomery County School title with a record of eight league wins in as many starts, meet the Gaithersburg five on the latter's court this afternoon.

The Takoma-Silver Spring combination is a strong one and it figures that only Damascus has a chance to upset it in its remaining four games in the county title series. It has played many nonleague games, losing but one. The Georgetown Preps took this and the Takoma-Silver Springers hope for revenge in the return game, to be played shortly.

beating Germany twice and the United States and Poland once each.

Germany offered stubborn resistance tonight but the Teutons were outclassed. Their desperate thrusts were sadly lacking in cooperation and general hockey craft.

It was the fourth successive defeat for the Polish team, deemed by spectators "too polite" for the American style of play, as the players seldom attempt stiff body-checking or similar defensive tactics. Nevertheless the Poles showed surprising improvement in defense near the net.

All through the day, indoors in the Olympic Arena away from the reach of varying weather, the men's figure skaters of eight nations cut their school figures on the ice under the eyes of seven judges in the start of that competition. Although the duels seem to rest between Gillis Grafstrom, of Sweden, Olympic champion for the past eight years, and Karl Schaefer, of Austria, world title holder, it will be many hours before the complicated tabulations will return a champion.

BOBBY JONES NOW BASEBALL MAGNATE

Ed Barrow, of the Yankees, and Emil Fuchs, of the Braves, both friends and admirers of the retired emperor of golf.

With his new players, together with a fine bunch of fielders and hitters already available, the club, under Jones' direction, may go places and win a pennant, or at least a high first division position, this summer.

Bobby has not slighted his golf duties, however. He recently reached up to the Scioto Club, in Columbus, Ohio, and signed his friend, George Sargent, as porfessional at the Jones home club here, East Lake.

He has spent much of his time this winter in Augusta, where he is supervising the construction of the Augusta National Golf course, where every hole is patterned after some famous hole Bobby has played on championship courses throughout the world.

Yes, he still plays, cracking par regularly and breaking the usual monotony of 69's and 70's with a record-making breeze. His second hole-in-one was made a few weeks ago.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

ACCORDING to the national committee for aeronautics, an airplane is "a mechanically driven aircraft, heavier than air, fitted with fixed wings, and supported by the dynamic action of the air."

To remain in the air, an airplane depends solely on its forward motion through the air, since its lifting surfaces (fixed wings), are a part of the machine itself.

The lifting surfaces of the autogiro (its rotor blades) are practically independent of the forward speed of the craft itself. Therefore, the machine is capable of sustained flight with very little forward speed.

In addition, the autogiro rotor has no connection with the engine while in flight. The rotational speed of its blades is nearly constant whether the machine is traveling fast or slow, hovering, or descending. The rotor is not affected by motor failure.

CATHOLIC BOXERS FACE MIAMI

Florida Team Shows Here Tonight

Cards Strengthened; DiGiacomo Will Make Debut.

Pyne Would Extend Streak of Collegiate Ring Victories.

WITH a stronger line-up than was available for its opening match which resulted in a victory over City College of New York last Friday, Catholic University will seek to prolong its winning streak in boxing at Brookland gymnasium tonight when it engages the University of Miami (Fla.), in a series of seven bouts, beginning at 8:30 o'clock.

Harry DiGiacomo, a veteran of three years' experience, will make his season's debut for the home team tonight in the 135-pound class. He was overweight last week and could not appear against C. C. N. Y., his place being taken by Basil Maravelias, who contributed one of the four Cardinal individual victories that night.

There will be two 135-pound bouts tonight and both DiGiacomo and Maravelias will perform. The second bout was arranged when the Floridians revealed that they had no heavyweight. This will leave Bingo Flynn, C. U. heavy, on the bench.

Di Giacomo Meets Miami Veteran.

Bill Calabrese, Catholic featherweight, yesterday was declared fit to compete. He had been suffering from a cut under the eye, sustained in the C. C. N. Y. match and his presence for the Miami bout was considered unlikely until this late hour. Calabrese will oppose William Eavenson.

The program will open with a bantamweight clash between Reuben Miro, representing Catholic, and George Manley, one of the visitors' most capable boxers. Frank Stines, who dropped his first bout last week, will return in the welterweight session to meet John DeMikus, while John Stapleton, middleweight, will face Stanley Phillips and Dan Pyne, light heavy, will engage Dick Burnett. An easy win is predicted for Pyne, who has never lost a bout in intercollegiate competition.

Hitting the Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

LEW HOPFENMAIER isn't going to relinquish his Capital City League franchise after all. This much became known at a meeting of the league held at the Lucky Strike alleys Saturday night. Some of Lew's boys are dissatisfied with the management of the team and have said so. In fact one or two may sever their connections with the Pale Drys and seek berths on other teams.

Hopfenmaier intends to play the schedule out if he has to put a dub team on the alleys.

George Isemann spent a busy day in Baltimore yesterday, arranging the Barnes Classic, a sweepstake affair costing only $10. (My, my! This after all Mr. Stan said about too many sweepstakes. Now, George?) Isemann's idea is to conduct such a classic each year, named after the national champion. The affair will consist of ten games, five in the afternoon and five at night.

George is also planning to take the winners of the four major sweepstakes rolled this year, the Dixie, Howard Campbell, Baltimore and United States, to Hagerstown Friday, February 19, to give the good folks of that town a demonstration of duckpins as the game is played in this part of the country. The boys will roll at Gene Ramey's establishment. At present rubber-ribbed pins are the vogue at Hagerstown, but Isemann hopes to convert the bowlers to 100 per cent wood pins before long.

Eddie Espey's 379 set was instrumental in Convention Hall's three-game win over Rendezvous in a postponed District League match at Convention Hall. The winners rolled 582, 597 and 572 to Rendezvous' 525, 538 and 512.

The individual set record of the King Pin Business Men's loop was shattered at King Pin No. 2 last night by Royal, of Chestnut Farms Dairy, who rolled 417 as his team took the odd one from Hecht. Royal's work was unusually consistent, 140, 140 and 138. In the only other match rolled the National Lithos defeated the King Pin five, 2-1.

Gingell's 139 game and King's 349 set topped the individual scoring in the Merchant's League at Convention Hall last night. Penn Electric and Barber & Ross shut out Thompson's Dairy and W. B. Moses. Southern Dairies, National Glass Shop and Thompson's Furniture dropped the odd-ones to Uneeda Bakers, W. R. Winslow and Kapneck Electric.

In the Odd Fellows League, Lewis Donaldson counted 138 in a single game, and Steel chalked up a 345 set to cop the prizes. Mount Pleasant rolled a 1,559 set to whitewash Amity No. 2.

Louis Chipouras managed to hold the spotlight in the Ahepa League by virtue of a 132 game and 363 set rolled at the hall last night. Chipouras has a mortgage on the individual honors, it seems. All of the team matches resulted in whitewashes for the losing teams. Hercules, Platos and Sons of Pericles were on the winning side, with Socrates, Leonidas and Aristotle holding the bag. The strong-arm crew rolled 538 and 1,592 for team honors.

Joe Freschi rolled 137 and 364 as the Rinaldi Tailors gained a 2-1 decision over Takoma Park in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike. Tom Walker rolled 137 for the Park team and James a 356 set.

The highest set recorded in the General Counsel League at Lucky Strike, 360, was the work of a Mr. Burres. Light was rather heavy on the pins when he rang the bell with 134 pins in a single game. The Giants' 586 game and Pirates' 1,554 set were best for the teams.

Harry High lived up to his name in the Typothetae loop at Lucky Strike when he paddled the pins for a 148 game and 385 set last night. National Capital Press walked off with the team prize by virtue of its 588 and 1,761 scores. Maxwell Jones scored the only clean-sweep of the evening, winning over the Gibson Bros., Columbia Printing, National Capital Press, Charles H. Potter, Big Print Shop and Central Printing took the odd ones from Ransdell, R. P. Andrews, Mellichampe, Haywood and American Electrotype, in that order.

Spilling the pins for a 147 game score and 398 two-game total enabled Hugh Crawley to walk off with the individual prizes in the Federal League at Arcadia. Postoffice, with a 606 game, and Navy Yard, with a 1,752 set, divided the team laurels.

Fresh eggs! All for the losing teams in the Petroleum League. Chapman, Tidewater, Texas and American are the lucky teams. Oh, yeah! Crew-Levick, Lord Baltimore, Gulf and Standard distributed the breakfast food. Morgan's 374 set, Sellinger's 153 game topped the individual scoring list, while Lord Baltimore's 587 game and Crew-Levick's 1,658 set bagged the team awards.

Evelyn Ream's 131 game and 342 set were the standout scores as Deal's Service tossed Lucky Strike for a two-game loss in the Ladies District League at Columbia.

The Shade Factory, helped no little by Charley Walson's 393 set, took all three from Faulkner-Proctor in Section I of the North of Washington League at Silver Spring last night. The winners had a game of 586 and set of 1,697 to their credit. Watson's 149 game aided Acme Sheet Metal in its clean sweep over Kensington. The Service Co. was another three-game winner, Silver Spring Electric taking the loss. L. E. Breuninger and the Old Timers took the odd ones from the Howitzer Giants and F. G. P.'s.

Miss Johnson's work took the cake in the Ladies' Agriculture League at Columbia. Her high game was 120, and set, 298. A bargain! Interdivision defeated Extension, Foreign Service tripped Cooperation, Accounts won from Live Stock, and Information stopped Cotton by the odd-ones. Foreign Service's 1,314 set was high, as was the Cottonpickers' 466 game.

Miss Gervais' 121 and Miss Wittback's 328 set topped the scoring in the Eastern Star Ladies' Circuit. Washington Centennial No. 1 picked off 538 pins for high team game and 1,506 for the set prize, and in addition took all three from Lebanon, Acacia, Treaty Oak and Washington Centennial No. 2 odd-gamed their way to victories over Mizpah, Bethany and Good Will.

A Fruits and Vegetables man, Lewis by name, rolled a game of 147, and Harry Dickson chalked up a 353 set to garner the individual honors in the Men's Agriculture League at Columbia. Grain rolled a game of 564 and set of 1,596 to cop a pair from Standard. Farm Management whitewashed Cooperation, and the Nomics did the same to Horticulture. Crop Estimate was one better than Fruits and Vegetables.

Marmel Captains Columbus Boxers

Bantam Will Lead Against Springfield at Strand Saturday Night.

Eddie Marmel, crack bantamweight, is to succeed retiring Harry Allen as captain of Columbus University's boxing team when Springfield (Mass.) College glove wielders are faced at the Strand Theater Saturday night.

Copping handily in his initial 1932 go against City College of New York, Marmel won on a forfeit last week when Washington and Jefferson failed to produce a battler of his weight.

Goldie Ahearn, well known local boxing authority, will serve as referee in the impending bouts. Both efficient and colorful, Ahearn today is ranked among the leading officials in the South Atlantic section.

Widespread interest is being expressed in the approaching ring attraction. Athletic books on sale at Goldie Ahearn's, Vic's Sport Shop and Spalding's will gain admittance.

A victory by Fort Myer over Department of Commerce in their scheduled tilt tomorrow evening at Bolling Field, starting at 8 o'clock, would give the Soldiers second honors to Census in the first half of the Government Basket Ball League. Managers of Government League teams will attend a meeting Thursday at Vic Sport Shop, starting at 8 o'clock, wherein the second-half schedule will be determined and new entrants to the circuit will be passed upon. Row Over Education Board Is Closed in Montgomery

The dove of peace descended upon the troubled waters of the Montgomery County Civic Federation last night at the Bethesda School and presented an olive branch in the form of a substitute motion for the much-discussed Armstrong resolution setting forth certain qualifications for members of the county board of education.

Those who gathered to battle over the resolution which provided among other things that members of the board should be selected without regard to political affiliations and should not be members of any other county body, accepted the substitute unanimously. Under the new resolution as presented by Robert E. Bondy, chairman of the school committee, selection is to be made on a basis of demonstrated interest in the school system and educational matters and of persons who are by experience and education qualified to advise in regard to school matters and without regard to sex.

The federation appropriated $50 to the legislation and legal action committee for clerical expenses which will be involved in gathering officials of Washington and Montgomery County in a conference to arrange for uniform system of street numbering and naming. A map of regions covered by each constituent member of the federation with the population affected and the overlapping between organizations shown was presented by W. I. Cleveland, chairman of the membership committee, who also was named to represent the federation on the unemployment relief committee of the Social Service League.

Two emergency resolutions were adopted opposing redistricting of the property on the District side of the District Line at Wisconsin avenue so that it could be used as a site for a funeral parlor and crematory and one opposing rezoning of the east side of the Montgomery County side of the District Line for the erection of apartment houses. Merger of transportation in Washington was indorsed.

Dynamite Permit Refused.

The application of the Snyder company to erect a concrete building in the center of a 4-acre tract of land in East Falls Church, to be used as a dynamite storage magazine, was denied. It was hinted that if the council did grant the permit private citizens would attempt to obtain an injunction to prohibit the storage of dynamite in the town. The proposed site of the building was in the rear of the fire engine house on Washington street and more than 200 feet from any building or highway.

The clerk was instructed to proceed to collect a special assessment from abutting property owners for laying the sidewalk and curbing on Washington street. The owners will be required to pay one-third of the cost of laying the curb and walk.

The State Highway Commission informed the town council that it did not consider taking over Broad street through the town for maintenance this year. No allocation has been made by that body for taking over the street under the Porter-Rhodes act and no other roads will be taken over by the commission until December this year, according to the letter received by Mayor Daniel.

Improvements Announced.

Mayor Daniel explained the plan for town improvements from the unemployment relief fund received from Government employes. Included in the plan will be the painting of the town hall with the town furnishing the paint, the trimming of shade trees and the cleaning of street rights of way. Owners of vacant lots will be required to remove all trash and old weeds, according to the announcement last night.

It was stated that Arlington County had abolished all district tax levies and was seeking an act from the State Legislature allowing it to lay special tax levies. The council voted to request that the town be excluded in the provisions of the act.

An amendment will be sought to the town charter allowing the condemnation and establishment of streets, water mains, sewers and maintain and establish fire departments and to lay a tax for fire protection purposes, this prohibiting such levy by the counties in the corporate limits. This tax would also be used in reimbursing the water department for water used in fire fighting.

The mayor was authorized to purchase $7,000 of town water bonds to use as a sinking fund toward retiring future town indebtedness on the water system.

Montgomery Farmers To Convene on Feb. 27

Morning and afternoon sessions will be held, at which about 200 farmers, dairymen and other rural residents will attend.

Dr. F. B. Bomberger, assistant chief of the division of cooperative marketing of the Federal Farm Board, will be one of the principal speakers.

The work is to be extended over two years, except for the improvement of the existing thoroughfare.

Fletcher Schott, principal, announced yesterday. The film is being sponsored by the dramatic club of the Rockville School, and one-fourth of the proceeds will go to the school.

ARLINGTON PLANNING TO PURGE TAX ROLLS

Will Act Shortly on Advice of Attorney to Collect Delinquent Levies.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With a delinquent real estate tax list in Arlington County of approximately $250,000, the county board, at an adjourned meeting at the courthouse last night, received from Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas the following recommendations as to the proper method of proceeding with the collection of these taxes:

"First—Sufficient examination of the land records should be made to ascertain the name of the present owner of the property upon which any taxes are delinquent. Such owner should have a polite and courteous, but firm, letter advising him what taxes are due for a certain year, and the name of the person to whom this property was assessed for that year. It is my belief that many persons in this county, on whose property there are delinquent taxes, are unaware of this fact, and that such taxes as are delinquent are in the name of some former owner and would be paid if brought to the attention of the present owner in a proper manner. The experience of other localities has been that such a procedure as above indicated has been very effective.

Would Notify Note Holders.

"Second—In the cases where the first step produces no results, it is recommended that there be ascertained from the land records the name of the holder of the note secured by the first deed of trust, or of the trustee under that trust, upon the property upon which there are delinquent taxes, and that such person be notified that the taxes are unpaid and constitute a lien prior to his trust. He should be invited to pay these taxes or to compel their payment by the owner of the property, and should be notified that if this is not done in a reasonable time, the county will proceed to the sale of the land. It is believed that most of the property upon which taxes are delinquent is encumbered by one or more deeds of trust, and that this proceedure would meet with the full cooperation and approval of financial interests on which Arlington County is dependent for continued progress and development.

"Third—Some chancery proceedings, either in the form heretofore initiated by the board of supervisors, the validity of which is yet to be determined by the Virginia Court of Appeals, or a proceeding known as a creditor's bill, about which there could be no question, should be prosecuted to a successful conclusion at the earliest possible date. It is absolutely necessary to establish beyond any doubt that Arlington County has a means to compel the payment of taxes in cases where the cooperation of the taxpayers can not be secured."

Early Action Is Planned.

The board, after much discussion, voted to take action on the recommendations at an early date, recognizing the need of immediate steps being taken looking to the collection of this large amount of delinquent taxes.

Fearing that it may become necessary to borrow funds for the operation of the county, Commonwealth's Attorney Douglas was authorized to advise local representatives in the General Assembly that the board requests the date permitted by law for the borrowing of funds by the county be changed from April 1 to June 1 of each year.

ST. PAUL'S TO HOLD PATRIOTIC SERVICE

Alexandria Church Plans 'Rededication to Ideals' February 21.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

St. Paul's Protestant Episcopal Church has announced a special service on Sunday, February 21, called "A Service of Rededication to American Ideals," and will be rendered by the members of the vestry of the church and a group of Boy Scouts. There will be no sermon. The congregation will join in simple musical responses led by the choir. The offertory anthem will be "My Defense Is of God."

The records of St. Paul's Church go back to 1811, and show that Maj. Lawrence Lewis and his wife Nellie Custis Lewis, of Woodlawn, were members of that congregation. Also Justice Bushrod Washington and his wife and other connections of that illustrious family were communicants in this church.

The Rev. Percy Foster Hall is rector of the church, and the vested choir is under the leadership of Sherman Bruce Fowler, who, in 1930, rounded out 40 years of continuous service as the organist of the church.

Detective Sergt. Edgar Sims left yesterday for Oklahoma City, Okla., to bring back E. B. Squires, held in that city on a warrant charging him with the larceny of baggage of George Crane, of New York. A group of five persons hired Squires in New York City, through an automobile agency, to convey them to California, and the trip was broken in Alexandria for overnight on Christmas Eve, all going to a hotel to pass the night, and Squires proceeded on with the baggage of all. Crane swore out the warrant, claiming that his baggage was taken, including a sextant and valuable field glasses. Requisition papers were taken out and Sergt. Sims will bring Squires back in the automobile, which it is stated also belonged to Crane.

Mrs. Lelia Scarpanati, 108 North Fayette street, sustained inuries to her back yesterday morning when hit by a State Highway Department truck, driven by W. H. Rixey, of Culpeper. Mrs. Scarpanati was taken to the Alexandria Hospital in the Fire Department ambulance, and is still a patient in that institution, although her condition is not regarded as serious.

Mrs. Harry B. Caton, international relations chairman, and Mrs. Albert M. Briggs, program chairman, will have charge of the program at the meeting at 7 o'clock this evening of the Business and Professional Women's Club of Alexandria. A group of club members will wear costumes of the countries belonging to the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, and folk songs of those countries will be featured.

Police Capt. John S. Arnold will be the speaker at the meeting of the Alexandria Rotary Club at 12:30 o'clock today at the George Mason Hotel. His subject will be the short wave radio, its efficiency and usefulness to the police department.

The bills to the consumers of the Alexandria Water Co., which ordinarily are mailed out on the first of February, were sent out yesterday with the 10 per cent increase granted that company by the State Corporation Commission.

Memorial services will be held at 7 o'clock this morning in Grace Episcopal Church for the former rector, the Rev. Edgar Carpenter, who died suddenly on February 9, 1931.

All Night Street Lighting Is Assured for Hyattsville

All-night street lights were assured for Hyattsville last night when the town council accepted a proposal of the electric company to give the full-time service for an increase of $2.95 per light per year.

The increase will raise the town's lighting bill by about $1,100, from $5,300 to $6,400. The street lamps will be turned on at sunset and continue until 45 minutes before sunrise. In addition, they will be turned on on cloudy days, or when there is special need of lights. The measure, which follows that of other towns in the county, is planned as a crime preventive. It is not thought the new service will necessitate an increase in the tax rate, and the town has a sufficient surplus to pay for it until the end of the current fiscal year, May 31.

The council also decided to ask the Washington Railway & Electric Co. to move the Hyattsville street car stop about 50 feet, locating it opposite Johnson avenue. This will enable street car patrons to make use of the new traffic light at this point, and reduce accidents. It was also decided to pay Roland T. Reed, part-time policeman, $50 extra for his service during the time Chief Albert Anderson was sick. Chief Anderson returned to work yesterday, after an illness of about a month.

An ordinance abolishing the charge for permits to cut curbs was also passed, but the new law requires that the work must be done under the supervision of the town. The charge previously was $5. Councilman P. F. Brookens announced that 13,000 tulip bulbs had been planted as part of the bicentennial "dress-up" program.

PRINCE GEORGES TAX DEFAULTS DECREASE

Although the 1931 tax rate was higher than in 1930, and there were about 1,000 more taxpayers in Prince Georges County, there were three fewer tax sales for the 1931 assessment, according to Brice Bowie, county treasurer.

There were 1,820 persons in default on their 1930 taxes, he says, while 1,817 have defaulted on the 1931 payments. In spite of the depressed business conditions last year, the tax list shows its first decrease since 1927. In that year there were 1,430 delinquents, and this has increased at an average rate of 100 a year.

Most of the land sold for taxes consists of small lots in subdivisions, which have been bought on the instalment plan and then abandoned, according to Mr. Bowie. Before the tax sale in March, more than half of the 1,817 delinquents are expected to pay their taxes, and nearly all of them will redeem their property inside the two years before the purchaser can take his title. There are about 3,500 taxpayers in the county.

Last year property valued at $85,000 was sold at the final tax sale in September, out of a total assessed valuation of about $60,000,000, giving a tax sale of approximately .1 of 1 per cent.

Arlington Police Seek Yeatman Home Thieves

Arlington County yesterday was making a search for the person or persons who early yesterday entered the home of C. B. Yeatman, 250 South Walnut street, Lyon Park, and stole several overcoats, a radio, and other articles, valued at $450.

Mr. Yeatman, who reported his loss to the county police, said that entrance was made through a rear window. He stated that one of the overcoats was found late yesterday on a nearby lot by some boys who were playing there.

2 Men Injured by Falls In Nearby Montgomery

Two men were injured in falls yesterday in nearby Montgomery County, Md. Both were given first aid treatment by the Bethesda volunteer rescue squad and by Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, of Bethesda, and then removed to Georgetown Hospital.

Henry C. Barcley, 80 years old, a guest at the home of Mrs. C. Bahenrein, Edson lane and Rockville pike, fell down the steps of the back porch and broke his leg. C. A. Baker, 39, of 719 Eighth street southwest, a laborer for the D. D. Condon Co., which is doing a construction job at Georgetown Preparatory School, fell from the top of a 4-foot fence and broke his collarbone.

Rockville Firemen Plan For "He-Night" Smoker

Rockville Volunteer Fire Department members will meet tomorrow night at the engine house to discuss plans for the annual "he-night" smoker of the department. He-night will be held in the hangar of the Congressional Airport, at Halpine, on the Rockville pike the night of February 22. Proceeds of the smoker will be used to reduce the debt on the engine house at Rockville.

Various committee chairmen will submit reports on the progress made by their committees and other details in connection with the affair will be discussed. Arrangements are being made to handle a crowd of about 2,300 at the hangar. The program will consist of boxing and wrestling bouts and other features.

Rockville Seeking Fox Hunter Shows

Delegation Will Guarantee $2,000 at Meeting of National Body.

In an effort to obtain this year's field trials, bench show and horse show of the National Fox Hunters Association for the Rockville fair grounds, Carl Hunt, of Washington, who is president of the national association, will head a delegation from Washington and Montgomery County which will visit the meeting of the directors at Lexington, Ky., Friday. The local sportsmen are prepared to guarantee any deficit up to $2,000.

Among those expected to accompany Mr. Hunt will be Otto W. Anderson, county farm agent and secretary of the Rockville Chamber of Commerce, and Clarence L. Gilpin, president of the Montgomery County Agricultural Society and a member of the Montgomery and Maryland Fox Hunters Associations.

It is understood that the overflow from the meet will have to be housed in Washington and the Washington Board of Trade is reported interested.

Montgomery Plans Buying Site of Fair

School Board May Act on Proposed Sale to County Today.

Details whereby Montgomery County can purchase the Rockville Fair Grounds for school purposes are being worked out by attorneys for the county board of education and county commissioners. The price will be approximately $35,000. It is possible that action on the purchase will be taken at a meeting of the board of education today in Rockville, Md.

The fairgrounds are owned by the Rockville Fair Association and the price offered will just about pay the debts of the fair association, which has been losing money for several years. The seventy-ninth fair in 1931 added to the deficit and the directors declared that the fair would have to close unless horse race betting was legalized at the fair and the county commissioners refused to approve such action. Numerous county organizations, including the Montgomery County Civic Association, urged that the 26 acres be purchased for school uses.

The school board considers the site large enough to provide for Rockville's school needs for many years and also to give playground space for Rockville and its vicinity.

STOCKS REPEAT SAG AFTER FIRM MARKET

New York, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Plainly lacking incentive to do otherwise, stocks nosed downward again today, selling tended to be selective and the market was again dull, but net changes averaged into a loss of nearly a point which put the Associated Press-Standard Statistics Co. composite within half a point of the January low.

Groups most affected by the dominant drift were the rails, tobaccos, motors, farm implements and coppers. Utilities, with the exception of People's Gas, and also the steel division acquitted themselves reasonably well.

What trade news there was had bearish implications for an unenthusiastic market and with some evidence of liquidation noted in certain prominent stocks the resistance of prices generally proved none too stalwart. The smaller turnover, amounting to 1,148,524 shares, was the most encouraging feature of the session to traders who hoped that a stronger technical position was working the list toward a rally.

Wide Gaps Open.

The market was firm during the first hour, when shorts covered on the theory that the long but slow decline might well be approaching a turning point. However, vulnerable spots soon made their appearance and some rather wide gaps were opened.

General Electric was prominently soft, so was General Motors after its January sales figures had been published, showing a volume under December. Case and International Harvester issues made new lows, being joined by Chrysler, American Smelting and du Pont, among others. Several rails, including Santa Fe, Jersey Central and Chesapeake & Ohio, went through their previous minimums, while New York Central duplicated its low. Union Pacific, whose directors meet for dividend action this week, halved a 3 point decline with a last recovery.

United States Steel closed with a major fractional gain, its firmness apparently reflecting repurchases by shorts, who found the stock expensive to borrow. American Telephone, also facing a dividend meeting, was steadier than of late, perhaps because of reports that no change in the $9 annual rate is contemplated at this time. Estimates of cigarette production last month mentioned a decrease and leading tobacco shares lost a point or two.

Motors Sales Outlook.

The General Motors sales report indicated that the automobile industry had not enjoyed the pick-up which usually manifests itself after the first of the year, and that however favorable the reception given new models at the winter shows demand was still light.

Hesitancy of all buyers is also being reflected in the further sag of commodity prices, which, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' latest index, dropped nearly a point during the last week of January.

United States Steel Corporation's backlog as of January 31 will be published on Wednesday and, according to advance conjecture, will probably show another decline, the argument being that orders last month failed to support the small gain in production. A year ago unfilled orders rose 188,755 tons in January, to the highest volume attained in 1931. From April through December, however, there was a steady decrease, and the backlog at the year end was the smallest in 21 years.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 8 (A.P.).—Estimates from Washington that United States bins were overflowing with 75,000,000 bushels more wheat than last year pulled grain values downward today.

Inasmuch as there were 25,000,000 bushels of United States wheat in Canada, it was generally assumed that this country has now an excess of 100,000,000 bushels as compared with a year ago. Stock market declines exerted a further bearish influence, together with almost complete absence of damage reports from domestic winter wheat territory.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1⅛@⅜ under Saturday's finish; corn, ⅛@⅞ down; oats, ⅛@⅜ off, and provisions showing 5 to 10 cents drop.

Only during a brief interval at the start and again just before the close did wheat show any rallying power worth mention. A transient display of firmness in wheat at the opening was ascribed to upturns in Liverpool quotations due to a temporary advance of Wall street securities. Then came advices that the United States Department of Agriculture figures on world supplies of wheat appeared bearish, and this was followed by announcement of a big increase of the amount of wheat on ocean passage, both as compared with a week and a year ago.

It was not until near the end of trading that much notice was taken of bullish aspects. Washington estimates placing at only 9,000,000 bushels more than last year the aggregate of wheat available for export and carryover in the four chief producing countries, Argentina, Australia, Canada and the United States. Unofficial reports tended also to minimize earlier bearish estimates from Washington. That there is room for doubt as to the United States was facing possibilities of an extremely short crop this season, allowing for average winter killing and for an average yield per acre. Late rallies, however, were confined to fractions.

Corn and oats reflected the downward trend of wheat. Shipping demand here for corn was again relatively slack.

BOARD IS REELECTED BY PHONE COMPANY

General Electric Refrigerator to Spend $6,000,000 in Advertising Campaign.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

All directors of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. were reelected at the annual meeting of the company held in New York City yesterday. They are the following: William W. Everett, Robert V. Fleming, Edwin C. Graham, Gilbert Grosvenor, John Poole, Merle Thorpe, Lloyd B. Wilson, Marshal D. Sedam, Philip O. Coffin, of Washington, and Walter S. Gifford and Eugene S. Wilson, of New York.

Combined expenditures of approximately $6,000,000 for newspaper and national magazine advertising and sales promotion will be made during 1932 by the General Electric Refrigeration department, it was announced here today by C. L. McCrea, manager of the refrigeration department of the National Electrical Supply Co., distributors for General Electric refrigerators, as final plans were being made for the company's fourth annual spring convention, which opens here next Saturday at the Mayflower Hotel, and which will be known as the "25-Plan Convention."

More than 100 dealers, utility keymen, salesmen and executives will attend.

Large Sums for Advertising.

Several hundred thousands of dollars will be spent in daily newspapers, Mr. McCrea declared, in addition to other large sums which will be expended for direct mail, outdoor and radio advertising. The refrigeration department will participate in at least two, and probably three, of the week-day broadcasts sponsored by the General Electric Co. each noon, Eastern standard time, except Saturday, over a chain of 56 National Broadcasting Co. stations.

"With such an advertising background and with the buying public more cognizant than ever of the name, 'General Electric,'" Mr. McCrea asserted, "it is expected that refrigerator sales this year will surpass those of 1931, when General Electric refrigerator sales reached the highest peak in history.

"With an apparent gradual loosening of the public's purse strings as compared with 1931," Mr. McCrea said, "every effort will be made by members of our sales organizations to make 1932 a banner year.

Steffe on Program.

Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co., chairman entertainment committee of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking's banquet committee, announces that Edwin C. Steffe, of the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. will be on the entertainment program next Saturday evening, date of the chapter's banquet at the Willard Hotel.

Mr. Steffe has been connected with Washington chapter for many years and holds a standard certificate and also a graduate's certificate. He has been with the Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co. for the past seven years.

He is a barytone soloist at the National Cathedral and is a student of Myron Whitney. He was the District of Columbia winner of the Atwater Kent Foundation audition in 1931 and has appeared as a radio soloist. He is also a member of the Radio Tone Quartet. He was on the entertainment program of the District of Columbia Bankers Association convention held at Hot Springs last June and his singing made a decided impression on that group.

F. C. Palmer, of the National Peanut Corporation, who has been with that company for the past two years, has been appointed district supervisor over the States of New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, New York, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

FEBRUARY 9, 1907.

The State Department has received gloomy reports from its agents in Central America. It is reported that negotiations between Honduras and Salvador have come abruptly to an end and that war clouds are forming with the possibility of Mexico becoming involved in the trouble.

The President discussed the current Japanese crisis over the exclusion of Japanese students from the schools of San Francisco with Mayor Schmitz and members of the Board of Education. No members of Congress were invited to attend the sessions as was expected. Secretary Root of the State Department was there.

Members of the crew of the U. S. S. Louisiana visited the White House yesterday and presented Mrs. Roosevelt with a loving cup in appreciation of her kindnesses to the crew on the President's recent trip to the Canal Zone. Following the presentation, Quentin and Archie Roosevelt took the sailors for a drive around the city in one of the White House cars.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE REDEEMING GRACE: A TRAFFIC STUDY.

And more, I rather think;
He beats his wife, I understand,
And steeps himself in drink;
The people all denounce the man,
But I praise him instead—
For when he drives a motor car
He stops upon the "red!"

II.

He has no manners, and he's mean;
His record's very bad;
He likes to rob the kiddies' bank
And make the children sad;
He yanks the wings off butterflies
And pulls the kitten's hair,
But when a traffic light says stop—
He stops right then and there!

III.

He doesn't pay his bills, they say—
And files no income tax;
In matters of all honor he
Is very, very lax;
He's always itching for a fight
And has offensive ways,
But when the traffic light is set
Against him he obeys!

IV.

He robbed a widowed mother once
And burned an orphan's home;
He blew a safe out West, I hear,
And did a stretch in Nome;
He pokes his thumbs in babies' eyes
To ascertain the shock—
But when the traffic light is red
He doesn't steal a block!

V.

He kicks his mother, so they say,
And smacks his kids about;
He ties tin cans to bird dogs' tails
And frees them with a shout;
He's not much good, I will admit,
But some respect he earns—
For when the traffic light is red
He waits until it turns!

VI.

He would scoff at decent living,
He would laugh at honest work,
Industry he thought was silly
And he much preferred to shirk;
He was shiftless, low and vicious,
And a menace, so they said,
But he'd always pay attention
To a sign "Slow. School Ahead."

XII.

He was coarse and very ruthless
In his attitude toward life;
He once shot his little sister
And he'd often shot his wife;
He threw cobbles at the sheriff—
No such crimes can one condone—
But he never blew his siren
Going through a quiet zone.

EPITAPHS FOR WINTER PESTS

Oh, get the ax for Chester
And hack him into splinters;
He never ceases to deplore
"The good old-fashioned winters."

Prepare in haste the boiling oil
And toss therein in joy
The man who talks of snowstorms that
He got when but a boy.

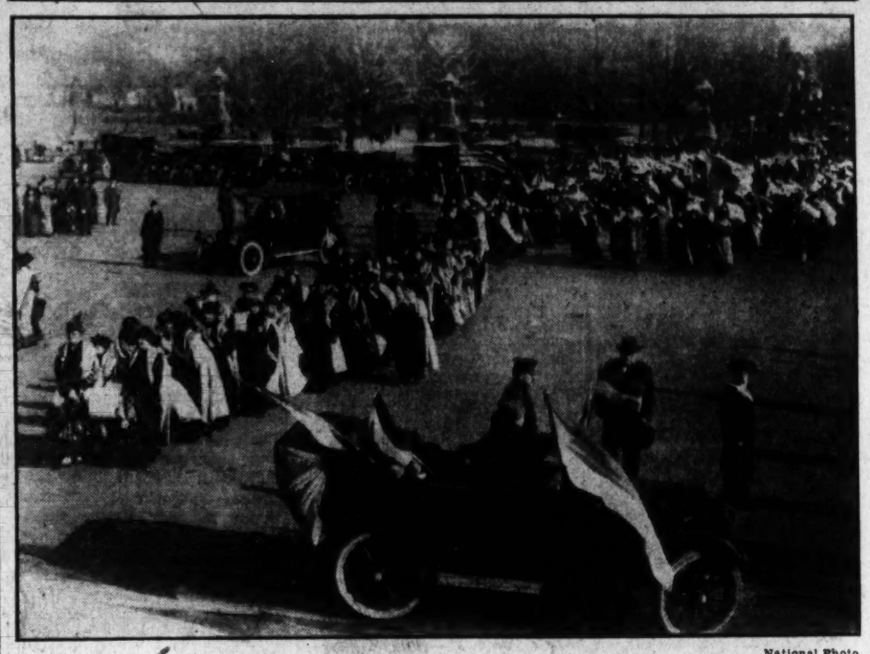
When Washington Was Younger—No. 189



National Photo.

Five thousand women participated in the parade and they were led by Mrs. Richard Coke Burleson, with floats and many bands of stirring music to emphasize their demand for suffrage through constitutional amendment. The floats showed the progress of the suffrage movement since its beginning in 1840, and after the parade tableaux and allegorical dances were given upon the steps of the Treasury, interpreting the dreams and ambitions of modern womanhood.

The demonstration was joined by "General" Rosalie Jones, with 200 weary, footsore pilgrims, who had hiked through mud, rain, snow and ridicule from New York. The cavalry was one of the most attractive sections of the procession, mostly young society women who were superbly mounted.

The outrageous lack of police protection given the marching women called forth much criticism. The women suffered insults and physical injury at the hands of hoodlums, their flags and banners were spat upon, lighted cigars and cigarettes were thrown upon them and the crowding in upon the line here and there caused more than 100 persons to be so trampled and bruised as to require hospital treatment. The contrast between the calm orderliness of March 4 and the extreme disorder of the day previous was so marked that the matter became subject for presidential appeal.

The main bulk of protection for the women marchers fell upon the Boy Scouts, who were assisting the police in holding the lines back. They acted so courageously that medals were given all who participated.

INTRUDER ESCAPES AS NEIGHBORS JOIN CHASE BY VICTIMS

Attacks Woman Whose Cries Bring Her Two Sons to Rescue.

$2,000 IN GEMS FOUND IN FLEEING MAN'S COAT

Revolver Carried by Robber Also Is Discovered After Wild, Futile Pursuit.

A robber, surprised as he ransacked a house in the fashionable Cleveland Park section last night, attacked an elderly woman, put up a terrific struggle against her two sons and after abandoning part of his loot, escaped through an alley with several residents of the community in pursuit.

Mrs. John Phillips, 70 years old, entered the kitchen door of her home at 4300 Thirty-seventh street northwest, shortly after 9 o'clock. She attempted to switch on an electric light only to find the current off. As she groped her way through the darkness toward a front room, she was suddenly seized from behind.

A gruff voice, muffled against her ear, ordered:

Screams for Help.

Mrs. Phillips, who a moment previous had left her two sons to put their automobile in the garage in the rear of the house, screamed for help. Her cries were heard by the sons, J. Gordon Phillips, 40 years old, a former member of the Capitol Police Force, and Joseph Phillips, 30 years old.

As they ran toward the house, Mrs. Phillips shouted that the man was attempting to escape by a front door. The younger of the two brothers ran to the front and met the intruder.

The two grappled. As Joseph came to the aid of his brother, the robber momentarily escaped from their grasp and ran to a rear porch. He was overtaken, and during the melee that followed, the three men rolled down a long flight of steps.

Hits Him With Stick.

Mrs. Phillips, meanwhile, obtained a long stick, and as her sons held the man on the ground, hit him several blows on the head. This, however, failed to stop the intruder, and he again broke away.

He was once more cornered near the garage. Apparently no match for the two brothers, the man finally tore from their grasp and escaped along an alley as neighbors, aroused by the men's cries, hurried to the scene. The robber outdistanced pursuers after a chase of several blocks.

The brothers, both injured, searched the house and found jewelry valued at more than $2,000 missing. A pistol and suit case containing Mrs. Phillips' furs, were found in a downstairs hallway. The robber, who found these in an upper room, left them in his haste to escape.

A short time after police cars reached the scene, Paul Waring, of 3637 Veasey street northwest, brought to the house an overcoat he found on the sidewalk a block away.

Revolver In Pocket.

It was identified by the brothers as one worn by the intruder, who they said was a colored man about 6 feet tall and weighing about 190 pounds.

In the pocket of the coat was found a revolver, jewelry taken from the Phillips' home and other valuables, which police say he must have obtained in a series of holdups.

It was learned the robber entered the house by using a duplicate key to the rear door. All other doors and windows had not been tampered with, Mrs. Phillips said.

C. H. McCarty, who lives next door to the Phillips and who chased the robber, told police that locks on his house had recently been tampered with and expressed the belief the thief had first attempted to enter his home.

Mrs. Phillips and her sons were near collapse and were forced to receive medical attention.

Another Holdup Attempt.

A Negro armed with a gun attempted to hold up Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Powers, of 3514 W place northwest shortly before the burglar entered the Phillips home, police were told. Mrs. Powers screamed and the man fled.

As police cars searched the neighborhood for the man a taxicab driver reported a Negro wearing no coat and answering the same description forced him at pistol point to drive three blocks from Connecticut avenue and Albemarle street, to a thick patch of woods. The man disappeared in the thicket, he said.

Mrs. June Lauck told police she was awakened early in the morning by robbers who entered her bedroom and took $42. One of the men, she said, struck her as he left.

Woman Detained In Shooting Case

Is Ordered Held Under $1,000 Bond on Charge of Assault.

Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court yesterday ordered Mrs. Vivian V. Pepper, 20 years old, of 626 Twenty-second street northwest, held under $1,000 bond on a charge of assault with a dangerous weapon.

Testimony at the hearing showed that Mrs. Pepper had fired one shot through the door of a home at 317 Third street southeast, where she was minding some children. Robert McNeely, 1726 Nineteenth street northwest, whose face was slightly scratched by splinters of wood from the door and who is said to have been the target for the shot, said he had called to take Mrs. Pepper home. He said she told him to come back later, and when he appeared a few minutes later, a shot was fired through the door where he was standing.

UNUSUAL BACKDROP OF NEPTUNE'S THRONE

Bal Boheme Is Proclaimed Success by Gay Hundreds

Many of Army and Navy Set Attend Function; Mrs. Andrews Wins Beauty Prize, While Mrs. Wheelwright Gets Costume Award.

Amid a riotous array of color and scenes depicting the glamorous splendor of King Neptune's Court, the Bal Boheme—annual pageant presented under the auspices of the Arts Club of Washington—was proclaimed an outstanding success last night as hundreds of gay Washingtonians, decked in costumes in keeping with the theme, gathered at the Willard Hotel.

Among the large crowd attending were a number of Army and Navy officers and their wives, who came to the function from the White House, where the President had held a reception last night for both branches of the service.

First prize for the most beautiful girl was awarded to Mrs. Eliphalet Andrews, who was attired in a costume representing a black pearl. The second prize was given Mrs. Frank Mish, who was costumed as a mermaid. Honorable mention went to Miss Lisa Gardiner. Mrs. Ethel Wheelwright, as a sponge girl, received first award for the most unusual costume

The review was under the direction of Mrs. Marie Moore Forrest and Mr. Percy J. Burrell. The music was arranged by J. Milnor Dorey.

"Neptune's Review" was presented in two parts, "Poetry of the Sea" and "Fantasy of the Sea."

The ball opened at 10 o'clock, dancing continuing until early this morning. The small ballroom of the Willard was devoted to the cabaret and its special program.

The President of the Arts Club and Mrs. Fulton Lewis had with them in their box Miss Nellie Bevear, of Lynn, Mass., and Percy Mackaye, the famous author.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Frederick C. Billard were the ranking guests of Miss Lou A. Wands in her box. She had also in her party Mrs. Nathan W. McChesney, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris, Mrs. Maud Whitman and Miss Estelle Wands. Mrs. Whitman entertained at dinner for the party preceding the ball. Miss Estelle Wands was attired as a Turkish maiden, Mrs. Whitman as seaweed and pearls, and others in the party were also in fancy dress.

The Counselor of the German Embassy and Frau Leitner, the Second Secretary and Frau Lohmann, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Le Fevre were guests of Mrs. Carl Droop in her box at the ball.

Representative and Mrs. Albert Johnson, of Washington; Representative and Mrs. Carl Chindblom, former Ambassador to Peru; Mr. Miles Poindexter, and Judge and Mrs. Oscar E. Bland, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jay Staley in their box.

The cabaret performance, which was continuous from midnight until 3 a. m., was given in the small ballroom under the direction of Miss Marjorie Lowe. ARCHITECT RUSHES SANITARIUM PLANS

Children's Tuberculosis Hospital Drawings Expected to Be Ready in April.

The municipal architect's office is working overtime in an effort to have all plans for the Children's Tuberculosis Sanitarium completed by the middle of April, S. B. Walsh, assistant in charge, said yesterday, following a meeting of the special committee organized some time ago to effect an agreement on design.

Bids have already been received on the first unit of the project—that is, the Nurses' Home—but because they exceeded the amount of money available, all are to be rejected and the design is to be modified slightly. The Commissioners are expected to reject the bids today.

Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, president of the Washington Tuberculosis Association, criticized the delay in commencing the project after a conference in the office of Health Office William C. Fowler. She recalled that the sanitarium was authorized by Congress in 1929, and that President Coolidge signed the bill in March of the same year.

The same Congress, which authorized expenditure of $500,000, appropriated $1,500 to make a survey before preliminary plans were drafted. The site was purchased in August, 1930, after an appropriation of $75,000 had been made, and after the authorization had been increased to $625,000; but it was not until April, 1931, that a consulting architect was employed, and Maj. H. L. Robb, then Assistant Engineer Commissioner, was assigned to supervise construction.

Following a controversy over the design an agreement was reached last August. Since that time the municipal architect's office has been devoting what time it could spare to preparation of the plans.

Man Is Out on Bond In Attack on Police

Will Be Tried by Jury on February 24 on Charge of Assault.

Lawrence McNally, 23 years old, was released from police custody on a $1,000 bond yesterday for trial by jury on February 24, on a charge of assaulting Policeman John P. Riley, of the Traffic Bureau, and his brother, W. E. Riley, of the Park Police.

McNally was being placed under arrest by John Riley when he allegedly became obstreperous, and the other Riley, passing by in an automobile, stopped to help his brother. Both the Rileys were mauled before they got their man behind the bars at the Sixth Precinct.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt deferred action on drunk and disorderly charges against McNally until the assault charges are disposed of.

Driver of Death Auto Ordered Held for Jury

Joseph Minton, colored, 20, operator of a machine which on January 31, crashed into another car at Connecticut avenue and Q street northwest, and fatally injured Mrs. Clara Washburn, 36, of Alexandria, Va., who was riding with her husband, Leslie Washburn, yesterday was ordered held for the action of the grand jury by Coroner Joseph D. Rogers.

Mrs. Washburn was rushed to Emergency Hospital, where it was found she was suffering from multiple cuts and bruises and several fractures. Despite efforts of physicians, she died Saturday.

FOUR DISTRICT BILLS PASS; HOUSE VOTES BICENTENNIAL UNIT

ASSESSOR WITNESS ACT IS OPPOSED BY BOYLAN

Protecting Trade Union Labels Is Among Moves Won in Day's Victories.

The District held field day in the House of Representatives yesterday, four local measures, including the much-amended bill to incorporate the District Bicentennial Commission, passing the body in record time.

Three bills passed with Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas, in the Speaker's chair, and Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Democrat), Maryland, substituting for Chairman Mary T. Norton, of the House District committee.

Mrs. Norton was ill yesterday. With Representative Blanton in the chair, 50 per cent of the opposition to the bicentennial bill was automatically removed from the floor. It was Mr. Blanton and Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, who were chiefly responsible for the defeat of the measure when Mrs. Norton presented her first District bill last District day.

Bloom Gives Aid.

Representative Sol Bloom (Democrat), New York, associate director of the United States Bicentennial Commission, who fought drastic cuts in national bicentennial appropriations, was forced to swing into action again yesterday before a favorable vote was had on the local bicentennial measure

Representative LaGuardia wanted assurance that high grand stand prices would not be charged for the fete opening here on February 22. Mr Bloom replied that if Congress would appropriate $100,000, it would not be necessary to make any charge for seats. The only other alternative, he said, was to pass the bill, giving the local commission authority to raise funds by letting concessions.

"You've got to look at it as a business proposition," said Mr. Bloom.

LaGuardia Opposes View.

"I can't look at the celebration of George Washington's birthday anniversary from that point of view," replied Mr. LaGuardia.

But the bill passed, as did three other local measures, authorizing the District tax assessor to testify in condemnation proceedings; relieving the Commissioners of routine ministerial duties, and protecting trade union labels against counterfeit and illegal uses.

There was some opposition to the bill qualifying the tax assessor as a witness in condemnation proceedings from Representative John J. Boylan (Democrat), New York, who said he thought it unfair to the citizen trying to get a price for his property Similar opposition developed previously in the Federation of Citizens Association.

One Dissenting Vote.

But when Representative Boylan called for a division on the vote, the count showed 54 in favor and 1 in opposition to the bill—Representative Boylan casting the dissenting vote.

The bill to incorporate the District Bicentennial Commission, after its defeat two weeks ago in the House, was amended in committee to preclude any director of the organization from personally profiting through concessions. Amendments prescribed that all of the commission's profits be paid back into the United States Treasury

In the debate on the bicentennial bill, Representative John Q. Tilson (Republican), Connecticut, a member of the United States Bicentennial Commission, and former majority leader of the House, joined with Representative Bloom in explaining how the local bicentennial commission fits into the national plan.

Pitts to Fight Back On Felony Charges

Convicted Smith Co. Head to Resist Remaining Indictments.

G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the F. H. Smith Co., now serving a fourteen-year sentence and a year-and-a-day sentence, both of which he is appealing, yesterday signified his intention of fighting back at the Government and the three felony indictments still pending against him.

Pitts, convicted a year ago last December, is preparing to contest his convictions in the District Court of Appeals and yesterday he sent word to the District Supreme Court that Theodore F. Van Doren, of New York City, and Sidney Roche, of this city, would represent him in all matters.

Pitts' fourteen-year sentence arose from his conviction on a charge of conspiring to embezzle money from the Smith company. The other term was imposed by Justice F. D. Letts, who found him guilty of criminal contempt of court in that he introduced spurious authorizations into his defense at his first trial.

BILL FOR EXTENDING NATIONAL BANK LAW IN CAPITAL OPPOSED

FEAR ABUSE OF POWER BY FUTURE OFFICIALS

Real Estate Man Objects to Terms of Measures on Deeds of Trust.

Extension of laws regulating national banks to other banks and trust companies in the District, was vigorously opposed by the District Bankers Association at hearings yesterday before the banking and insurance subcommittee of the Senate District committee.

Opposition developed over a provision to broaden the Comptroller of the Currency's authority contained in Senator Arthur Capper's bill to weave tighter the restrictions on banks, trust companies and building and loan associations in the District. The provisions would empower the comptroller to apply national bank laws wherever he deemed them needed locally.

Francis G. Addison, jr., who appeared for the District Bankers Association, indorsed the bill in principle, but opposed the section broadening the comptroller's regulatory powers. He said local financiers had nothing to fear from the present administration, but pointed out the comptroller's office is subject to change and a later official might abuse the authority.

Would Amend Deeds Bills.

Extensive amendments to bills offered by Senators John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, and William H. King (Democrat), Utah, to regulate release of deeds of trust was urged both by Mr. Addison and John A. Petty, executive secretary of the Washington Real Estate Board. Chairman Blaine asked Mr. Petty to draft a new bill, incorporating his suggestions covering the technical procedure in release of deeds.

He asked Mr. Addison, in conference with F. G. Awalt, Acting Comptroller of the Currency, to redraft the objectionable provision, limiting the national banking provisions that might be generally applicable to "specific categories." Chairman Blaine will call another meeting of the committee to vote on the measures.

Mr. Awalt, at the outset of the hearing, placed the Comptroller's approval on the Capper bill. He said it was aimed primarily at preventing foreign banking corporations from indiscriminately entering the local field He said it would prohibit building and loan associations from incorporating here without the consent of the Comptroller, restrict companies not engaged in banking from using the term "bank;" and permit banks to go into voluntary liquidation. The bill further provides severe penalties for circulating malicious rumors about financial institutions.

Partnership Restrictions Hit.

Roger J. Whiteford, representing W. B. Hibbs & Co., objected to certain restrictions on partnerships engaged in the banking business in the District, which he said would force many brokerage houses out of business. Mr. Awalt said the Comptroller did not seek to regulate the brokerage business, and offered an amendment overcoming the objections.

Mr. Petty proposed a number of amendments to the bills for regulating release of deeds of trusts. He suggested that utilities' realty securities, already regulated, be excluded, and that bonding provisions in the bill be considerably modified.

Mr. Addison said the bills would operate to limit institutions acting as trustee of trust mortgages virtually to five local trust companies, which would be forced to set up separate departments and charge fees for their services. He said the bill would make refinancing "unattractive to the money lender" and work a hardship on the small home owner.

William Montgomery, president of Acacia Mutual Life Association, urged passage of a bill to permit his company to do a general life insurance business, and change its name to the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co.

U. S. Official Addresses Foreign Service Group

Foreign service fraternity men of George Washington University heard an address on immigration problems from Walter Husband, Assistant Secretary of Labor, last night at the S. A. E. Fraternity house on Sixteenth street. About 40 foreign service men were present.

Mr. Husband traced the Government's immigration policies since the beginning of immigration up to the present time, describing in detail the present labor problems. His address was made at a meeting preceding the annual banquet of the foreign service classmen.

New Year Joy For Chinese Is Gone in Fraud

The Chinese new year has dark prospects for Coy Num Lee, who conducts a laundry at 823 Kennedy street northwest. Though his brethren are dodging bombs around Shanghai, Lee has not escaped, even though he is far from the Orient.

Lee thought he drove a good bargain yesterday. A man came into his shop and asked him to call for laundry. Another man came in and asked for paper to wrap up five "Hudson Seal Furs." The first man looked in admiration at the furs and offered to pay $30 a piece for them.

"Nothing doing," said the fur owner, "I have racial prejudices."

The first man persuaded Lee to buy the furs. Lee handed over $30 in cash, a 15-jewel watch and a few other articles of jewelry to make up the sales price of $70 for the five furs. The first man offered to come back later in the day pay Lee $150 for the furs, which would net Lee a profit of $80, which isn't bad pay for a few minutes effort.

With the stolidity of patience that is characteristic of the Oriental, Lee waited and waited some more, and then gave up in exasperation. It finally dawned on him that perhaps something was wrong. Closer scrutiny of the furs indicated that they might be the pelts of black cats, which they undoubtedly are. Lee appealed to police. He still has the furs. If you say "Happy New Year" to Lee, he just thumps his iron on the pressing board and says nothing.

LEGION DRIVE URGES CAPITAL AIR GUARDS

George Stone Says Government Should Utilize Services of Expert Pilots.

The District of Columbia Air Legion yesterday launched a campaign to establish a National Guard Aviation Squadron in the city. Contending that the country as a whole is falling behind in aviation progress, and that the Capital City in particular has no adequate reserve aviation squadron, George M. Stone, president of the legion, said that members of the legion consider it their "patriotic duty to carry on this battle, and will do so until they meet with success."

"Within the legion we have 75 aviation pilots, all of whom have learned to fly out of their own earnings. Also in the legion, we have several men who have qualified as aviation mechanics, airplane mechanics and riggers.

"We believe that the War Department should utilize these young men as the nucleus of an aviation squadron to be stationed in the Nation's Capital. Figures supplied by the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce show that there are 272 airplane pilots of which 206 are transport pilots, the highest rating issued. Six hold limited commercial licenses and 60 are private pilots.

Hillcrest Plans Booklet on Fete

Bicentennial Pamphlet to Detail History of Community.

Decision to publish a bicentennial celebration booklet detailing the history of the community was made by the Hillcrest Citizens Association, meeting last night in the East Washington Heights Baptist Church, Alabama avenue and Branch road southeast.

The Hillcrest group voted that the pamphlet would be written by a committee of the association and would tell of the development and historic associations of the community. An account of events affecting Fort Baker, which is located in the Hillcrest section, will be incorporated in the pamphlet.

The public utility committee of the association reported that it had obtained from the Public Utilities Commission a move to have the Capital Traction Co. provide 30-minute bus service on the Pennsylvania avenue southeast loop.

7th Street Work Asked By Stanton Park Group

The Stanton Park Citizens Association last night ordered its committee on streets and sidewalks to urge the District Commissioners to have Seventh street northeast improved from Maryland avenue to G street. It also decided to petition Traffic Director William A. Van Duzer to install a light at second street and Massachusetts avenue northeast.

The association adopted a resolution providing for the revision of its constitution and by-laws. In the absence of William Keller, James P. Farmer presided at the meeting, which was held in the Peabody School.

CITY HEADS PROPOSE CHANGE IN BILL FOR TROLLEYS' MERGER

EXPENSE OF $350,000 EACH YEAR INVOLVED

Measure as Now Written Would Force Increase in Levy Rate.

The District Commissioners late yesterday proposed an amendment to the Public Utilities Commission's street railway merger bill to relieve District taxpayers of some $350,000 additional annual expense and a consequent raise in taxes.

Reporting the Senate District committee on the measure, the Commissioners reiterated their approval of the general principle of the proposed merger, but objected to the shifting of the burden of repaving between street car tracks from the railways to the District Government. They agreed, however, that the District should rightfully assume the $125,000 annual cost of paying railway crossing policemen.

Division of Repairing Costs.

Instead of relieving the street car companies of three-fourths of initial cost of paving near its tracks as well as three-fourths of the cost of repaving, the Commissioners proposed that only the former provision and the relief from maintenance and replacement of bridges be retained.

This would mean that the street railways would have to pay only three-fourths of the cost of all new paving where their tracks are involved, but would have to pay the entire cost of repaving of that section of streets "lying within 2 feet from and exterior to the tracks" of the street car companies. Street railways would also be required to pave intersections with streets or avenues in a similar manner as they do at present.

Referring to the added cost of approximately $350,000, which the repaving provision would shift to Washington taxpayers, the commissioners said: "We can state definitely that the passage of the legislation would require an increase in the general taxes, wholly apart from other causes."

Would Fix Proportion.

Should the merger bill be adopted with the commissioners' amendment, the District government would also assume an additional $40,000 cost for repaving together with the entire cost of the paving on bridges. As this last expense is variable, no estimate of the annual expense could be given.

Regarding this latter provision, the report said it "would definitely establish a proportion of the cost of construction and replacement of the bridge structure which is very much more favorable to the street railway companies than the provisions of previous legislative enactments."

Hearing This Morning.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech and William McK. Clayton will defend their change of views on the traction merger bill at hearings at 10 o'clock this morning before Representative Loring M. Black's utilities subcommittee of the House District Committee.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission, recently wrote committee members that their present opposition to the commission's merger bill does not check with the stand they took before the last Congress.

Views of the District Commissioners, against shifting all of the burden of paving and repaving streets between street car tracks, may also be presented at this hearing. The Senate District committee will resume merger hearings Friday afternoon.

Avoidable Illness and Death Cost Billions, Ransdell Says

Financial loss alone from preventable sickness and death in the United States amounts to more than $3,000,000,000 annually. Preventable deaths cause losses amounting to $1,500,000,000; preventable illness, $600,000,000, and decreased efficiency induced by physical defects and minor ailments at least $1,000,000,000.

In the near future doctors will be employed to prevent people from becoming sick, instead of curing their patients after disease develops. This will not interfere with the profession, but would make it more important and largely increase the number of doctors because of the increase in the number of patients. Health work has long been and is becoming to an even greater extent a conserver of human life.

These were the outstanding facts developed yesterday by former Senator Joseph E. Ransdell, of Louisiana, now executive director of the Conference Board of the National Institute of Health, speaking before the Council of Social Agencies at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest. The meeting was held under the auspices of the health committee of the council, of which Miss Gertrude H. Bowling is chairman.

He outlined the purposes of the National Health Institute, created by an act of Congress in 1930, which is is under the administrative direction and control of the Surgeon General, for the special purpose of scientific research to ascertain the cause, prevention and cure of diseases affecting human beings. He explained that it does not create any new bureaus or commissions, but utilizes existing Government machinery, provides for the enlargement of the former Hygienic Laboratory, which came into existence in 1901 by congressional action, and provides $750,000 for the erection of additional buildings.
